KIDNAPERS IN L.A. TRAPPED; WOMAN SAFE

Posse Rescues Abducted Matron From Lonely Canyon Ranch House Where She Had Been Held Five Days

Phone Message Leads to Arrest of One Man, Cousin is Caught in Cabin; Husband Goes With Police to House

LOS ANGELES Jan. 31.—Mrs. Gladys Witherell 23 year-old wife of O S. Witherell head of an investment company who disappeared from her home here last Tuesday night, was brought back to Los Angeles early today after Los Angeles police and deputy sheriffs had rescued her from two alleged kidnapers near Corona, Riverside county

I want my baby I want my baby!" she cried over and over again during the two hour drive from the cabin on a lonely sheep ranch in Santa Ana canyon five miles east of Corona and about seventy miles southeast of Los Angeles where she was found.

Mrs Witherell was unharmed Two men who gave their names as A J Carr and Floyd Carr cousins were arrested

The officers said the Carrs confessed they had ill feeling toward the woman s father in law A J Witherell because of a transaction involving a boat, and that they kidnaped Mrs Witherell both to obtain revenge and ransom money of which it was said they had demanded $20 000

TELEPHONE OPERATOR BRINGS ABOUT ARREST

The quick wittedness of a telephone operator was back of the discovery and the arrest of the Carrs

While she was on duty late last night a call for the residence of the missing woman s husband O S Witherell, head of an investment company came into the exchange from a pay station in the Union Stage depot at Fifth and Los Angeles streets She became suspicious and delayed making the connection as long as possible In the seconds thus gained she called Central police station and told the detectives of the call

The detective flying squadron speeded to the station and arrested A J Carr just as he was concluding a delayed conversation which he had promised relatives in a letter sent them last Saturday He told the officers a disconnected story but they nevertheless were soon convinced they had made no mistake in arresting him They said they also searched his automobile found outside the stage depot and in it found several bottles of chloroform and other other articles they believed had been used in decoying the woman from home

COMPLETE CONFESSION OBTAINED, POLICE SAY

Later the man was taken to Boyle Heights police station where, the officers said he made a complete confession declaring he had passed all of Saturday night on the road between Corona and Lisinor also in Riverside county, afraid to come into Los Angeles to communicate with the Witherells as he had agreed by letter

The officers said the man declared his cousin, Floyd Carr, was the brains' of the pair

A J Carr was alleged to have stated Floyd Carr went to the Witherell home in the Hollywood district of Los Angeles early last Tuesday night and told her a friend had been injured in an automobile accident and was called for Mrs. Witherell

The young woman started with him to what she believed was an accident, leaving her 18-months-old baby with friends The police and many private detectives were unable to trace her more than twenty feet from her doorway

Floyd Carr, it was charged escorted her to an automobile where A. J Carr was waiting

When she became suspicious the man first arrested was quoted he and his cousin chloroformed her

They took her A J Carr was said to have confessed, to the small house on the sheep ranch near Corona and put her in a room said to contain only a cot and two blankets

They bought candy for her and treated her "with every respect," Mrs Witherell said later

After the police had grilled A. J Carr for some time they said he promised to lead them to the place where she was found

Shortly after 2 o clock this morning the police and a number of deputy sheriffs and the young woman's husband and father started in automobiles for Corona. They had guns and ammunition and were prepared for any emergency

Arriving at the sheep ranch the officers surrounded the house They slowly closed in and at a signal crashed through doors and windows.

CAUGHT OFF GUARD BY SUDDEN ATTACK

A man said to be Floyd Carr was caught off his guard by the suddenness of the attack and was quickly handcuffed

Mrs. Witherell and her husband rushed into each other's arms She sobbed and called him Lambie Lambie " over and over again

The scene between her and her father, John C Kratz was as affecting.

The rescue of Mrs. Witherell was

GERMANY TO REFUSE TO PAY DEMAND

Intention of Government to Reject Terms of Allies Is Declared, Unless Material Reduction in Sums Made

Reichstag Suddenly Adjourns and Situation Growing Out of Reparations to Entente Reported to Be Serious

By CARL D GROAT
United Press Staff Correspondent

BERLIN Jan 31.—Immediately after a session of the reichstag today it was reported the German government intends to refuse to pay the $5s 000 000 000 indemnity demanded by the allies unless their proposals are materially altered

The reichstag suddenly adjourned after a short session because of the seriousness of the situation

When the reichstag convened Foreign Minister Von Simons announced that a long note had arrived from Paris which said that a unanimous agreement had been reached by the Allies on the reparation questions

Von Simons asked the Reichstag to put the question of payment of the indemnity ahead in the order of business so that it may be disposed of at once.

The reichstag then adjourned until tomorrow

Caucuses of the various parties were immediately called to decide what positions shall be taken

TERMS OF ALLIES HANDED GERMANS

PARIS Jan 31.—The document signed by the supreme council by which the reparations and disarmament decisions of the allies will be conveyed to Germany was delivered yesterday to Charles Bergmann head of the German delegation here with a letter of transmittal marked Confidential

The letter of transmittal says Sir The allied conference has taken the following decisions

As regards the disarmament of Germany the allied governments have approved the conclusions formulated in the note attached

As regards reparations the allied governments have approved the proposals formulated in that document also attached

The allied governments have formed the hope that the German government will not place the allies under the necessity of envisaging the grave situation which will be created if Germany persists in failing to meet her obligations

Qualified delegates of the German government will be invited to a meeting in London in February with delegates of the allied governments

PAYMENTS ARE FIXED

The reparations notes reads

Article One—For the purpose of satisfying the obligations imposed upon her by Articles 231 and 232 of the treaty of Versailles Germany shall pay

Fixed annuities payable half yearly in equal parts as follows (a) Two annuities of 2 000 000 000 gold marks from May 1 1921 to May 1923 (b) three annuities of 3 000 000 000 gold marks from May 1 1923 to May 1 1926 (c) three annuities of 4 000 000 000 gold marks from May 1 1926 to May 1 1928 (d) three annuities of 6 000 000 000 gold marks from May 1 1928 to May 1 1931 (e) thirty one annuities of 6 000 000 000 gold marks from May 1 1932 to May 1 1963

Forty one annuities running from May 1 1921 equal in amount to 12 per cent advalorem of German exports payable in gold two months after the close of each half year

To secure complete fulfillment of paragraph 2 above, Germany will give to the reparations commission every facility to verify the amount of the German exports

ADVANCE PAYMENTS MAY BE MADE

Article 2—The German government will transmit forthwith to the reparations commission notes to bearer payable at the dates specified in Article 1 The amount shall be equivalent to each of the half yearly sums payable.

Article 3—Germany shall be at liberty to make payments in advance on account of the fixed portion of the sum owing

Advance payments shall be applied in the reduction of the fixed annuities For this purpose annuities shall be discounted at the rate of 5 per cent until May 1 1923 6 per cent from May 1 1923 to May 1 1926 5 per cent from May 1 1926

Article 4—Germany shall not directly embark on any credit operation outside her own territory without approval of the reparations commission

Article 5—In pursuance of Article 238 of the treaty of Versailles all assets and revenues of the Empire and of the German States shall be applicable to insure execution of the provisions of the arrangement

The proceeds of the German customs including the proceeds of all import and export duties and of any tax subsidiary thereto shall constitute special security for the execution of the agreement.

No modification which might diminish the proceeds of the customs shall be made without approval of the reparations commission All German customs receipts must be effected on behalf of the German government by a receiver general of Germans customs appointed by the

CONVICTION OF BERGER IS REVERSED

Supreme Court Decides Landis Should Not Have Heard Case, One Justice Loud in Praise of Trial Judge

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

WASHINGTON Jan 31 — The conviction of Victor L Berger and four others members of the Socialist party for violation of the Espionage Act was reversed today by the supreme Court on the ground that Judge Landis should not have heard the suit after his eligibility had been attacked Those convicted with Berger in the federal court at Chicago were adolph Germer national secretary of the party Wm L Krise editor of the Young Socialist Magazine L Louis Lagdahl and Irwin St John Tucker

Berger and the other four men were convicted under the section prohibiting attempts to cause insubordination and disloyalty in the Navy and military forces and sentences ranging from 10 to 20 years were imposed

The appeal was brought to the Supreme Court on the ground that Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis who presided at the trial had shown personal bias and prejudice against the defendants because of their nationality

The court divided 6 to 3 Justice Day Pitney and McReynolds dissenting

The effect of the court s decision is to remand the cases to the Appellate division which will issue orders for reversal and a new trial before some other federal judge

McReynolds added to the dissenting opinion a strong approbation of Judge Landis' sentiments as merely showing his detestation of the Hunnish warfare which was being backed by compatriots in America under our too indulgent laws

The majority opinion held that the affidavit of prejudice filed by Berger against Judge Landis was sufficient to have caused his withdrawal from the case and that Judge Landis himself was not justified in passing upon the affidavit

Justice Day who filed a dissenting opinion held however that the mere filing of an affidavit should not be accepted as sufficient evidence of the unfairness of the judge

The Berger affidavit should not be taken at face value he said because the facts therein had been made solely on information and belief and no attempt was made to substantiate them

CASE OF BERGER ATTRACTS ATTENTION

Next to that of Eugene V Debs the case of Victor Berger publisher of the Milwaukee Leader a Socialist paper attracted more attention than any other brought by the government under war time espionage act Berger was accused of disloyalty and was convicted at Chicago on January 8 1919 Subsequently he was twice denied a seat in the House of Representatives by that body and the third time he offered for re election he was defeated

Four other leaders of the Socialist party were convicted with the Milwaukee publisher They were Adolph Germer secretary of the National Socialist party William L Krose editor of the Young Socialist Irwin St John Tucker writer and speaker and Louis Lagdahl editor of the American Socialist. Sentences ranging from ten to twenty years were imposed by Federal Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis

The five defendants were charged specifically with having conspired to obstruct recruiting and interfere with the successful prosecution of the war against Germany through the delivery of speeches and the circulation of articles intended to cause insubordination disloyalty and refusal of duty among the naval and military forces of the United States Numerous articles written by Berger for the Leader were presented as evidence against him

WRIT NOT GIVEN FAIR TRIAL, CLAIMED

The appeal of Berger and his fellow party members came to the Supreme court on a certificate which was issued when they alleged that they had not been given a fair trial because of personal bias and prejudice on the part of Judge Landis Alleged remarks made by Judge Landis on the occasion of passing sentence in a somewhat similar case were quoted as showing he reviewed with disfavor all persons of German or Austrian birth Judge Landis denied the accuracy of the quotations and declared that what he had said was directed at the individual with whom he was then dealing

BERGER HAS NOTHING TO RETRACT

MILWAUKEE Wis Jan 31 — "The conspiracy has failed and I have nothing to retract from anything I have written or said about the war or about those who pushed us into this war declared Victor L Berger today when apprised by the Associated Press of the decision of the Supreme Court in its reversal of the decision in the case against Berger who was tried before Judge Landis of Chicago on charges of violating the war time espionage act.

"Denied, W. W." Written on Debs' Appeal by Wilson

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON, Jan 31—President Wilson has denied commutation of sentence for Eugene V Debs, Socialist leader, the White House announced today Attorney General Palmer recommended to the President that Debs, who is now serving a sentence for violation of the espionage act, should be released on February 12

The President s action was swift and terse Attorney General Palmer submitted his recommendation for clemency on Saturday night It went to the President this morning for consideration

He wrote across the face of the papers merely the words 'Denied W W., and ordered it returned to the department of justice

So far as is known the President gave no reason for turning down the attorney general's recommendation His consideration of the petition must necessarily have been brief as the papers did not reach him until this afternoon

Johnson Seeks Immediate Data On Japan Pact

Senator Demands Colby Give Full Information of Settlement Terms

WASHINGTON Jan 31.—A demand for immediate information on the proposed settlement for the Japanese controversy over immigration and the California land laws was voiced today by Senator Johnson of California

Replying to a statement by Secretary of State Colby declaring that the proposed settlement of the controversy would not deprive California of her rights without a hearing Senator Johnson said

I am constrained to believe that Mr Colby is in error "

The matter is far beyond any personal controversy Senator Johnson added The question is what has been done on the subject in which the west is most interested and which most intimately concerns the west's future And the west should be told forthwith

NO GHOST DANCE, COLBY PROTESTS

If Senator Johnson expects to do a ghost dance on this subject he s got to do it without me as a partner Secretary Colby declared today in an informal statement replying to the California Senator s latest statement on the proposed American Japanese treaty

Referring to his own statement of last week and Secretary Colby's comment upon it Senator Johnson said

The secretary of state says that my comment upon the tentative agreements made by Ambassadors Shidehara and Morris is based upon an erroneous assumption and that the dangers which I suggest do not present themselves in the agreements My comment was induced by press reports purporting to emanate from authoritative sources From these I stated a treaty had been tentatively agreed upon which in effect repealed the California anti alien laws The secretary says in substance this is not so Either the press reports are erroneous or Mr Colby is misinformed

I BELIEVE COLBY WRONG, SAYS JOHNSON

I am constrained to believe that Colby is in error

But a controversy between the secretary and myself as to what is contained in the report of Ambassador Morris is of no consequence The contents of the report are all important. Colby has the report The people of the west to whom this subject is of paramount importance are entitled to know what that report contains Yesterday it was discussed at length in Japan Our people should not have to await its details through Japanese channels.

It is not sufficient that the representatives from California or the foreign relations committee under a promise of secrecy should finally know what disposition is intended to be made of the agricultural lands of California and other western states The people of these western states are entitled to know it and entitled to know it now

The grave question here is not whether I am right in saying that a treaty has been presented which in effect repeals our alien land laws or whether Colby is right in saying that no such draft of a treaty has been presented The matter is far beyond any personal controversy The question is what has been done on the subject in which the west is most interested and which most intimately concerns the west's future " And the west should be told forthwith

DECISION OF JOINT NAVAL BOARD FINAL

Appropriation for Pacific Fleet's Home Not Fixed By Congress Committee

CAINE WIRES OF VICTORY

WASHINGTON, Jan 31—Alameda late today was recommended as the site for the proposed naval base on the Pacific Coast by the joint committee of Congress on naval bases and sites.

The committee voted unanimously to recommend the Alameda site to Congress Other bases recommended for the Pacific Coast were San Diego, Cal., and Sand Point, Wash., for aviation bases, and San Pedro for a submarine base

In making the recommendations the committee approved recommendations of the sub-committee

It was recommended that a submarine base be established at San Pedro, Cal., at a cost not to exceed $4,000,000 The cost of the aviation base at Sand Point, Wash., was fixed at not to exceed $1,500,000 No recommendations for appropriations were made either for the Alameda or San Diego bases.

Referring to the Camp Kearny site, near San Diego, Cal., the committee's report said

In view of the advantage of this site which cannot be obtained at any other point in this section the committee recommends that it be selected as a fighter than air aviation base.

Outlining the San Francisco bay project, the committee said The joint committee recommends that the site offered by the city of Alameda be selected with a view to the development thereon of a naval base

The navy yard at Mare Island is an excellent navy yard, well equipped and efficient and should be continued in its present activities as a navy yard for construction and repair purpose as differentiated from an aviation and supply base and the navy base to be established at Alameda should for the present be limited to an operating and supply base

No specifications were made by the committee fixing the amount of money to be spent on the Alameda and San Diego projects

The Sand Point project borders on Lake Washington, will cover about 400 acres The committee said that the development of the site was not favored for use of both lighter than air and heavier than air craft. It recommended that at least one unit of heavier than air equipment be at once established at a cost of not to exceed $1 500 000

"The future developments of a site and the enlargement of its aircraft activities," the committee said should be subject to future decision and growth "

Message of Caine Tells of Victory

Alameda's selection for the Pacific Coast naval base was made by the subcommittee of the joint congressional committee only after a prolonged and [illegible] fight, Joseph R Caine, managing director of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce wired today Supporters of other sites emboldened by what they considered a division in the subcommittee renewed their attacks, hoping to defeat the mainland site

But all of their efforts at the last moment failed " Caine said in his telegram

He added that Oakland and Alameda received national advertising through the selection of the site, all of the eastern newspapers carrying long accounts of the action of the subcommittee and the importance of the new base to the Pacific fleet and the defense of the west coast. The Sunday morning papers of New York and Washington particularly made a big play on the selection of Alameda.

NOTICE TO SUBSCRIBERS

San Francisco and Oakland newspapers are compelled to announce a slight increase in subscription rates. Every effort has been made to maintain the present rates, but the excessive cost of white paper, the advances recently granted in wage scales, and the increase in cost, in fact, of every item that goes into the manufacture of a newspaper, have made the burden such that a price readjustment can no longer be avoided.

The cost of the raw white paper in a single issue has become greater than the price at which the issue is sold. Frequent attempts have been made to obtain cheaper newsprint Appeal has been made even to Washington. Nothing has been accomplished No relief is in sight.

To the individual subscriber the increase is trifling. To the newspaper the aggregate increase is imperatively necessary.

These facts are set forth that subscribers may know that necessity alone has driven the San Francisco and Oakland papers to ask their patrons to accept even the negligible increases submitted.

Beginning Tuesday, February 1, 1921, subscription rates for San Francisco and Oakland newspapers will be as follows:

Choked and Drugged by Abductors, Mrs. Witherell Is Taken to Cabin in Canyon; Tells of Fight for Freedom

Rescued Matron Tells of Her Futile Struggle to Escape From Captors on Learning Accident Story Was Ruse

Treated Courteously After Her Arrival at House in Which She Was Imprisoned While Police Hunted Her

MRS. GLADYS WITHERELL, kidnaped Los Angeles matron, who was restored to her family when a posse raided a lonely ranch house in Santa Ana Canyon and rescued her. Two men charged with her abduction were arrested

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 31.—Enfolded in the protecting arms of her husband as she was being hurried from the scene of her captivity in an automobile to the side of her 18-months-old baby, Jack, Mrs. Gladys Witherell sobbed out her story early today, reciting in graphic detail the incidents of her abduction, step by step, from the time she was stolen from her home till she was rescued at an early hour this morning.

As the frail little wife and mother told her story, she paused at intervals from the pain of a possibly dislocated shoulder—on her neck were the black fingerprint marks of the hands of Floyd Carr, who twice choked her to stop her cries as she fought to free herself while being spirited away.

TELLS STORY OF HER ABDUCTION.

Here is Mrs. Witherell's story told in her own words:

"When the gray-haired man came to my home in Hollywood he was in a hurry and told me that I was wanted by a woman who was hurt in an automobile accident and that she was calling for me. I thought it was my husband's mother, who was coming to have dinner with me that evening, and I hurried away as fast as possible.

"When we got to the machine, which was waiting in front of my home, there was another man at the wheel, Floyd Carr helped me into the automobile. We had no more than been seated in the car when the man driving opened the car up at reckless speed. I thought nothing of that, however, feeling that he was hurrying me to the side of my my husband's mother, who needed me.

"We turned the corner from Whitley, the street my home is on, to Sunset boulevard and kept on speeding toward town. We got to Sunset boulevard and he turned in there and kept right on speeding. They hadn't gone very far when I tried to stop him.

BECOMES SUSPICIOUS OF ACCIDENT STORY

"'I thought you said the accident was on Hollywood boulevard,' I asked. I was beginning to become frightened. He said, 'No, you misunderstood me.' Then they kept right on speeding the car and I made up my mind that I must get out.

"When I pressed him for details of the accident and the make of the car, he said it was a sedan. I tried to think and could not remember any relatives or personal friends who owned a sedan. I immediately was seized with a fear that almost overwhelmed me. Immediately I began to struggle to get out of the car, but he held me and kept telling me that everything was all right and to keep quiet.

"I screamed at the top of my voice, shouting 'murder!' as loud as I could, but there was nobody passing us to hear my call for help. I kept on fighting the man and trying to get out and I tore the rail robe from the back of the seat in my struggle. All the time I kept kicking and fighting him but he was too strong for me and held me tight while the other man kept the car running at high speed.

"Then, when I kept up my cries for help, he put his hands around my throat and choked me. I never will forget the awful sensation as I was rendered unconscious. First it seemed that everything turned red and then I couldn't see at all. He had thrown me down on the floor of the car when he started choking me and I was unconscious for some time.

"Finally I regained consciousness a little while later and then I laid still in the bottom of the car trying to make up my mind what to do. From the conversation of the two men I learned that we were driving toward Vernon.

"I decided to make one more try to get out. Slowly and cautiously I reached the lock on the side of the car and opened the side door. Quick as a flash I hurled myself out feet first and was clear of the machine all but my neck and shoulders when he grabbed me and struggled to get me back in the car.

FOUGHT DESPERATELY TO GAIN FREEDOM

"I kept kicking and screaming all the time and some place along the line I lost one of my shoes. I tore the side curtains off the machine in my fight to free myself and I fought him desperately.

"Then he choked me again. My God! That awful feeling that comes over you when you realize that a man is choking you to death and your life is going. I did not know anything more until we got some place out and then we had stopped because they blew out a tire. They had stopped to fix it. I came to and laid still.

"The next thing I knew we stopped alongside of another machine. Then they bound me hand and foot. They took the belt off my coat and strapped my ankles with it and tied my hands behind my back with some kind of rope. They threw me in the bottom of the car and Floyd Carr drove it. The other man got in the second car and trailed along behind us.

"As near as I remember now—it's so much like a horrible dream and it is hard to collect my thoughts on some of the details of the wild ride—it was at Huntington Park that the tire blew out.

CHLOROFORM POURED ON FACE, SHE SAYS

"'After we got to where the other machine was and they began to strap me I fought desperately to get free. They choked me and slammed me against the car door so hard that it hurt my neck and shoulder. I am afraid that my shoulder is dislocated. It pains me so dreadfully.

"As they had me lying helpless on the floor of the car one of them held me down while the other poured something of the nature of chloroform or ether into my face, for whatever it was it made me unconscious for awhile.

"Everything was dark when I finally came to my senses and we were driving, driving, driving—I did not know where. I was chilled with the cold and I nearly froze as I lay stretched in the bottom of the car, with my hands and feet tied.

"I kept quiet. I could hear the noise of the other car following us.

"As I lay there in the bottom of the car I thought of my baby—my darling little baby—my husband and my father. I wondered if they knew what was befalling me. I shuddered as I thought that I might never see them again.

"It seemed that we never would stop. Then, after a long while, it seemed like an age of eternity, we slowed down some place and came to a stop. They talked to me and told me not to be afraid, that they were not going to harm me.

TOO WEAK TO STAND WHEN SHE IS RELEASED

"'We got you because we know your family is rich and has plenty of money and that they will pay some of it to get you back,' the gray-haired man said. 'Now, you just keep quiet and don't make any more outcries and you will be all right. When they pay us a reward we will see that you are safely returned to your home. But not till then. We're not going to hurt you, so you don't need to be one bit afraid. We're going to keep you here in this little place till we get the money, so make up your mind to make the best of it and no harm will befall you.'

"Then they untied my ankles and turned me around so they could unfasten the rope from my hands. I was so sore and stiff that I could hardly sit up. They raised me to the seat and all the time kept telling me that they were not going to harm me and not to be afraid.

"It was very dark and I could hardly make out the form of a little shack in a clearing among the trees. They lifted me out of the car and when I tried to stand up I couldn't. I was so weak and cold.

"I couldn't hold my head up on account of the awful pain in my neck and shoulder, caused from the fact I got when they hurled me against the door of the car when I tried to get away. They took hold of me, one on either side, and [illegible] half carried me as we walked toward the cabin.

MADE PRISONER IN ROOM OF CABIN

"When we got inside they asked me if I wanted something to eat. But I couldn't eat—I wasn't thinking about eating—my darling baby—I only wondered if I would ever see my precious baby again and my husband and dad.

"One of the little rooms in the place they said was where I was to stay. They said I would have to stay there till my folks paid the reward that they would demand. They told me that I would not be permitted to leave that room under any circumstances.

"They took me in the room and placed some food before me, but I wasn't hungry. When they went out into the other room of the cabin they bolted the door and told me to be quiet and take things easy. It was dark, and I groped my way to the only window in the room to find that it was nailed up with heavy wooden slats. I realized that I was a prisoner—can you imagine my feelings? A prisoner in the hands of two strange men whom I had never seen before—maybe to be murdered. Oh, it all seems like a nightmare, an awful nightmare.

FEARED SHE WOULD BE CHOKED AGAIN

"Finally, I doked off in a sort of stupor, weak from my continued struggle to free myself. I didn't sleep—I just fell into a kind of daze. I heard them talking over their plans. They talked in a low voice and I couldn't make out what they said. Then they became quiet and I just kept still and prayed.

"My little baby's blue eyes seemed to peer at me through the darkness and I just thought I would have to hurl myself through the wall in order to get out. But I knew they would choke me—oh, that awful choking.

"Then daylight came. One of the men called to me through the walls of the room and asked me if I wanted anything. He said they had prepared some breakfast and asked me if I didn't think I had better eat. I was faint and not hungry, but I thought best to listen to them, fearing they might harm me if I did not. They saw that I had lost one of my slippers and that worried them greatly. They were afraid somebody would find it and that it might give my folks some clew to my whereabouts.

"One of them said he would buy me another pair of shoes, and later in the day he went away and bought me these things I've got on now. They're paper makeshifts for shoes. I don't know where he got them, but he said he paid $4.50 for them. I guess he did.

"They were very kind to me all the time I was held in captivity, only they refused to let me go out of the house. They never once mistreated me. They were just as courteous as they could be, only they made me realize that I was being held a prisoner and that the little room in which I was kept was my prison.

"This morning when the officers crashed in the windows and doors of the place I screamed with all my might. I thought that I was going to be murdered. I knew the men who captured me were armed with revolvers and I was afraid they would shoot me before the officers could get to me.

"It was a terrible suspense—I dread to think of it. And then the next thing I know my dear husband threw his arms around me—my husband and freedom at last."

effected shortly after 5 o'clock and soon afterward the entire party and the two prisoners started back for Los Angeles.

MRS. WITHERELL DAZED BY HER EXPERIENCES.

Mrs. Witherell was somewhat dazed from her experience, suddenness of her rescue and her desire to be reunited with her little son, Jack, but was declared to have been unharmed physically.

The Cairs were said by the police to have implicated others in the alleged kidnapping. The number varied from five to seven.

They also were said to have directed the relatives of the woman to deposit the ransom money of $20,000 on a lonely mountain road, under a red lantern to be placed at the designated spot, promising to release Mrs. Witherell on the roadside, so she could be readily found after payment of the money.

It was 6:10 o'clock last Tuesday night that a man called at the Witherell home and told Mrs. Witherell of the Accident. The police and private detectives made search when she did not return, but found no clew to her whereabouts. Last Thursday morning it became known the alleged kidnappers had written a letter to her husband, demanding ransom and threatening her death if the money was not paid or if the fact it had been demanded was made public.

Later that day a note demanding ransom of $50,000 was slipped under the Witherell doorway, but the officers doubted the second message came from those who really knew the whereabouts of the woman.

Many "tips" which the officers hoped would develop into clews were run down, but although rewards totalling $3600 were offered for information as to Mrs. Witherell's whereabouts, no trace of her was found until the arrest of A. J. Carr last night.

Witherell's former business partner and former stenographer, Charles Beverly and Miss Elodia Westrem Tenney, were killed and two of their friends seriously injured early Saturday morning in an automobile accident while private detectives were following them to Los Angeles from Vernon, a suburb. Why they were followed was not explained.

Yesterday despite a rain, more than 900 citizens, under the direction of Lyle Pendegast, chief of police, searched the hills in the Hollywood, Glendale, Silvain and Griffith Park districts in the hope of locating the missing woman.

Jack Carr told the police, they said, he and his cousin kidnaped Alice Clark in Spokane, Wash., several years ago and a woman, whose name was not made public in Denver, Col. In both cases he said they "were forced to drop the girls before they went through with the job and so received no ransoms."

$871,595 SPENT ON NEW SCHOOLS IN EIGHT MONTHS

Material Progress Is Made in $5,000,000 Construction Program.

During the eight months that the school construction department of the Oakland Board of Education has been in operation it has expended a total of $871,595.58 on the $5,000,000 school building program now in progress, according to a report compiled by John W. Edgemont, auditor of the board, which was made public today.

The construction of elementary schools, the report shows, was particularly active owing to the fact they were needed urgently. A total of $539,957.99 was spent on the construction of these schools alone. From the high school fund $331,637.59 has been spent. Out of the total expenditure $50,228.30 went to pay salaries while the remainder went for land and buildings.

Three sales of school bonds, according to the report, have brought in an aggregate sum of $1,055,000. The receipts from other sources total $12,689.58. The balance now shown by the report is $206,093.98.

Wage Cut Only Can Avert Ruin, Say Rail Chiefs

Labor Board Advised That Bankruptcy Threatens if Relief is Withheld.

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—Bankruptcy threatens the railroads of the United States unless they are assured immediate means for a reduction in operating expenses, the Railroad Labor Board was told today by the association of railroad executives. General W. W. Atterbury, chairman of the labor committee of the road organization, made the prediction.

The executives assured the Federal officials that if there were immediate abrogation of the wartime national agreements involving working rules and conditions, they would not seek a reduction of basic wages for at least three months after the order becomes effective. Said interval would be used to test out the efficacy of economies which would be instituted free from the limitations of present agreements. Ultimately, however, it was stated there would be need for a reduction in basic wages if the cost of operating is to be cut to a point where rates may be reduced.

BOARD ASKED TO ABROGATE AGREEMENT

As a measure of immediate relief the roads asked the board to abrogate at once the agreement fixing the basic rates of unskilled labor at 39 to 48½ cents an hour. They argued that this was a higher rate than was being paid other industries and that it operated to the disadvantage of other employers, particularly farmers.

The roads proposed that rules and working conditions in effect December 31, 1917, be re-established.

"Many railroads are not now earning, and with present operating costs and traffic have no prospect of earning, even their bare operating expenses, said General Atterbury. "This leaves them without any net return and unable to meet their fixed charges."

AMPLE WAGE FOR LABOR INSISTED ON

He said that the emergency might be met either by an advance in freight and passenger rates or a reduction in operating expenses.

"We believe that as the wages of railroad employees were the last to go up, they should be the last to come down, but we do insist that for an ample wage, an honest day's work shall be given," said Atterbury.

"The public has a right to insist that this must be obtained. The public has also the right to expect that the railroad executives will the co-operation of the regulatory bodies and the employees will, as rapidly as possible, reduce the cost of railroad operation so as to eventually insure a reduction in rates.

"It rests entirely with your board to determine within the next few days whether this whole situation shall drift into chaos, and orderly procedure become impossible except at the price of railroad bankruptcy, financial shock and still wider unemployment."

WARSHIPS NOT TO BE SCRAPPED, CADETS ADVISED

Great Need Now for a Strong Navy, Says Daniels At Annapolis.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Jan. 31.—There will be no scrapping of the navy, at least in the near future, Secretary Daniels declared in an address last night. He urged the young future naval officers to whom he spoke not to be alarmed at tales that battleships soon would be supplanted by air fighting craft.

"There is greater need now for a big and strong navy, both on, over and under the sea," he said. "The navy is to the nation what the gulf stream is to the ocean."

The visit of the Secretary marked his last to the naval academy.

Mrs. Peete Tried To Sell Denton Home, Is Claim

Witness Says Accused Woman Offered Her Slain Man's Mansion for $25 000

LOS ANGELES Jan 31 — How she tried to purchase the residence of Jacob Charles Denton for $25 000 through the agency of Mrs Louis L Peete was told on the witness stand today at the trial of Mrs Peete for the alleged murder of the mining promoter by Mrs Anne Stimson wealthy society woman of Los Angeles

Mrs Stimson said that on August 9 last she answered an advertisement stating that Denton's residence in the fashionable Wilshire district here was for rent

I went to the house said Mrs Stimson I met Mrs Peete who told me she was the agent We entered into negotiations I wanting to lease it for a year She said she could not lease it for that period as her niece was coming here January 1

TOLD HER HOUSE WAS FOR SALE.

She also told me the house was for sale That interested me even more Mrs Peete said the price was $25 000 of which she wanted $15 000 in cash with a mortgage for the remaining $10 000 I told her I wanted to buy it She said she could not make detailed arrangements but would know more about them after her return from Denver where she expected to go in about a week

Mrs Stimson said she went over the house and while in the cellar stood in the pile of earth which the prosecution contends was taken there to cover Denton's body later found in a crypt.

HAD TROUBLE WITH SPANISH WOMAN

Mrs Peete told me Denton had bulbs stored there Mrs Stimson continued She said he expected to plant them in the spring

The witness said also that Mrs Peete told her Denton had had great trouble had lost his wife had quarreled with a Spanish woman and had been shot in the arm by the latter

Frank T Langdon hotel clerk testified he had seen Denton June 1 last but not since He said Denton told him he would leave the next day for Phoenix Ariz and directed all mail be sent to his residence here.

E B Hillyer official of an automobile company followed Langdon on the stand

DAUGHTER OF SLAIN MAN IS WITNESS

The most dramatic moments of the murder trial came when Frances Denton 15 year old daughter of Denton and the dead broker's black gowned sister Mrs. Rhonda B Merryman faced Mrs L. Peete

The girl and her aunt took the witness stand There was a tense atmosphere in the courtroom when Mrs Merryman ascended to the witness chair She glared at Mrs Peete

Sir Gilbert Parker English novelist attended the session today He kept his eyes fastened on Mrs Peete studying her poise and her conduct.

Druggist Killed in Duel Over 'Dope'; Another Shot

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 31—Police investigation into the shooting late yesterday in a room at the St Francis hotel here in which Maurice Edward Brooks a former druggist of Los Angeles was killed and Carl Hills 37 years old badly wounded late today disclosed the fact that the tragedy was not the result of a quarrel over opium or an attempted robbery as was first indicated but a plan to arrest a dealer in narcotics

Brooks who had taught him in the St Francis hotel yesterday and when hotel attaches reached his room was dead

That Brooks had been anxious to become a narcotic inspector and was in league with officials to bring about the arrest of Hills who is alleged to be a dope peddler was brought out by the investigation conducted today by federal operatives and police

Fred Howard who is said to be the man who brought the two together is held in the city jail He was arrested by police detectives at the ferry building where he expected to meet Hills

Brooks yesterday went to room 615 where Hills had registered three days ago as S C Friend from Portland As soon as Brooks entered Hills demanded the money and when a large roll of bill was produced he pounced upon Brooks throwing him on the bed and attempted to tie his feet with a towel Brooks drew an automatic pistol and began shooting.

BULLET IN EYE

Hills produced a gun an army revolver and emptied it into Brooks who fell dead as a bullet pierced his left eye Other bullets went through his left arm through his right hand and into the back of his left thigh Bareheaded and wounded Hills ran from the room and down a stairway until he reached the empty ballroom on the second floor thence out through the West street entrance of the hotel and up Post street several blocks There hailing a taxi he asked to be taken to the Central Emergency Hospital where he walked to the desk and sought medical attention He was shot through the lungs and a finger on his left hand was shot off Physicians said today that he would live

A letter addressed to Leo D Brooks was received Saturday at 1044 Bush street where M F Brooks lived eight months ago with his brother The letter showed it had been forwarded to the Bush street address from the Bowman Drug Company of Oakland There it was learned that Leo Brooks had been employed six months ago Nothing was known of his habits employees said

DIAMOND INVOLVED $3000

According to a statement made today by the woman her name is Mrs Blanche Hawles that of her first husband She married Brooks on October 1 1917 in San Diego she said and was divorced from him a year ago in the same city Her statements corroborated belief that Brooks had gone to the room in the St Francis hotel to bring about the arrest of Hills saying that he went at the request of Charles I Miller a state narcotic inspector residing at 611 Franklin street Brooks was to have purchased the opium at $90 a can a deal involving more than $3000 and was to return to the lobby of the hotel with Hills where the latter was to be taken into custody by Miller Mr Hawles was in the lobby and was to witness the arrest

Posse of 300 Pursue Slayer At Los Banos

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS
LEASED WIRE TO TRIBUNE

FRESNO Jan 31—Frank Creal night policeman at Los Banos was shot and killed by a masked robber last night when he failed to obey the bandit's command to throw up his hands in a Los Banos pool hall As a result the bandit is being hunted for by 300 irate citizens of that town According to advices received here the bandit entered the pool hall and commanded the patrons of the place to throw up their hands With the exception of Creal everyone of the thirty patrons obeyed Creal instead attempted to grasp his revolver but was shot dead before he could accomplish his purpose

With the patrons still held at bay the bandit forced the proprietors to hand him the contents of the cash register totaling $400 and several punch boards valued at $50 each which contained articles of small value He then left the place by the rear door in the same manner as he had come in

POSSE IS FORMED

Immediately the crowd of patrons infuriated at the crime left the place rang the town fireball flashed a slide on the screen of the crowded motion picture house telling of the crime which had happened but a few seconds before and immediately a crowd of several hundred men formed posses which are now scouring the country

Threats of lynching are reported to have been made by the members forming the posse Sheriff Mack of Merced county with a couple of deputies and Sheriff Jones of Fresno county and a number of deputies are on their way to aid in the man hunt and to prevent lynching if the fugitive is caught

The man was masked with a false beard and a white handkerchief Over his head to camouflage his hat and his hair he wore a gunny sack He was armed with a 38 56 rifle

Supervisors Pledge Base Campaign Fund

The fight for the selection of Alameda as a naval base site has been made heretofore by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce the city of Oakland and public spirited citizens Alameda county as a whole should share in future expense

This was the declaration of a committee from the Chamber of Commerce which visited the supervisors today with a request for funds

The committee consisted of H C Capwell former president of the organization John I Conners and Senator Arthur H Breed

The committeemen told the supervisors that Oakland merchants had spent thousands of dollars in making the fight though much less than San Francisco's expenditure and that the benefit expected to be derived by the county as a whole is such that it should aid in providing funds It was stated that a continuous battle will have to be waged until the appropriation is made by Congress and the work actually carried through The board was asked to appropriate at least $1000

Chairman W T Hamilton said the request was decidedly fair and just as there is little question that the entire county will benefit from the coming of the naval base particularly through the advertising thus received but that the advertising fund is exhausted

Supervisor J F Mullins suggested that the board would be glad to contribute from next years advertising fund if there are to be expenses incurred after July 1, when the next years tax levy becomes available The other members of the board quickly agreed Though no official action was taken this plan will be carried out

Rail Test Case Is Set for February 28

WASHINGTON Jan 31—The supreme court today agreed to advance the arguments on the appealed case which will determine whether the Interstate Commerce Commission under the Esch Cummins Act can increase intrastate as well as interstate rates

The suit brought to the Supreme court by the Wisconsin railroad commission after the Federal commission was upheld in a lower court is considered one of the most important in rate making History The date for the argument was fixed as February 28

Girl Student Partly Identifies Man of Mystery

Co Ed Experiments on H K. to Restore His Memory At Hospital

Investigation of the amnesia victim H K at the Oakland Emergency hospital by Miss Louise Meyer a University of California student of psychology has developed that the man who has lost himself may be a carpenter a man of family and that he boarded a boat at Portland Ore bound for this port recently

A woodsawing experiment conducted in the back of the hospital indicated that the man has done woodworking He tested the saw with his thumb in true professional style and glanced along it to see that the teeth were true before he sawed the wood given to him

Any extended questioning of H K is made impossible by his evident mental anguish when he attempts to think

Don't ask me questions he cries I'm afraid I will go mad

Miss Meyer spent some time with the elderly man yesterday talking to him quietly and watching his reactions to certain suggestions

Alimony Delinquent Lectured by Court

If you don't pay for the upkeep of your wife and child I'll give you a long time to think it over in the county jail—not a few days but a long time You can stare at four black walls and think of your hungry wife and baby there

With this threat Superior Judge A I Steers today gave Charles I Cunningham until next Monday in which to show that he means to provide for his divorced wife and their little boy

Mrs Annie Cunningham was awarded a divorce and $1 a week alimony some time ago For many weeks her husband has failed to pay the required alimony and he was hailed into court today to show cause why he should not be jailed for contempt of court

SEATTLE WINS SUIT

WASHINGTON Jan 31—The city of Seattle won its fight in the Supreme Court today for title to valuable waterway rights in Seattle harbor

THREATS AGAINST LIFE IS CHARGED TO S. F. WOMAN

Mother of Missing Child Says That She Was Threatened With Butcher Knife

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 31—While the police were still mystified today over the kidnaping of the six months old baby boy of Mrs Harry I Smith of 131 Fillmore street Policewoman Katherine Hanhart arrested Mrs Ruth Sollers and charged her with the theft against Mrs Smith at the lodging house conducted by Mrs Sollers and her husband that Mrs Smith has been living

The arrest of the woman today follows statements made by Mrs Smith after the disappearance of the child Mrs Sollers and Mrs Smith had been talking in an adjoining room The latter charges that before the baby was stolen Mrs Sollers entered the room and raised the curtain Mrs Smith said

That looks like a stand where upon she says Mrs Sollers upbraided her and said If you don't cease me I'll get a butcher knife after you Both Mrs Sollers and her husband were questioned Saturday by Captain Mathewson but denied any connection with the abduction

Washington Wants Oil Permit Revision

MEXICO CITY Jan 31—Close attention is being given the latest United States government note regarding oil properties in Mexico and the Mexican government will probably answer it during the present week Washington demanding according to the Excelsior a revision of permits to drill oil wells granted by Jacinto B Treviño former minister of industry and included a list of oil companies whose interests would be seriously affected if the permits were allowed to stand It is stated that the opinion prevails among government officials the United States government will not insist upon its demands and will await the development of President Obregon's petroleum policy

BRITISH PAPER CALLS TERMS OF ALLIES "FOLLY"

LONDON Jan 31—(By Associated Press)—The allied terms decided upon by the Supreme Council in Paris last week were described as folly by the Manchester Guardian today The newspaper said we may be thankful the terms can never be executed In the opinion of this journal Germany will be able to pay indemnities only by exporting goods

If she exported every year an additional £300 000 000 worth of goods to France England and Belgium the newspaper said the outcry raised by competing manufacturers of those countries would be heartrending It is already audible

$24,000 TAX ON DEPOTS IN DOUBT

The question of whether the Southern Pacific's depot at Fourteenth and Franklin is operative property and a main line terminal is being discussed at the City Attorney's office with a view to seeing if the property is taxable by city or county

If it is taxable it is estimated that the city might get $1" 000 per annum and the county a like sum in taxes

If the depot is a terminal of a railroad and operative property it cannot be taxed as that comes under the State and national control It is remembered however that at the recent hearings on the depot question the railroad argued among other things that the depot is not really vital to the railroad It was also held that perhaps it might not be operative property

Baer Wants Wall Street Investigated

WASHINGTON Jan 31—Investigation of Wall street was demanded today by Representative Baer North Dakota He introduced a resolution charging Wall street has made billions of dollars out of the misfortunes and miseries of the world within the last five years' demanding a complete congressional investigation

The complexion which always attracts

She may not be beautiful, this girl who wins attention, and other women wonder what men see in her Look again, and the compelling charm proves to be a smooth, fresh, flawless skin, radiant with the charm of health

Such a complexion transforms even plain features and lends beauty to every type It is an attraction every woman can achieve if she will learn to give her skin proper care

Cleopatra's beauty secret

The means was discovered 3,000 years ago in ancient Egypt The use of palm and olive oils as cosmetic cleansers was one of Cleopatra's beauty secrets There is nothing known so good for skins as palm and olive oils And these are blended in Palmolive soap

Soap is essential

Nothing takes the place of soap Use whatever else you will But once a day, wash off the oil, dirt, perspiration and powder, which clog the pores

To do that you need soap Not ordinary soap, harsh and irritating That is not for faces Use a soap which is an emollient, which is smooth and balmy in effect Such soap is made by modern science from blended palm and olive oils.

Before you sleep

Use powder and rouge if you wish, but don't leave them on at night Remove them with a soft, penetrating, cleansing lather

Blackheads and pimples result from clogged pores Wash your face nightly with mild, pure soothing Palmolive soap and protect yourself against skin troubles

Millions of women keep their skins clean and healthy, smooth and fresh, by the use of Palmolive soap

10 cents the modest price

No higher price can buy a better skin soap The supreme ingredients in a facial soap are palm and olive oils

The Palmolive price is due to mammoth production And to our policy —to bring the best within the reach of all

The Palmolive Company Milwaukee, U S A The Palmolive Company of Canada Limited, Toronto Ont.

Classic beauties used them

The beauties of Egypt, Greece and Rome used palm and olive oils. And these ancients bequeathed to us their secret of beauty

To modern scientists, a great illustration does nothing to compare So we go to Africa for palm oil—to Spain for olive oil And we blend those cosmetics of ancient queens in a balmy, penetrating soap

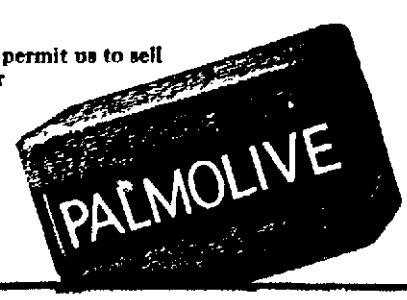

All men are soap users

Women should note that all men wash with soap Men's complexions, which average so fine, are due to simple cleanliness They are not users of creams and cosmetics. That same basis of clean pores should be your basis too. This is the first requisite

Volume and efficiency permit us to sell Palmolive for

ORPHEUM—There is a rare treat for music lovers at the Oakland Orpheum this week—there is a strong appeal to those who like comedy—and with five featured acts on the new program there is a sufficiently diversified interest to please any and all varieties of tastes.

George MacFarlane, the noted baritone, provides one of the events of the season for music lovers. One of the most charming dancing presentations of many months bids for high honors this week—"The Dance Duel"—offered by winsome and vivacious Frances Pritchard, assisted by Edward Tierney and James Donnelly.

In the comedy division of a bill that is marked by an abundance of this brand of amusement, Joe Laurie, Jr., walks away with the honors. Diminutive in size, the author-comedian registers a hit that is all out of proportion to his stature. Briefly, Joe Laurie is a comedy riot in his presentation billed as "Whatlcare?" As a matter of travesty Jimmy Lucas further strengthens his hold to this title in his newest laughing hit "Vampires and Fools." Assisted by Francene, Lucas registers emphatically with his presentation. "The Four Seasons" and "The Four Reasons," a miniature musical comedy offered by James P. Conlin and Myrtle Glass, is an elaborately staged and well handled production that alone is well worth a visit to the Orpheum.

Selbini and Grovini in "Follies of Vaudeville" offer an interesting routine of varied interest and Herbert's dogs, cats, pigeons and roosters hold interest to the last curtain with a well presented act. Three films and a pleasing musical program complete one of the best bills of the Oakland Orpheum in many weeks.

YE LIBERTY.—"Uncle Tom's Cabin," bringing back memories of by-gone days when war tax on theater tickets was an unknown quantity, and motion pictures were looked upon as a freak of nature, arrived in Oakland yesterday for a four-day stay at Ye Liberty Playhouse and proved that theater-goers love to live in the past for a while at least, by playing to two big houses.

The piece was presented on an elaborate scale, with all the trimmings of the old Uncle Tom show. There was Uncle Tom, "a faithful old slave"; Aunt Cloe, "Uncle Tom's faithful wife"; Eliza, "a broken-hearted mother"; Phineas Fletcher, "a rough diamond"; Mark, "an impecunious lawyer"; Simon Legree, "the terror of the Red River"; Mr. Skeggs, "the slave auctioneer"; Mr. St. Clair, "a warm-hearted Southerner"; Topsy, "who never was born," and Little Eva.

On Thursday night Mlle. Anna Pavlowa, the world's greatest danseuse, will come in for a three-day engagement with her celebrated Ballet Russe, appearing at four performances—on Thursday, Friday, Saturday matinee and Saturday night.

KINEMA.—A two-ply comedy program with contrasting kinds of mirth-making pictures, that delightful team, Doris May and Douglas MacLean, in "The Rookie's Return," and Buster Keaton in "The Scarecrow," is presented at the Kinema this week.

The same species of rollicking, youthful fun that made "Twenty-three and a Half Hours' Leave" a picture to be remembered, characterises "The Rookie's Return," which is the comic adventure of a young man just out of the army, who suddenly falls heir to money under a quaint lot of restrictions. Flippant hilarity is the keynote of "The Scarecrow," in which the sober-faced Buster Keaton slapsticks his way through a threshing machine to fame and fortune—and a pretty lady.

STATE.—Loew's State Theater presents this week Ina Claire on the screen in "Folly with a Past." The star is fortunate not only in a delightful play, but in having in the infield and outfield of her cast what the sporting writers call a strong aggregation of players.

The State varieties for the week feature Dance Originalities. The history of the dance from earliest times until the present year is depicted by beautiful girls in beautiful costumes. A group of intelligent seals under direction of "Wanda" afford amusement. Three clever children are appearing in an unusual act under the title "Diehl, Crooker and Diehl."

COLUMBIA.—"The Sweet Mammas" opened at the Columbia Theater yesterday afternoon and proved another triumph for Harry Harrigan, who as Ikey, was in excellent comedy form and kept the audience roaring at his quaint antics from the opening scene until the final curtain. "The Sweet Mammas" is a certain cure for the blues and has enough music to please the most fastidious patron of the musical arts.

Chief honors on the musical program were taken by Doris Cosgrove, prima donna of the organization, whose lyric soprano showed to splendid advantage in "Beautiful Annabelle Lee" and "When I Look in Your Wonderful Eyes." Miss Cosgrove also shared in the playing honors, appearing with George Rehn, Vera Knight and Lou Davis in support of the versatile Harrigan.

FRANKLIN.—As a rapid young man lets his own father out him out with his lady love, Bryant Washburn starts out by being a pathetic figure and a good young man in "The Amateur Devil," playing at the Franklin Theater this week.

But when the dowagers begin to smear the "nice boy" stuff over him he wakes up, sees worthy and decided to quit the narrow path, disgracing his family just as much as possible on the way. So the pampered young heir of the Endicott millions starts his desperate career by going to work at dishwashing—but the result of this move is not what he expected.

BROADWAY.—"The Forbidden Thing," starring James Kirkwood and carrying the name of Allan Dawn as the producer, will be seen at the Broadway Theater today for the last time.

"The Forbidden Thing" is acclaimed one of the big pictures of the year. In plot it visualizes the conflicting emotions of a woman seeking to invoke the spiritual rather than the physical charms of her sex in a subjugation of her lover. The story is laid in a Cape Cod fishing village and is climactic in the sense that all Dawn's productions are.

Johnny Ray furnishes the laughs on the same program in a "Kiggs in Society" comedy. Frank Mayo appears tomorrow in "Honorbound."

NEW PIEDMONT.—Mary Pickford comes to the New Piedmont Theater tomorrow evening for a two-day run in her starring vehicle, "Suds," a delightful offering of mixed comedy and drama. "Suds" is a picture quite out of the ordinary and a vehicle which permits Mary to display that clever artistry which has made her "the sweetheart of the screen." On the same program George Bunny, son of the late John Bunny, the famous movie comedian, will be seen in his latest comedy creation, entitled "Professional Ethics," and three comic cartoons will complete the program. Tonight "Milestones," featuring Lewis Stone and Mary Alden, will be the featured part of the New Piedmont's program.

CHIMES.—Women have made sacrifices for the men they love ever since the beginning of things, but never was there a more startling one than that which Louise Glaum performs in "Love Madness," the J. Parker Read Jr. production being shown at the Chimes Theater today and tomorrow.

"Love Madness" tingles with life from the very first foot of film to the final fade-out. The unfolding of the gripping story holds one spellbound while the richness of the lavish settings and the artistry of the cast, headed by Miss Glaum, are worthy of sincere praise.

PEARLS APPEAR WHEN SMUGGLER SAYS PEN IS DRY

Unusual Hiding Place for the Jewels Unearthed by Customs Man.

(Just as truth is stranger than fiction, so the reader may find in the newspaper columns more fascinating romance and mystery than is contained in the magazine or the novel. As proof, The TRIBUNE has selected from its news files one hundred mystery stories that have attracted the attention of readers during the past years. Here is another of them):

It was no secret that jewels were being smuggled into New York. The word had been passed along from the underground "fences" for some months back, and every customs official on duty in the city was on the lookout for the man who was "running 'em in."

It would have been possible, of course, to trace the shipments back from the places in which they were discovered, but this would have consumed valuable time, and permitted of the introduction of too many alibis by the men implicated. In this case, as in practically all others, word was received from the Treasury Department in Washington to "get the man himself—then there won't be any possibility of error."

But, as Customs Inspector John W. Roberts said: "It's all very well to tell us to get the man, but do they expect us to search every one from head to foot, to say nothing of tapping their shoes and turning their clothing inside out?"

UNUSUAL HIDING PLACE

As matters turned out, the jewels were being brought in in a far more unusual hiding place than false heels or concealed pockets.

A careful examination of the records in the case convinced Roberts that there was probably only one man connected with the actual smuggling. The jewels—principally pearls—had been arriving with a fair degree of regularity for the past eight months. Every six weeks saw a new shipment and, allowing for the continued accuracy of this schedule, Roberts ordered that a strict watch be kept at the end of the next month-and-a-half period. True to form and in spite of the fact that the strictest of watches had been maintained upon all incoming vessels, the pearls appeared—without anyone having gone through the formality of declaring them at the Customs Office.

Investigation of the date on which the pearls had been offered for sale, indicated clearly that the smuggler was in the habit of making the trip on a Norwegian-American ship, evidently remaining in New York just long enough to dispose of his shipment and then leaving on the same boat.

GETS PASSENGER LIST

Six weeks later, when the steamer was again sighted off Fire Island, Inspector Roberts secured a copy of her passenger list and discovered thereon a name which had appeared on several of the previous lists—that of Joseph New, employed by one of the largest import and export houses in the city. New, it appeared, went abroad regularly on business connected with his firm and, as Roberts figured it, his smuggling activities were purely of a personal nature. He saw a chance to make a little additional money and he grasped it, regardless of the risk.

So the Inspector interested himself in the declaration of baggage. Three diamonds, several valuable furs and a number of other dutiable articles were on the declaration, and as the entire consignment totaled several thousand dollars, the baggage was ordered to the Appraiser's Stores for further examination.

Roberts noted, however, as New moved about and dug into his pockets at different times during the discussion, that he was carrying three fountain pens. Suspicion as to these fountain pens was increased when the Inspector asked permission to borrow one of them to sign a document and New informed him that they were "all out of ink."

NOTHING TO SAY

Finally, apparently fearful that he was suspected, New slammed down the top of his trunk, carelessly dropped a package of tooth-paste on the pier floor and went back on board the steamer. Roberts followed him—after picking up the tube of paste.

Once inside New's stateroom, the Inspector informed the import man that he was under suspicion and inquired if he had anything to say.

"Not a thing," replied the other "except that you're on the wrong trail. Everything I have to declare has been taken care of. Want to search me?"

The search revealed no contraband goods of any description until Roberts turned his attention to the fountain pens. The filler attachment of one of them was broken, yet the pen rattled. The customs official unscrewed the cap, found nothing and then snapped the barrel in two. Seven beautifully matched pearls rolled out. The second pen had ink in it and Roberts paused for a moment.

Deciding, however, not to overlook any chance, he investigated and found that the top part of the barrel had been sealed on as to form a water-tight compartment. This was filled with ink, but there was room enough for four other pearls in the otherwise vacant section of the ink-chamber. The third pen also contained a number of jewels, and when the inspector opened the tooth-paste tube, he found two blue-white diamonds, weighing a carat and a half each, embedded in the paste.

"This," said Roberts, "ought to be enough. We'll leave the examination of your baggage for some future date. There's probably nothing in it anyhow—but if you have a chance to try this trick in future, I'd advise you to make your trips less regular. Once we got on to the schedule, it wasn't hard to spot the man responsible for the gems. It was clever, but you worked it once too often."—(Copyright 1921 by the Wheeler Syndicate, Inc.)

Countess, 97, Says Laziness Causes Old Age

Laziness is the cause for old age, according to Dr. Charlotte de Gollere Davenport, known as the Countess de Gollere, 97-year-old Boston visitor to San Francisco. Dr. Davenport is a daughter of Count Paszkoff, Russian nobleman. Her eldest son is 75 years old. She graduated from the College of Medicine in Vienna with her younger son.

"More Americans die every year from overeating than by starvation in some of the countries of Europe," is Dr. Davenport's comment on our national life To keep herself in good condition this health authority fences with her husband every morning, walks several miles each day, swims and rides horseback.

Women who are aged at 50 make Dr. Davenport angry. "They are too lazy to take proper exercise," she declares. "They sit about the lobby eating sweets and rich foods and feel that a night in a Turkish bath will overcome all ills. People make animals of themselves. They do not practice what they know."

Dr. Davenport wears no corsets and boasts a 25-inch waist measure. To drink of the fountain of perpetual youth she offers the following advice:

Eat no meat.
Let the body perspire through exercise—not a Turkish bath.
Eat raw vegetables.
Drink buttermilk.
Do not eat unless hungry. Stop before satisfied.

Having injured her eye in a fencing bout some weeks ago, Dr. Davenport came to California for treatment and the climate. She is a guest at the Plaza hotel in San Francisco.

Sunday Blue Law Declared Church Menace

Special to THE TRIBUNE.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31. — "I'd just as soon sizzle in hell for eternity as to suffer all day Sunday under the blue laws," was the reply today of Dr. Royal S. Copeland, commissioner of health of New York City and member of the Sunday Rights Association to the challenge from Voliva, overseer of Zion City.

The association organized to combat revelry Sunday legislation is headed by Martin Vogel, former assistant secretary of the treasury, and includes Bishop-elect Manning of the Protestant Episcopal diocese of New York; Major Laguardia, president of the Board of Aldermen, and several other prominent officials and churchmen.

"Voliva's statement ought to interest every church," said Dr. Copeland, who is health commissioner of New York. "If he or any one else should succeed in putting over such a program as he advocates it would be the greatest blow real religion ever received.

"We have a cosmopolitan population in this country, particularly in the big cities. They don't understand our institutions and if they were restricted from spending Sunday as they saw fit they would turn to real wickedness.

"Our organization is seeking to encourage interest in the churches and at the same time permit the people when they have concluded Sunday worship to indulge in any legitimate recreation they desire, baseball, tennis, golf, movies, motoring or anything to suit their individual tastes. The association proposes to extend its influence nationally and the support it is receiving from the various churches proves it's popular with them."

Dr. Copeland was asked if he thought 'Voliva's missionaries would "get very far in New York."

"Well, they might get as far as Grand Central station," he replied. "Voliva seems to have a craze for self advertisement." was the comment of Wm. J. McGinley, general secretary of the Knights of Columbus.

"The Knights of Columbus stand for rational observance of the Sabbath. They do not believe that the ideas of one group should be imposed upon another."

Charity Worker is Summoned by Death

Mrs. Elizabeth Quinn Craib, business woman of Oakland and San Francisco and prominent in social and charitable activities, died this morning at Mary's Help hospital in San Francisco after a lingering illness.

Mrs Craib came to the bay region more than twenty-five years ago and soon became actively identified with social circles both here and in San Francisco. She later established a business at 472 Eleventh street, Oakland, which she administered until the illness which caused her death compelled her to retire from the active management of the concern. For many years Mrs. Craib was known as one of the most beautiful women on the Pacific Coast.

She was a native of Croyden, Canada, and was the daughter of John Quinn, who was one of the founders of the packing industry in California, particularly in the creation of the Columbia Packing Company, located in this state, and who also was deeply interested in mining activities.

Mrs. Craib was related, by birth, with some of the most prominent families in England and the possessions, being a first cousin of the Earl of Dunraven. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Jean Loughborough, Los Angeles; Mrs. Oliver H. Patterson, San Francisco, and Mrs. Grace Hall de Wolfe, Los Angeles and San Francisco newspaper-woman.

The remains are at the undertaking parlors of Freeman & Cox, 2630 Telegraph avenue. Complete details for the funeral, which is to be held at St. Mary's Church on Wednesday, will be announced later.

Tax Bill Fight to Be Told in Church

Some echoes of that legislative battle which marked the progress through the Senate of the King tax bill and its defeat in the Assembly will be heard at First Congregational church Wednesday evening. At that time Senator Arthur Breed, Assemblyman Clifton Brooks and Lieutenant-Governor C. C. Young will discuss the tax measure, Edgar S. Hurley will speak on his motion picture censorship bill and other members of the Alameda county delegation will be heard on various questions.

Breed and Brooks, both members of the Men's League of the church, were asked to speak at the meeting, which is the annual one of the league, and when it was learned that they had selected the King bill for their subject there was a hurried effort to secure a speaker for the other side. Governor Stephens declined the invitation on the grounds that he was to speak in Oakland this evening and was scheduled to speak elsewhere on Wednesday. He suggested that C. C. Young of Berkeley present the argument favoring the tax bill.

Window Smasher Caught After Chase

After a running chase which extended over three blocks in the vicinity of Fortieth street and Piedmont avenue Corporal W. J. Davis captured a man who gave the name of Irving DeSoto, 353 Alcatraz avenue, shortly after midnight, following the discovery that two men had kicked in the front door at a Chinese laundry conducted by Quong Lee at 530 Fortieth street. The other fugitive escaped in the darkness.

DeSoto is being held in the city prison today and, according to investigating detectives will probably be charged with malicious mischief. Police were unable to find any motive for the act.

High School Broken Into By Miscreants

ALAMEDA, Jan. 31. — Miscreants pulled off the grating from a basement window of the Alameda High school yesterday and thoroughly ransacked the building. An inventory revealed that nothing of importance had been taken. All of the offices and desks had been broken into. Detective Bert Conant is conducting an investigation.

Two Small Blazes in Alameda Sunday

ALAMEDA, Jan. 21.—Two small smokes broke yesterday's monotony for the Alameda fire department. The first alarm was turned in from the home of D. Courtney, 1188 Sherman street. Investigation disclosed that a gas heater having its outlet in the attic of the building had caused the water in the shingles on the roof to evaporate, causing the presence of steam.

A chimney fire in the home of Samuel Frank, 2051 San Jose avenue, was extinguished before it had done any extensive damage.

Card Party For Memorial Fund Tomorrow

For the Ethel Moore Memorial fund a benefit card party is to be given by the Home Club of Fourth Avenue Heights tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, many tables to be placed for the guests in the spacious lounge and ballroom. Reservations may be made by telephoning Merritt 6 between 10 and 4 o'clock.

A large committee of the club members has been active in making plans for the affair and many tables have been reserved. Mrs. Daniel Easterbrook is chairman of the committee and assisted by Mrs. Charles Taylor, Mrs. Granville Shuey, Mrs. A. W. Hendrick, Mrs. Charles Snook, Mrs. Harvey Lyon, Mrs. F. A. Webster, Mrs. Glenn Barnhart, Mrs. E. H. Bryan, Mrs. Robert Glenn, Mrs. R. B. Mann, Mrs. Ergo Majors and Mrs. S. M. Morcom. Tickets may also be secured at Sherman & Clay's.

CARDS OUT FOR TEA

In honor of Miss Juanita Ghirardelli, fiancee of Harry Hush Magee, a tea will be given February 16 by Mrs. Emerson Butterworth of Berkeley for friends of the bride-elect. The wedding of Miss Ghirardelli and Mr. Magee will take place following the Lenten season, April the chosen month.

Mrs. Alfred Ghirardelli was hostess Saturday at luncheon at her home in San Francisco, several of the younger girls from the Eastbay being guests.

One hundred guests attended the marriage of Miss Bonita Hunt and William Oscar Lang Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Bradford Hunt, in Alameda. An improvised altar was arranged in the living room, with early spring blossoms used in the decorations.

Miss Jean Hunt was her sister's maid of honor, and her bridesmaids were Miss Marjorie Stanley, fiancee of Gustav Jefferson Hunt, and Miss Elva Ramselius. Little Aileen Hughes was flower maiden, and Rudolph Lang best man.

After an extended honeymoon trip Lang and his bride will go to Marin county to reside.

RETURNS FROM NEW YORK

Miss Genevieve Morris, daughter of Mrs. J. E. Morris of Alameda, returned from the East Friday after an absence of five months. Miss Morris has been studying vocal music in New York and previous to that was one of the Bostonian opera company for a season, having been one of a number of Eastbay girls to accompany the singers through Canada and the East. Before her return West she spent some time in Boston and the larger cities and in New York was the guest of relatives.

Plans for the Knights of St. Andrew's hop, to be given this Friday at St. Paul's parish house, are now completed, the affair to be one of the most colorful affairs given by the members. Many decorative features arranged by Hooper Hackett and a syncopated quartet will add to the evening's pleasure. The guests will include the younger set of that parish.

Mrs. Harold Cushman Lewis, who is visiting Mr. and Mrs. H. U. Maxfield of Vernon Heights, her parents, and who will return to her home in the south this week, was the guest of honor at a bridge Friday which Miss Alice Burdick gave at her home.

CARDS FOR SUPPER DANCE

Mr. and Mrs. Van E. Britton have sent out invitations for a supper dance the evening of February 12, when Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Arthur Perry will be the guests of honor.

Mrs. Newton Koser gave one of the handsomely appointed luncheons of the past week, with Mrs. Frederick Page Cutting the guest of honor. Mrs. Koser entertained at her home in Hillside avenue. Bridge was the later diversion. Among the guests were: Mesdames Frederick Allardt, Vernon Waldron, William Hamilton Morrison, Edward Hale Campbell, J. C. Brittain, Charles Parker Hubbard, Thomas Mitchell Potter, William E. Colby, Frederick Potter, Charles Rodolph, George Rodolph, Francis R. Musser, Morton McDonald, and the Misses Everson and Mary Wilson.

LUNCHEON AT TOWN AND COUNTRY CLUB

Miss Muriel Cohen gave a luncheon Saturday at the Town and Country Club for a group of the younger girls, the motif for the affair being Miss Muriel Pattiani, whose marriage to Robert Eschen is to take place February 9.

Mrs. J. B. Maxwell and her daughters, the Misses Helen and Josephine Maxwell, have arrived here to make their home, from Salt Lake City, where the two young girls were among the popular members of the social set in that city. They are domiciled at the Perkins apartments in the Lakeside district.

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Gear and their son of Detroit, Mich., are visiting at the home of J. W. Meyers, 1410 One Hundred and Sixth avenue. They will spend the remainder of the winter here.

ARMY SERGEANT MADE BLIND BY WOOD ALCOHOL

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—Blind from the effect of bootleg liquor, Sergeant Gilbert L. Doran, of the fourteenth balloon company, Fort Miley, was found early today wandering aimlessly at Kearny and Sutter streets and taken to the Harbor Emergency hospital. Physicians said that wood alcohol in the concoction was responsible for the loss of his sight. He will be sent to the Presidio General Hospital and experts called in in an effort to restore his sight.

Woman Beaten to Death and Robbed

CLEVELAND, Jan. 31. — Miss Gretchen Brandt, 37, was found beaten and stabbed to death today in her room at the home of her brother-in-law with whom she made her home. The head was crushed and there were numerous knife wounds on the body. Robbery was believed to have been the motive, $500 worth of jewelry being missing.

EVERY MINUTE IS NOW A JOY TO HER

"Since taking Tanlac every minute of life is a joy to me, and I feel so thankful I just want to tell everybody about it," said Mrs. E. C. Johnson, 867 McAllister street, San Francisco, wife of a well-known electrician.

"About two years ago I began to have trouble with my stomach. I had to give up eating all the foods I liked best because they hurt me so, and even what little I forced down just would not digest properly. After meals I had such a bloated, stuffed-up feeling I could scarcely breathe, and often at night I just had to get up out of bed so I could get my breath. I had headache and backache, and, in fact, just hurt nearly all over, and there were times when I couldn't do my housework.

"Well, I read in the papers about Tanlac helping so many others I decided to try it myself, and now I don't feel like the same person. I have a fine appetite and everything agrees with me so well I have gained several pounds in weight and all my strength has come back to me. In fact, I am free of all my troubles, and my husband and I both think Tanlac is just grand."

Tanlac is sold in San Francisco, Oakland and Berkeley by The Owl Drug Company Stores and Eberly's Quality Pharmacy, Alameda. Advertisement.

1000 Rubs That We'll Be Glad to Take

Ever figure the many rubs there are in your family wash, when it's done the old rub-and-tub way?

Take a sheet, for instance—25 rubs down, and 25 back, 50 for each sheet, six sheets, 300 rubs.

Tablecloths—150 rubs if there are three in the wash.

Towels, 20 rubs, 240 to the dozen; handkerchiefs, 10, or 120 to the dozen; wash-dresses, 25 rubs, or 100 for four; aprons, 15 rubs apiece, or 90 for the half dozen.

One thousand—two thousand rubs exacted of yourself every Monday morning

RUB! RUB? RUB! — back-bending, heart-breaking toil—surely not a woman's work.

Our easier, simpler, more efficient and more humane way should interest you. It requires no rubbing—only gentle soaping in rich, fluffy suds of mild soap, and pure rain-soft water, which remove every trace of soil without a speck of wear. And we iron, too.

That is our way—the modern laundry way, and if you will give it a trial once, we're sure you'll adopt it permanently. We wash every day—phone at your convenience, and our route representative will call.

The Modern Woman's Way of Washing

Our ancestors of long ago never troubled about washing their clothes. Their apparel was always dirty because no one had discovered the value of cleanliness. And to this day, some of the dwellers in remote parts of Germany have washday but twice a year.

In America washday is a national institution. The Family Laundry Service of the modern laundries of the East Bay Cities is the modern way of observing it. It is for the woman who seeks relief from the washing, but who doesn't mind doing some of the lighter ironing herself.

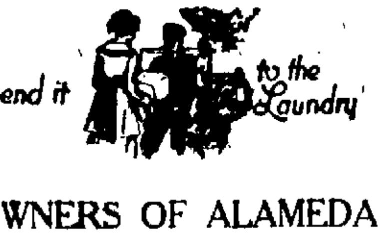

A route representative calls for your bundle in the customary way. The modern laundries of the East Bay Cities wash everything—give to everything a sweet cleanliness that no laundress can rival.

Your flat pieces—tablecloths, bed linen and so on—the laundries iron and fold. The pearly finish of this work will charm you. Your bath towels are dried in a way that makes them soft and fluffy—a joy to the skin. Other pieces, like shirts and shirtwaists are carefully prepared for you to iron at your leisure.

The modern laundries of the East Bay Cities do all the heavy, toilsome work—you, only a little of the ironing that is least irksome.

The expense is moderate—less than a washwoman's service would cost; less even than it would cost if you valued your own time at only ten cents an hour.

No need henceforth to look forward to washday with misgivings—just telephone one of the modern laundries of the East Bay Cities and a route representative will call for your family bundle. It is the modern woman's way.

The Five Day Plan

To save you the inconvenience that ensues from "missing the route representative" the modern laundries of the East Bay Cities use the Five Day Plan, which assures collection and delivery of your bundle, exactly according to schedule down to the day and hour. This is the schedule:

Collection Day	Delivery Day
Monday P. M.	Friday A. M.
Tuesday P. M.	Saturday A. M.
Wednesday P. M.	Monday A. M.
Thursday P. M.	Tuesday A. M.
Friday P. M.	Wednesday A. M.
Saturday P. M.	Thursday A. M.

POWER COMPANY SAYS IT CANNOT PAY HIGH WAGE

Assertion Made That Reduction From $8 to $7 a Day is Necessary

Instructions to its entire working force that the company cannot continue to pay $1 more each day than is paid by other companies were issued today by the Great Western Power Company. The announcement follows a vote taken by the men at which it was decided that a strike would be ordered if the reduction from $8 a day to $7 was put into effect. A statement issued by the company today reads:

We are instructing our entire organization that we cannot longer continue to pay $1 per day more than is paid by the other companies to electrical workers. This extra $1 per day was granted ten months ago owing to abnormal living conditions at that time existing and has amounted to an average per man of $450 more than other workers for other companies have received, practically as a bonus on this company's system.

We do not feel that we are further justified in continuing this. Under present conditions we feel that $7 per day is a reasonable and just wage for this work.

Should the electrical workers leave our employ for this cause we feel they would place themselves in an anomalous and indefensible position.

They have voted not to strike in other concerns paying $6 wage and should not vote to strike in the Great Western because we cannot continue to pay more than other companies in this State.

We feel that during the period of excessive high living costs we have treated our workers with extreme consideration and will greatly regret having any of them leave our service.

We are instructing all our executives however to promptly notify us should any of our men leave their posts tomorrow night and we will immediately fill their places.

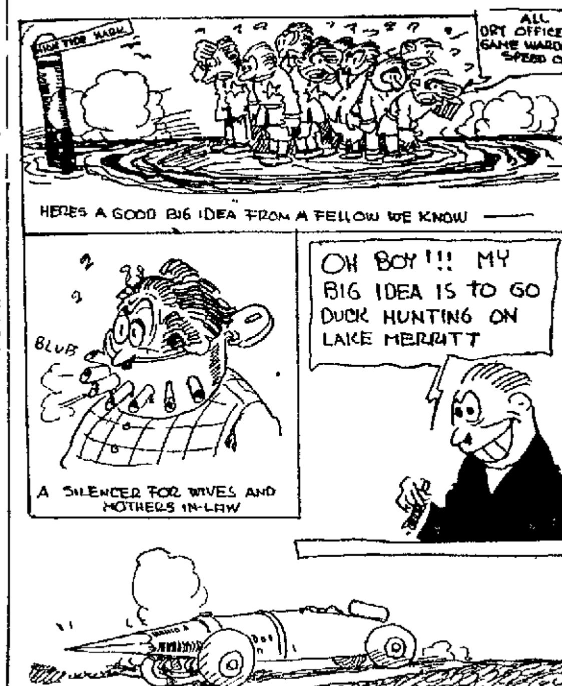

This is our position as a public utility. We are servants of the public and we must continue giving service to the public. We feel also that such discrimination against us would be so obvious as not to be acceptable when the facts are known to any of our workers.

We understand that the result of the votes has been reported to the national offices of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers who must approve before a strike is authorized. Such approval has not been given.

Tribune Will Pay Cash for Best Explanation of Your 'Big' Idea

Just Tell What You Have in Your Mind in 25 Words or Less and Try for Prize.

Napoleon's Big Idea was that destiny had decreed he was to rule Europe. A similar belief was harbored for a while by members of the Hohenzollern family also the Romanoffs.

But Big Ideas are not confined to potentates, rulers or leaders. Practically every person of average intelligence cherishes some Big Idea, some ambition, desire, hope, grief, joy or belief that serves as an incentive for redoubled efforts in many phases of human activity. Or it may be a source of consolation in times of stress or a compensation for things the possessor of the Big Idea may lack.

The TRIBUNE wants to obtain the Big Ideas for its readers. It believes that many of its readers have Big Ideas that will serve as a source of encouragement to other readers. It may develop that many readers have the same Big Idea in common.

Send your Big Idea to The TRIBUNE. The TRIBUNE is not offering you a penny for your thoughts by a prize ranging from $2.50 to $10 for twenty-five words or less that shall tell just what your Big Idea is. The conditions:

Write your answer plainly on one side of a piece of paper.

Put your name and address at the top of the paper.

The paper must contain nothing else but your Big Idea, your name and your address.

Your Big Idea must be told in twenty-five words. If it is in excess of this length it will be eliminated automatically. This is important.

Your answer must be received by The TRIBUNE by next Saturday evening. The names of the prize winners and their Big Ideas will be published in The TRIBUNE on Sunday, February 13.

The first prize will be $10. The second $7.50, the third, $5 and the fourth $2.50.

Storm Sinks 100 City Boats in Lake Merritt

Practically the entire fleet belonging to the City of Oakland on Lake Merritt sank unanimously on Saturday night.

Something like 100 craft of all sizes and shapes went down in the marine disaster but no lives were lost. There were few lives near Lake Merritt on Saturday night anyhow. The storm was so brisk and the rains so heavy that the live ones preferred to stay home.

The great sinking was performed quietly and without witnesses. The boats just filled up and sank. Being wooden boats they sank just so far and no further, refusing to go very far under water. The larger boats were in danger of spoiling some engines and things, but as the machinery was well oiled and the boats promptly attended to no damage was done.

The Lake Merritt boat house force, which has had little business during the rainy season because of customers staying away, today experienced a rush of business. By noon several dozen boats were pumped out and dried. By tomorrow it is expected that all will be well at the lake again.

COMMISSION TO AWAIT REPORTS OF AUTO CLUBS

Reply to Charges to Be Withheld Till All Details Are Received.

Until a complete copy of the report charging the State Highway Commission with policies which have resulted in the failure of 30 per cent of the paved roads of the state is filed with the commissioners, and enough time has elapsed for a study of the same, there will be no replies made, according to a statement given out in Sacramento today by C. C. Carleton, acting secretary of the commission.

The accusations are made by the California State Automobile Association and by the Automobile Club of Southern California after a six-months survey conducted by engineers.

"I do not know that the Highway Commission will make any reply," said Carleton. "The annual report of the commission issued some time ago, tells of the policies followed and results accomplished. We have known all the time of the investigation that was being made by the automobile men and have always offered to assist. On many occasions the investigators came here for information which we gladly turned over to them."

The Highway Commission will have a hearing in San Francisco tomorrow, after which, it is intimated, some statement may be forthcoming.

CLUBS' CHARGES

Failure to experiment with available material and to suit the constructive material used in highways to the soil and conditions of the various part of the State are the main complaints cited by the California State Automobile Association and the Automobile Club of Southern California against the State Highway Commission. That 30 per cent of the concrete highways in California are in poor condition as a result of the commission's policies and that failures of the paved roads have been so frequent that an investigation was made necessary are other points brought out in a report that includes the results of investigations carried on for the past six months.

The automobile organizations have employed engineers to make a study of the highway situation and with their accusations they have offered remedies and suggestions. Among these is a suggestion to adopt road building specifications to local conditions, wider and heavier payments and stringent police regulations regarding overloading of vehicles and excessive speed.

HALF IN GOOD SHAPE

In addition to the 30 percent of the highway alleged by the automobile men to be in poor condition, 19.3 per cent the report says is in fair condition, leaving but a little over half in good shape. The inspection shows a higher percentage of failure in the south than in the north.

The automobile clubs began their investigations last July, inviting Governor Stephens to appoint a State representative to act with them. The Governor declined because he had already ordered a similar inquiry. The clubs spent over $30,000 on the work.

According to the report, the commission used the same type of construction in all parts of the State without any attention being paid to traffic conditions, sub soil or drainage. It is also alleged that the commission has not fully co-operated with the county officials in various parts of the State. The automobile club engineers says:

Just criticism of the State commission arises from the constantly recurring delays in payment of accounts of all kinds.

BILLS HELD UP

Bills for supplies and general expense are frequently held either in the office of the highway commission or of the board of control for months and it is difficult to find any logical reason for this unbusinesslike procedure. Contractor's progress payments and final estimates have suffered in the same way.

The commission's attitude has been the cause of severe criticism from contractors of the soundest reputation. Highway contractors in the past have found little profit in highway work. The list of contracting firms who have become bankrupt is astonishing. Numerous instances of rigid and drastic rulings involving considerable losses to the contractor have been cited. Such policies can have only one result—an increase in the future bids.

Marshall Gold Nuggets Found in '48 Are Exhibited

SAN JOSE, Jan. 31.—Pioneers of California, those who remember the early days when the great rush of gold seekers was on, are greatly interested in two nuggets owned by F. C. Munn of North Fifteenth street and which are the ones found by J. W. Marshall on February 2, 1848, and the news of which spread to all part of the world bringing the gold hunters by thousands.

These nuggets are the ones picked up by Marshall while constructing the sawmill for Captain John A. Sutter and were given by Marshall to Alvin Crandall, one of his assistants shortly after their discovery, and were sent by Crandall to his sister, the mother of F. C. Munn, who then lived in the East.

Shortly afterward the Munn family moved to California and has since lived in San Jose.

Mrs. Munn left the nuggets to her son at the time of her death and he still prizes them highly.

SOCIAL AGENCIES FUND IS SOUGHT FOR OAKLAND

Report is Made Showing the Need for Better Plans Among Aids.

The project of a "Community Chest," to finance Oakland's social agencies has been formally launched, making this the first city west of the Rockies to adopt the movement. Harvey Leebron's report on his survey of the need of better co-ordination of plans, services and finances for the local social agencies was made public today at the luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club. This document was originally offered last week before the officers' section of the Alameda County Union of Social Agencies when the nucleus of a committee to work out plans for better financing was created.

In its personnel are Miss Alice Brookman, general secretary Y. W. C. A.; Miss Elizabeth Ekeele, executive secretary Associated Charities; Dr. Alvin Powell, health center; Secretary Titus, Y. M. C. A.; Jay B. Nash, recreation department. Representatives from other organizations will be added.

LEEBRON EXPLAINS

What a Community Chest Could Do for Oakland was explained by Leebron this afternoon before Kiwanis members at the invitation of the city interests committee. The same question will be considered by the Merchants Exchange tomorrow night. Several of the civic groups including the Kiwanis club have seriously considered remedy against the constant solicitation of funds for charitable purposes.

Leebron said in part today:

Out of the 300 cities that had war chests and the 100 or more that have Jewish or Catholic financial federations and the fifty or more cities that started peace time community chests, there have been five or six failures—avoidable failures. Experts who have studied those failures agreed that apart from mismanagement and the failure to profit by the experience of other cities in the matter of organization and technique the failures in each case were due either to the impositions upon the social agencies by the business men of the community of a federation before those agencies wanted one or had agreed upon what they wanted or they were due to the domination of the policies and work of the community chest by people who had little sympathy with and less knowledge the varied social services that comprise a city's welfare work.

New Orleans, Oshkosh, Birmingham and San Antonio present instances of such failures.

FULL SUCCESS

"It is necessary to emphasize at the beginning that while the interest, support and active aid of every organization and every element in the community is necessary to assure the full success of a social service federation it is the social agencies themselves that must want it, organize it, manage it.

The New York social service expert has been engaged in making a survey of the recreation social agencies and co-operative neighborhood organizations in Oakland.

Cop Subdues Man With Butcher Knife

Earl Sproule, 2301 Brush street, was today formally charged with assault with a deadly weapon following his arrest last night by Patrolman Walter Gallagher at the point of a revolver. When the arrest was made Sproule was armed with a long butcher knife according to police reports.

Gallagher had arrested George Burnright for intoxication at Twenty second and Brush streets. Burnright told the officer that he was fleeing from Sproule, who he told the policeman had threatened his life.

When Gallagher went to Sproule's home to arrest him the latter according to Gallagher invited him in and then drew forth a butcher knife and started to chase him around the room. The policeman drew a revolver with which he calmed Sproule into submission.

Col. Flynn to Talk on Income Tax Law

Col. John I. Flynn, acting collector of internal revenue for San Francisco, will address the weekly luncheon of the Oakland Advertising Club tomorrow noon at Hotel Oakland on the income tax law.

He will explain the provisions of the law for all types of businesses and for all sizes of incomes.

Selection of a successor to Rex Midgley, resigned member of the club board of directors, will also be made at the luncheon.

LIONS URGE ATTENDANCE

An appeal for greater attendance at the weekly luncheons of the Lions club has been issued by the secretary of that club with the announcement that the local den of Lions will enter into the International Attendance Contest now being conducted by Lions clubs all over the country. The Oakland club is offering a special State Attendance Banner as a prize for the highest club in California and strive to keep the flag that it has offered.

San Francisco News

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—Special details of customs and internal revenue department guards are to be placed on watch nightly along the shores of the Golden Gate in an effort to stop the operations of small craft which, it was charged today by federal authorities, are engaged in smuggling whisky into this port from British Columbia.

Federal prohibition officials estimate that whisky valued at approximately $1,000,000 is finding its way illegally into this port every month. It is reported that a large number of launches are engaged in the traffic and that it may be necessary to detail internal revenue cutters to round up these small craft that are slipping in and out of port under cover of darkness. The federal officials are on the alert for the appearance of the launch Mary, which is said recently to have left Victoria with 500 cases of whisky consigned to San Francisco.

SIGNALS AND GLANCES LEAD TO 6 ARRESTS

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—Mysterious signals and meaning glances passing among diners at the Il Trovatore restaurant, 545 Montgomery street, early today led to an investigation by Patrolman McEachern and soon six persons were locked up in the city prison. McEachern entered merely to make sure there was no dancing going on.

When he saw the consternation visible everywhere he stepped to a private dining room separated by an eight-foot partition and tried the door. It was locked. As he walked down a hallway John Marti suddenly arose from his seat, climbed the partition and began wildly signaling to people on the other side. There was a scramble and a half-dozen persons ran upstairs.

McEachern entered, found a number of people dining, but only an empty glass which had contained liquor. There was no booze in sight. He arrested Marti, charged him with interfering with an officer and hustled him to jail. When the city prison was reached McEachern was followed by five patrons of the cafe, all of whom accused him of wrongfully raiding the place. They were the proprietor Angelo Gross and his wife Marie, the clerk Thomas Hart and his wife Jessie and a Mrs. Octavia Von Ityah. McEachern recognizing them as among those who had fled upstairs charged them all with disturbing the peace and interfering with an officer.

LONESOME BABE AROUSES POLICE, ALARMS PARENTS

Oakland's Japanese quarter today has not quite recovered from the turmoil into which it was thrown last night when Mr. and Mrs. Y. Teramura returned to their clothes cleaning and pressing establishment at 367 Seventh street and found their two sons aged respectively 3 and 5 years missing. When the Teramuras had left the house about an hour before the youngsters had been tucked into bed in the living quarters of the family upstairs.

Teramura and his wife aroused all their neighbors and were about to appeal to the police when the children were found in the care of a Japanese family not far from the Teramura home. It developed that the younger Teramura baby awoke and finding himself alone tumbled down stairs to the front door where with his small face pressed against a window he set up a bawl that attracted the attention of Policeman O. L. White. White broke into the store and after turning over the youngsters to the Japanese family reported the matter to the police.

BANDITS ROB ONE, ANOTHER, FLEET OF FOOT, ESCAPES

Two Pedestrians Encounter Footpads While On Way Home Early Today.

One pedestrian was held up and robbed by two men who waylaid him near Twenty third street and San Pablo avenue; another was ordered to halt and then pursued by an automobile bandit who drove up alongside of him near Seventh and Oak streets. Both the attempted holdup and pursuit, and the actual robbery, occurred within a space of five minutes of each other, shortly after 1 o'clock this morning.

In neither instance were the bandits masked and according to the victims did not display revolvers.

Abe Thomason of the Alberta apartments, Twenty-fourth and San Pablo avenue, was the man who was held up and robbed. A block from his own door two men sprang out of the shadows and confronted him. One of the robbers held his hand in his overcoat pocket significantly and kept pointing at Thomason as though he held a pistol concealed. Police inspectors who investigated the case expressed the belief that neither of the bandits was armed. One of the robbers then stuck his hand in Thomason's pocket and took $1 in cash. He wore jewelry but the footpads did not disturb it.

The attempted holdup occurred at Seventh and Oak streets a few minutes earlier and J. Miller of 167 Third street was the intended victim, who took to his heels and escaped. Miller was on his way home when an automobile pulled up alongside of him at the curbstone. The driver, who was the only occupant of the machine, gruffly shouted at the pedestrian to halt.

Instead of stopping, Miller turned and ran in the other direction. The auto bandit then jumped out of the car and pursued Miller.

LONELY WOMAN ASKS POLICE TO TO FIND SPOUSE

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—San Francisco now has a matrimonial squad. It is headed by Detective William O'Brien and today he got his first assignment in a detail to find a husband for Lola F. Steinmann, of Reno, Nevada. Lola is 31 years old and she wants a home and a husband. Her letter to the chief of police reads:

"Dear Sir:

I trust you will not laugh at this letter as it is written in all seriousness. My entire life has been nothing but sorrow and misery, and as a last resort I am writing to you in the hope that you may know someone in your wide acquaintance who may be able to bring a ray of sunshine into my life.

"If you should know some gentleman with enough human intelligence to appreciate a woman, and who is capable of giving an honest true blue woman of 31 a home and happiness, will you kindly tell him about me. If you should be the means of bringing happiness into my life, I shall be ever grateful to you.

Hoping you are different and still have a heart for humanity.

"Respectfully,
"LOLA F. STEINMANN."

Amateur Play Is of Aid to Church

Clever amateur acting was the feature of the playlet presented last night at Mary Help of Christian Catholic Church for the benefit of the church fund. The affair was given under the direction of John A. Bernard. Miss Anna Felalha played the leading part. Others in the cast were Rose Helen and Lorene Kelly and Veronica Soufa, chorus girls; John Correa, William Felalha, Frank Decorte, George Austin, M. Baker, and Daniel Souza.

News of the Churches

ATTACKS BLUE LAWS.

"The greatest fake before the American people today is that put out by an organization called reformers," declared Evangelist Francis D. Nichol in a sermon against Blue Laws at the Seventh Day Adventist Church in Vallejo last night. "Lacking genuine Christianity, or at least lacking the genuine means for imparting righteousness to men, they have produced a counterfeit

"Genuine methods for imparting righteousness were revealed in the Bible, and are exhortation, persuasion and prayer, aided by the spirit of God. Frighten sinners into saints' would be a good slogan for these reformers who have taken their cue from the torture chamber of a bygone age.

"Not only as a preacher of the gospel of love, but as one who desires to see men act out truly and frankly what they are, I protest against this scheme for making hypocrites en masse."

FIRST PRESBYTERIAN.

"We need Christ as the resurrection and life to raise the men and women who are bound with the grave-clothes of money and rag-time ideals of life," said Rev. Frank M. Silsley at the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning preaching on the subject "The Theology of a Man in Grave-clothes"

"Philosophy tells us that life is a series of sensations Biology says the secret of life is protoplasm, but these definitions are not satisfactory. Christ forever defined what life is when He said, 'I am the resurrection and the life'

"In this age men's brains are being bound by the success-ideal of life. The Promised Land of Prosperity, the Alameda Naval Base, is a glorious hope but it will test the souls of the people of the bay district.

"Men's brains are also bound with the grave-clothes of critical hostility to Christian truth. The most insidious enemy of the cause of Christ is the minister who scoffs at the saving truths of Christianity, belittles the blood of Christ, excoriates the church and sneers at belief in the integrity of scriptures. Conscience as well as mind may be bound with grave-clothes. When men justify bad habits and wide-open ideals their conscience is in grave-clothes

"Will-power and right emotion may also be in grave-clothes. Many persons have opposed God's will so long that their sympathies live in the atmosphere of a refrigerator and their wills have lost the power to obey God. There is only one power that can loose us from the grave-clothes and let us go and that is the touch of Christ. And when we are loosed from entangling alliances with the world, men will believe in Christ, as Lazarus loosed made them believe."

FIRST UNITARIAN.

Rev. Adelbert L. Hudson, who until recently, had been for many years the minister of the famous Unitarian church in Quincy, Massachusetts, spoke yesterday morning at the First Unitarian church, Oakland on the subject "The New Bible"

"Some millions of intelligent and well meaning people in America during the past generation fought with great bitterness against the acceptance of the theory of evolution," he said, "because it seemed to discredit the legendary stories of creation found in the book of Genesis. 'Either reject evolution or reject the Bible,' they cried, with almost hysterical zeal And, strangely enough, the large majority of people accepted the alternative as necessary and rejected the Bible.

"Since then a new generation has grown up, entirely unconscious of the great controversy, for whom the Bible has resumed its occupy a very peculiar position. They have found a copy of it put away somewhere in the homes of most well regulated families, vaguely respected and unread. If they go to church they hear the minister read from it and use a passage as his text. In Sunday school selected portions are read or committed. In short they have come to regard it as a sort of respectable relic, written in antiquated English, which their grandparents thought a great book, but which has no vital connection with their present day interests.

"If only the intelligent men and women of today would lay aside their indifference and make a rational study of the teachings of this great book of the ages, the result of such study would do much to solve the pressing problems of our time. We wish to preserve the priceless moral and religious value of the Bible, its deep prophetic insight into the problems of human nature, its inspiring poetic vision of an ideal social order among men, and its practical teachings in the every day conduct of life."

PLYMOUTH CONGREGATIONAL.

"The whole community is indicted when a gangster is exposed, a red-light district permitted or a vulgar moving picture or other theatrical performance given, for it proves that someone has failed to protest or take right action," declared Rev Charles L. Kloss, pastor of Plymouth Congregational church in a sermon yesterday on "The Momentum of Goodness"

"There will be some opposition to prohibition for a long time, but eventually it will giv way to the force of public opinion, irresistibly strengthened by results Its opponents are spreading propaganda everywhere, but it will not avail.

"Nothing happens by chance in this world. Your astronomer can tell you where the various world will be at any given second. In the realm of the spirit cause and effect are equally sure What we sow we reap. Everything in the universe is in motion. There is great momentum in both evil and good

"There is such a thing as reversion to type. When men are away from the influence of good they nearly always come back more like the original type

"Your progress ahead increases with the square of your velocity Many people go just fast enough to balance the resistance Those who determine to be good will be forced to overcome opposition. The greatest Man of all went down into temptation and testing such as no other human being ever knew.

"One evil boy can corrupt a school. One prominent church member, if slothful and indifferent, can ruin a church. One determined, vigorous good person can clean up a cesspool of iniquity or move many toward righteousness"

MEXICAN NABBED AS PEDDLER OF 'LOCO' CIGARETTES

First Arrest in History of This State for Offense; Traffic Takes On Scope.

The first arrest ever made in California for the selling of Narihuana weed or "Loco" weed, a form of Indian hemp with narcotic properties similar to the famous oriental drug, "hasheesh," was made today when Nietro Gomes, a Mexican was taken into custody, say police

The arrest was made by Police Sergeant E W. Brock and Inspector T. J McInerney of the State Board of Pharmacy Gomez was arrested while standing in front of the Star Pool Palace on Eighth street, between Broadway and Washington.

In Gomez' possession, according to the arresting officers, were some 25 cigarettes made of the Narihuana weed.

According to Inspector McInerney a small amount of the weed in one cigarette gives the smoker pleasant dreams The drug has the same habit-forming propensities and has effects fully as detrimental to the physical system as opium or morphine, according to McInerney

McInerney says the State Board of Pharmacy has information leading to the conclusion that attempts are being made to bring in large quantities of the relatively unknown drug into this State.

McInerney says that Gomez was selling the Narihuana cigarettes to young men and boys for twenty-five cents each.

CITY WILL DREDGE AT ALBERS' WHARF

Workmen started today laying pipes from the Albers wharf to a point 2000 feet inland, preparatory to dredging of the waterfront by the municipal dredger in front of Albers Wharf

The action follows a warning from Albers that the city would be held responsible for any damage done to shipping at the wharf.

The municipal dredger, according to Commissioner Soderberg, will leave the Hanlon yard as soon as the Albers pipe line is laid. The dredger was to have started for the West Oakland marsh but the new order changes things.

"The tide," said Soderberg, "has gradually silted in the bottom at this point, where the depth was once dredged to 30 feet but is now 25.

Whip Used to Balk Scheme of Bandits

RICHMOND, Jan. 31.—Lashing four masked bandits with a horse whip and at the same time whipping up his horses, B. A. Repetto, a vegetable peddler, who resides near San Pablo, Saturday evening escaped from the men in the midst of a fusillade of revolver shots One of the shots hit one of Repetto's horses and the animal died after the peddler had reached home.

Repetto was driving home after having peddled vegetables all day Saturday. It was dark and he was approaching San Pablo, when the four men leaped from behind some bushes along the road and commanded Repetto to stop Instead of obeying the command Repetto wielded his whip to keep the men from climbing upon the wagon and started his horses on a run. After he had left them behind the bandits opened fire with revolvers, wounding one of the horses. Repetto did not discover that the horse was wounded until he reached home.

The Richmond and San Pablo officers were notified.

G. A. R. Ladies to Conduct Funeral

Funeral services for Mrs Josephine Hazlett who died at her home in Elmhurst Saturday, will be held tomorrow at 2 p. m. from the undertaking parlors at 9032 East Fourteenth street, under the auspices of the Col. John B. Wyman Circle of the Ladies of the G. A. R., of which Mrs. Hazlett had for many years been an active member.

Mrs Hazlett was the widow of the late James Hazlett and mother of Mrs. Ida Oberst of Montana, Emmett Hazlett of Walla Walla, Wash., and the late Bessie Hurlbut. She was 70 years of age at the time of her death and besides being a member of the Ladies of the G A R was also active in Elmhurst Rebekah Lodge No. 277, and the Women and Girl Workers of the Civil War, '61-'65.

2 Men Hurt When Steel Plates Fall

Two men were injured, one of them seriously, when a chain hoisting slip on a steam crane at the Parr Terminal, on the western waterfront, slipped today, allowing several heavy steel plates to fall to the ground, striking the men

The injured men are Hugo Larsen, an engineer, residing at 160 Elmira street, San Francisco, and Nick Janssen, a stevedore, residing at #3952 Seventeenth street, San Francisco. Janssen sustained but minor injuries, but Larsen received a double ffracture of the righ leg and possible internal injuries

The men were loading the steel plates from a flatcar to the steamer Willfaro, docked at the Parr Terminal

Photoplay Firm to Open Branch Here

Roy L. Manker, vice-president and general manager of the Palmer Photoplay Corporation of Los Angeles, arrived in Oakland this morning to look into the details of opening a branch of the corporation in Oakland.

"So much interest is being taken these days by the people of the San Francisco bay territory in the writing of photoplays that it was deemed necessary to establish a branch here," said Manker, who is holding conferences with W. H. Moody, field director of the corporation.

The Palmer concern has 75,000 students enrolled studying the technic of the photoplay, according to Manker, the students being from all parts of the globe.

BRADY PLACED ON TRIAL THIRD TIME FOR S. F. ATTACK

Accused Man Again Faces a Jury for Alleged Part in Howard St. Assault.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—Thomas Brady was placed on trial for the third time before Superior Judge Louis Ward today in connection with his alleged participation in the orgie in the Howard street shack on Thanksgiving morning. Assistant District Attorney Stanislaus Riley elected to proceed again with the charge of attempted felonious assault on Jean Stanley

On Saturday the jury which disagreed, had voted ten for conviction on a charge of assault to do great bodily harm, and two for conviction on simple assault None of the jurors found the defendant had committed the more serious crime named in the indictment

Nevertheless today Brady was again brought face to face with a jury. The work of selecting twelve men to try him was begun at 11 o'clock with careful questioning of all talesmen by the prosecution and Attorney William Herron, for the accused.

James Carey was given a ten-day stay of execution this morning in order that an argument for a certificate of probable cause may be made to the Appellate Court. The additional time was needed because of the illness of two justices of that tribunal.

BROWN PREACHES SERMON TONIGHT

Although the union evangelistic campaign meetings which have been held nightly in Oakland for the past month with John Elward Brown as speaker were drawn to a format close last night, the evangelist, in a last minute conference with the executive committee decided to hold an additional meeting at the tabernacle tonight.

"The Last Fight," a forceful and fitting lecture effectively used in the consummation of many campaigns will be Evangelist Brown's topic.

With more than 500 persons storming the enquiry room during the three services held yesterday, and with an evening attendance of approximately 5000, of which a large portion were turned away, the campaign has culminated in one of the most successful gatherings ever held by this evangelist.

Brown preceded his sermon last night with the story of the conversion of Sam J Jones, famous gospel preacher, and chose for his subject Proverbs 29:1, the text of the last sermon ever preached by Jones: "He that being often reproved, hardeneth his neck"

Rev. Otis D Ironmonger, singing director for Evangelist Brown, and former assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian church of this city, brought the meeting to a climax by singing "The Great Judgment Morning"

The friends and supporters of Brown demonstrated their appreciation of his work last night by their generous response to the appeal for the thank offering. The evangelist leaves with his company tomorrow for Selma, where a three-weeks' program has been arranged. Following this he will return to the bay regions where he will fill an engagement of several weeks in Berkeley.

Mrs. B. W. Gustason Council Candidate

Mrs. Bessie Wood Gustason is the first woman to announce her candidacy for a commissionership at the spring election. She made public this morning that she would become a candidate for the office of Commissioner of Public Health and Safety against the present incumbent, P. F. Morse, and the array of men who are aspirants for the place.

Mrs. Gustason announces that her platform will stand staunchly upon the principals of the home; that good recreation belongs to the citizens as much as good streets and lights; that a moderate regulation rather than much censorship should be employed. At two pervious municipal elections Mrs. Gustason has been a candidate for a commissionership

Besides acting as secretary for the State Board of Embalmers, Mrs Gustason is active in Oakland Civic Center, the Oakland Club, the Native Daughters of the Golden West, the Oakland Business and Professional Woman's Club and many other civic and fraternal organizations

JURY CONVICTS MAN AND ASKS FOR LENIENCY

Following the conviction Friday of Oliver G. Horsfall on a charge of manslaughter and their recommendation of mercy the members of the jury appeared in a body before Judge George Samuels today and urged the court to grant Horsfall probation.

Horsfall was the driver of an automobile stage which struck and killed Ransford A. Crook, University of California student, on San Pablo avenue last August. He was tried once before, the jury failing to agree. During that trial his mother died after she had been sent to the county hospital, following her prostration from the shock of her son's arrest.

The jurors today declared that while they considered Horsfall guilty according to the law, they believed there were circumstances in the case which warranted leniency Judge Samuels, who previously had expressed himself as deeply sorry for Horsfall, referred the matter to Probation Officer Leonard D. Compton for an investigation and report.

FIVE YOUTHS ARRESTED FOR AUTO THEFTS

BERKELEY, Jan 31.—Five high school boys are in the custody of the Berkeley police today as a result of borrowing automobiles for joy-rides The names of the youthful culprits have not been disclosed by Chief of Police August Vollmer. They will be prosecuted for their thefts, however

Work on the part of Officers W. J. Wilson and George Kohler resulted in the capture of the youths after Miss Lois Blair, college student, 2615 Fulton street, had reported her automobile stolen from in front of the T. & D. theater, Shattuck avenue and Kittredge street. Later the car was found empty of gasoline in the hill district and shortly afterwards the boys were taken in custody.

According to the police the boys have taken nine automobiles during the past few weeks in Oakland and Berkeley, running them as long as the gasoline lasted and then abandoning them. Confessions of their acts have been made by the youths to the police. All are 17 or 18 years of age They will be turned over to the juvenile authorities.

GIRL WHO SLEW MOTHER SAYS IT WAS NECESSARY

STEAMBOAT SPRINGS, Col., Jan 31.—Expressing no regret for having murdered her mother because the latter refused to allow her to receive her sweetheart, Annie Mudra, 15, talked freely of her crime in the Routt county jail here today. When arrested, the girl was dirty and unkempt. She told officers her face hadn't been washed for three weeks

The murder was discovered by the girl's father, Frank Mudra, who returned home after a three weeks' absence and found the body of his wife under a pile of manure in the stable yard. The girl confessed that she shot and killed her mother nearly a month ago because she objected to her daughter's sweetheart.

"I loved George. He was my whole life Mother kept nagging me, so I had to do something," was the unemotional way the girl explained her deed.

She will be tried before the juvenile court here.

WIFE USED HIS SMOKES ALL UP; HE GETS DIVORCE

Because Mrs. Anna Turnquist insisted on smoking her husband's choicest cigarettes, frequently leaving him destitute of them, William Turnquist was granted a divorce by Judge Dudley Kinsell today.

Turnquist said he often was forced to go to bed without his evening pastime of puffing when on returning late to the house he found his wife had exhausted the supply which, he said, caused him great suffering

The couple, who resided in Alameda, married in 1914 and separated October 1 last. There are no children

Bills Proposed for Dentists Endorsed

Three legislative bills relating to dentistry have received formal endorsement of the Alameda County Public Health Center through its executive committee. The dental hygienist bill carries an amendment to the state dental law providing for the examination and license for women to enter service of cleaning teeth and teaching principles of mouth hygiene, under supervision of the dentist.

Amendment to the school law would enable the dental hygienist to secure a health and development certificate from the State Board of Education that she may work through the schools Under the present law teacher, nurse, physician and dentist are provided for. A division of dentistry in the State Board of Health to disseminate information and assist in the organization of dental clinics is provided for in the third measure which was endorsed

MORE TERRITORY IS GIVEN NEWLY FORMED SCHOOL

Part of Eureka and Alvarddo Taken Into Tennyson District.

The petition to take from Eureka and Alvarado school districts certain territory in Eden township and annex it to the newly-formed Tennyson district because the residents therein are nearer to the latter school was granted today by the Board of Supervisors

Supervisor C. W. Heyer said he and the proponents of the petition were willing to grant the request of A H Hesse, a ranchman that property surrounding him be excluded because the location of the roads would force his children to travel a greater distance to Tennyson school than heretofore, but that Deputy District Attorney Theodore Wittschen ruled this would be legally impossible now He said the law permits changes in school district boundaries only during certain months of the year and that there would not be time to readvertise under the proposed changed conditions or to put through an entirely new petition

Harvey A Evens, 5884 Boyd avenue sent a letter to the board protesting against the use of one-man cars by the San Francisco-Oakland Terminal Railways saying Oakland would soon be the 'laughing stock of large city transportation circles" if railroad companies were permitted to "throw upon the public the watch-charm type of one-man cars"

Dr. R. G. Broderick, director of hospitals, announced that Ruth and Charles Wills, leprous children at the county hospital, were to have sailed today on a shipping board steamer to enter the Kalihi leper hospital at Molokai island, Hawaii, but that the captain had protested because his vessel does not reach the embarkation point for the children until after it has toured the islands for ten days and he did not wish to have them on board that long. The protest was sustained and the pair will be held here for several weeks

County Librarian Miss Mary Bamby reported the circulation of books in the various branches of the county library during December to have been 22,289. There were 11,036 borrowers and 33,155 books owned by the libraries

Western Pacific May Buy Ocean Shore R. R.

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan 31.—The possibility of the purchase by the Western Pacific Railway of the properties of the defunct Ocean Shore Railway(was made known in a hearing before the Board of Supervisors today Sixteen industries in the commercial district obtained permission from the board for the operation of thirty days of a steam engine over the Ocean Shore tracks in order to take care of the freight. By that time, according to the attorneys, the Western Pacific will have had an opportunity to make an investigation and determine whether it will purchase any or all of the properties

The Western Pacific is anxious to stimulate its freight business and may only take the tracks within the city limits On the other hand, it is hinted that the company plans a feeder line through to Santa Cruz, which might be made profitable if the Western Pacific could be completed from its present terminal to Tunitas Glenn to a point twenty miles south of Santa Cruz, where a branch line is already in operation

Wife Says Husband Threatened Her Life

Her husband's threats that he would make a "bloody end of it all" caused Mrs. Daisy Kent to file suit for divorce against McKenzie A. Kent, according to the allegations of her complaint, which was recorded today

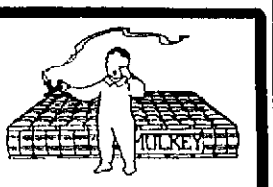

According to Mrs Kent, her husband, who is a ship carpenter, occupied his spare time with making threats against her life and found great amusement in picturing her sanguinary end. Finally she was unable to stand the strain any longer, Mrs. Kent alleges and they separated. The Kent home is at 2714 Adeline street The couple were married November 24, 1915. Mrs. Kent asks for the community property valued at $2000 and for alimony.

Three Convicted of Murder in Prison

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Conviction by court martial of Alexander Kahn, Donald Fisher and Robert L. Lecoen on charges of murder committed while they were inmates of the federal prison at Leavenworth, was upheld today by the Supreme court. WARSAW, Jan. 31.—The Diet, after six months' contest, has adopted the articles of the constitution creating a Senate.

HOW DOCTORS TREAT COLDS AND THE FLU

First Step in Treatment is a Brisk Purgative With Calotabs, the Purified and Refined Calomel Tablets That Are Nauseless, Safe and Sure.

Doctors have found by experience that no medicine for colds and influenza can be depended upon for full effectiveness until the liver is made thoroughly active. That is why the first step in the treatment is the new, nauseless calomel tablet called Calotabs, which are free from the sickening and weakening effects of the old style calomel. Doctors also point out the fact that an active liver may go a long way towards preventing influenza and is one of the most important factors in enabling the patient to successfully withstand an attack and ward off pneumonia

One Calotab on the tongue at bed time, with a swallow of water—that's all. No salts, no nausea, nor the slightest interference with your eating, pleasure or work. Next morning your cold has vanished, your liver is active, your system is purified, and you are feeling fine, with a hearty appetite for breakfast. Druggists sell Calotabs only in original sealed packages, price thirty-five cents. Your money will be cheerfully refunded if you do not find them delightful.—Advertisement

The Authority of Years

For over 50 years Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has helped thousands of women, to better health, greater strength, brighter spirits, better looks. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, (in tablet or liquid form) helps women to retain their youthful looks because it removes the cause of most of the troubles peculiar to women. It is a non-alcoholic tonic—invigorating and health-restoring—which has been so successfully used by American womanhood.

BISHOP, CAL.—"About five years ago I suffered severely. I consulted a local doctor and he said I would have to undergo an operation. I then tried Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription (took one bottle) also one bottle of the 'Golden Medical Discovery,' and used the 'Lotion Tablets' and I have not been troubled since. I have had two fine healthy boys since then, and work hard. At that time I was not able to do my own work."—Mrs. S. C. ALEXANDER, R. F. D. No. 1.

The Woman Hater

by RUBY AYERS

"I will never go back," said Faversham fiercely. He spoke the words aloud, unconsciously.

"I beg your pardon," said Lester's pert voice at the door. "I thought you spoke, sir," she said smoothly, as Faversham turned.

Faversham made no answer. He disliked the girl, and knew instinctively that she disliked him. She busied herself clearing the breakfast things away. She lingered in the room deliberately till Mrs. Dundas came down again. As they left the house together, Miles, turning to close the gate, saw Lester watching them from the window.

"You've brought the sunshine with you," Mrs. Dundas said, looking up at him. "Yesterday it rained, and I very nearly packed my boxes and ran back to town."

"It rained in town, too. We go down the steps here to the sands, if I remember." He glanced down at her feet and laughed. "You don't call those sensible shoes, do you?"

She stopped and lokoed down at her little brown boots.

"Why, they are ever so thick!" she said indignantly.

Faversham shrugged his shoulders.

"Very well. I suppose I shall have to carry you if we get to any pools."

She laughed excitedly.

"As you did before, you mean, Miles? Do you remember when we nearly got caught by the tide?"

"I do, but I have no intention of repeating the experience, if that is what you mean. I had the fright of my life then. You're the kind of woman who would never allow yourself to be saved if the worst came to the worst. You would clutch a man round the neck and drown him and yourself, too."

"Am I such a stupid person?"

"Very few women can keep their heads when there is real danger," he maintained.

"But then, you hate women," she teased him. "Philip said you did—that is the first thing he ever told me about you."

"He told you why I hated them, too, I suppose?"

"Yes."

"And you laughed, of course?"

She flushed distressfully.

"If I did, it was the other me that laughed—not the me that loves you."

The humility of her voice made him wince. Utterly charming as he found her in her softened mood, he would have preferred her to be gay and imperious as he had known her in the past. It would have placed things on such a much fairer footing. As it was, his whole soul revolted against the inequality of the situation.

They went down to the long strip of sands. The tide was some way out and little pools of green, clear water were left in deep hollows round the rocks, with long seaweed floating in them, like a woman's hair.

The air was fresh and keen, and brought a color to Lallie's face. Suddenly she threw her serious mood aside. She caught Faversham's hand.

"Run! You simply must! No? Oh, Miles, you're not as old as all that! Very well, then I shall run alone." And she sped away, leaving little footprints like a child's behind her in the smooth, wet sand.

Faversham watched her ruefully. He walked half a dozen paces with slow dignity. Then her ringing laugh, coming back to him on the breeze, proved too infectious. He dashed after her, caught her close to the edge of the sea and held her fast.

They were both rather breathless.

"You'll find it doesn't pay to run away from me," he said, and then stopped, realizing the import of his words.

But Mrs. Dundas laughed happily.

"I don't want it to pay. I haven't the least wish to run away from you again—ever!"

He kept his arm about her as they walked soberly on once more. They had rounded the cliffs now and were out of sight of the village.

"Miles," she said suddenly, "the other day you asked me about—well, about everything that has happened since the old days. Well—I should like to tell you now."

He made no answer, and suddenly she pulled off her left glove, thrusting her hand out for his inspection. She wore no wedding ring.

"Why have you taken it off?" he asked curtly.

She gave a swift upward glance at his set face.

"I never really had the right to wear it," she answered. "I've never been married, Miles. He did ask me—Mr. Dundas, I mean, but he was old and fat—" She shivered daintily. "Though he was so rich, I could not marry him. I just couldn't, and then—then he died and left all his money to me on condition that I took his name and let people think I had been his wife."

She felt his arm slacken a little around her, and she went on quickly:

"I suppose you think it was horrid of me? The new me that loves you, thinks so, too, now. But then—I'd been poor so long, and I always adored money, so I just accepted the conditions, and—that was all!"

She gave a rueful little laugh. "The money didn't last long. I don't know how I spent it. I went to Monte Carlo, and every one thought I was really a widow, and they all made such a fuss over me, and I went to the tables and played, but I had dreadful luck—" She paused. "Something horrid happened to me there, Miles. There was a boy. * * * Oh, yes, he really was just a boy. Only twenty-one, and he—loved me. He used to remind me of you, as you were when we first met—" She stopped. "Why did you take your arm away?"

"I only want to light a cigarette," but it was an excuse, and they both knew it. Lallie's face looked rather strained when presently she went on speaking, humbly.

"I'm telling you everything, Miles. All the horrid things, too. I'm not keeping anything back." She looked up at him appealingly. "Are you hating me very much?"

"No—go on."

"Well—he loved me. I think he loved me better than any one in all my life. He wanted me to marry him, but I didn't care, not in that way, and I told him so. I shall never forget what he said and how he looked. He said: 'Some day some man will break your heart as you have broken mine.' I can hear his voice still—all hoarse and old, it sounded! And I—Oh, Miles, I laughed at him. I was beast enough to laugh!"

Her voice trembled and broke.

"As you laughed at me—years ago," was the thought in Faversham's heart, but he said nothing, and she went on after a moment.

"I never saw him again. * * * The next morning—they found him—dead—!"

Faversham made no comment, and she went on tonelessly:

"He always used to say he would—do it—and I never believed him. I had to leave Monte Carlo after that. Every one blamed me, of course. I'd lost half my money then, and I went to London, and met the Mastermans there, you know. It was they who brought me to New York—did you know?"

"Yes."

"They knew a great many people and I paid them to introduce me."

"So I heard," said Faversham dryly.

She flushed sensitively.

"Yes, I suppose everybody guessed. It's queer how I mind—now. I didn't then." She paused. "Mrs. Masterman introduced me to Philip," she added with an effort. "She liked me then. I think she hates me now."

"Without cause?" Faversham asked unemotionally.

She raised hot eyes to his.

"It was not my fault. I never liked John Masterman and I had no idea he cared about me till—till he asked me to go away with him." Her eyes fell before Faversham's steady gaze.

"Well—well, perhaps I was to blame—a little," she admitted, half in a whisper.

They walked some way in silence.

"Do you hate me very much?" she submitted presently with a sob.

Faversham stood still. He took off his hat and, facing the sea, let the fresh breeze blow on his face and forehead.

"At least I've been honest," she said falteringly. "I wanted you to know everything about me. I didn't want to hide anything. If you like to ask me any question, Miles, I will answer them, I promise you faithfully."

Faversham shook his head. He could not analyze his feelings—could not understand the faint jealousy in his heart when he was so confident that he did not love her.

The few kisses and caresses of which she had cheated him were due to the glamour of past memories, he told himself. There could be no happiness for either of them if he were to marry her. There were so many shadows between them.

And yet—he knew that she loved him.

He loked down at her with somber eyes. She was watching him with pathetic anxiety.

"I thought you would be rather—pleased to find that I am not really—anybody's widow," she said tremulously.

The appearance of some boys with crabbing nets saved Faversham an answer. One of them called to him:

"Tide's coming in, sir," and pointed in the direction from which they had come.

Faversham looked round hurriedly.

"By Jove! Come along. We shall have to run."

He caught her hand and they sped along together back to the foot of the cliffs, against which every incoming wave now swirled.

"Another five minutes and history would have repeated itself rather forcibly," Miles said. He looked down at the girl beside him. "I shall have to carry you, unless you want to get your skirts and boots saturated."

He did not wait for an answer, but swung her up into his arms, waited for the water to recede a little, then ran for it.

He set her down again, flushed and laughing.

"That's what comes of a woman telling the story of her past life," he said, half-mockingly, half in earnest.

The tears filled her eyes.

"You're laughing at me," she said. "You wouldn't—if you knew how it hurt to have to tell you at all; and there's so much more, ever so much more."

"I think I'll take the rest for granted," said Miles rather grimly. "Any more, and I shall feel bound to return the compliment and take a seat on the stool of confession myself." He met her eyes. "One thing I promise you," he added. "There would be no woman in it."

They returned to the cottage almost silently.

"Are you going back to town tonight?" she asked wistfully.

Miles hesitated.

"I don't know. I told Grayson to wire me."

"To wire you—what for?"

"If there was any need to return."

He did not tell her that he had left instructions with Grayson to try to find out what had become of Philip and to wire him the result. A telegram came as they were lunching.

Miles opened it eagerly.

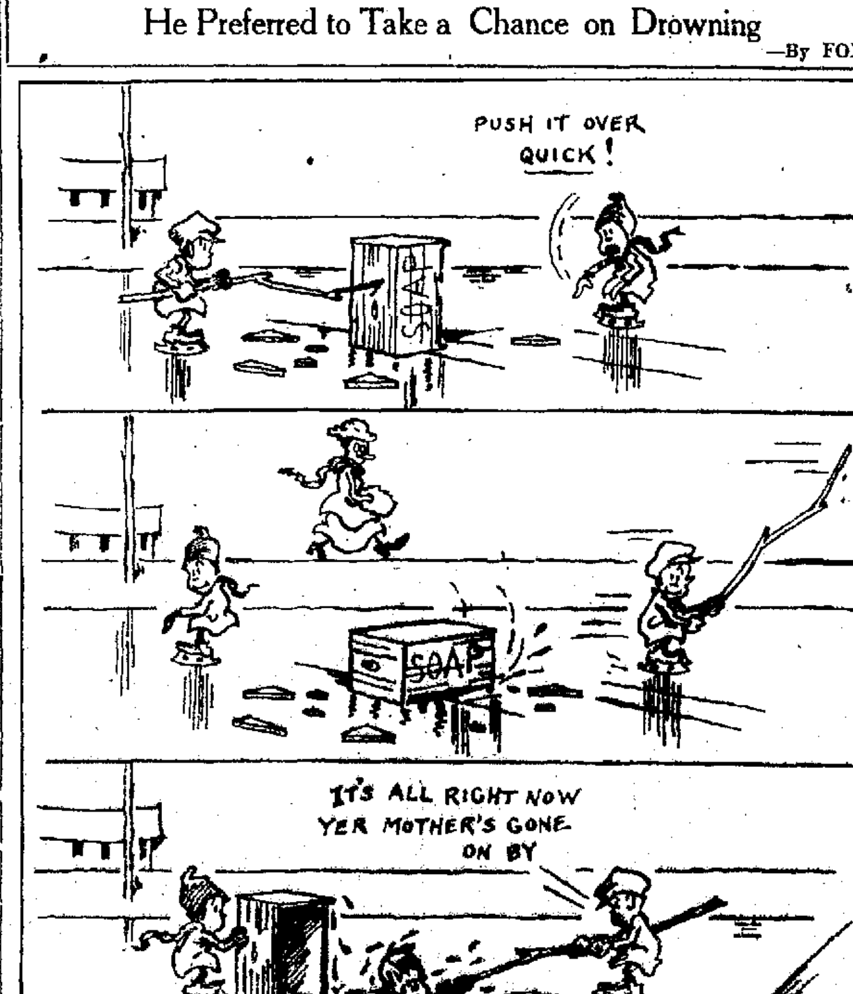

"No news at all.

"GREYSON."

WOMEN WAR MAKERS

Well, well, well! They're getting down to first principles over in Bulgaria. The new government there is going to hold wives responsible for the influence they have exerted on their husbands in war, in politics and in religion.

The government is going to take the wives of several leading Bulgarian generals and put them on trial under a charge of co-responsibility for the disastrous outcome of the war for Bulgaria.

"These women could have stopped the war, if they had wanted to do it," says the Bulgarian government. "They could have stopped the murder and the misery and the starvation long ago—but no, they wanted uniforms in the family. They liked to be married to a general—and they wanted to marry their daughters off into the army. So they urged their husbands on—and kept this nation at war long after we should have had peace. Why shouldn't they be made to pay for what they have done?"

Rather interesting situation, isn't it?

I've often wished someone would hold some women responsible for the things they do when they influence their husbands wrongly.

I know a woman who never allows her husband to have a partner for more than two years.

She's jealous—either of the partner himself, or of the partner's wife.

And she simply will not have her husband happy in business unless she's happy, too—and she never is happy because she's jealous and suspicious and envious. That man she has married will go down to his grave called a failure—and it's all her fault.

No, not quite all hers. If her husband had the character of a man he wouldn't permit his wife to interfere in his business.

But he's easily led, and very much in love with his wife—and year by year she's pulling him down and down, and some day she will tell him she's sorry she married such a failure.

I know a man who would be a great success in his line of work if it were not for his wife. The man is a portrait painter. He has to know people in order to get orders.

But his wife doesn't want him to know people. She wants him to stay at home with her and she never can see why his friend, the landscape painter, makes so much money when he isn't any more of an artist than her husband.

The landscape painter has a wife who helps him instead of hindering him. She gives nice, little studio parties and invites pleasant people and makes friends for him. That's why.

I know the editor of a newspaper; and that editor can't print the news as it really is at all. He has to print it to please his wife, and every rascal in the town where the paper is published knows it. And when there is a crooked deal to be put through, one of the rascals has somebody give a grand party in honor of the editor's wife. And the editor's wife nags at her husband until he throws the influence of his paper back to the rascal's scheme.

And that paper is getting to be a laughing stock instead of a power for good. Why shouldn't that woman be held responsible for her influence in the matter?

And yet

No, I'm afraid I don't agree with the Bulgarians.

I'd try to put men of character into positions of power in my government and then hold the men responsible—and if they were so weak that they couldn't stand out against the influence of their wives or anybody else, I would put them out of office and put somebody else in.

A woman who allows a man to interfere in her personal affairs in the household or out of it, is a good deal of a goose.

A man who allows a woman to dictate to him what his conscience alone should have the power to do, is a good deal of a fool.

And I'm afraid that's about all there is to it.

Letters of Tessie & Joe

DEAR JOE:

Well Joe, I was so excited this morning I didn't hardly know whether I was standing on my heads or my elbows. I thought the baby had handed us a tooth at last! All of a sudden he started to laugh as merry as the ace of spades, sort of a surprised laugh, just the way you'd imagine a baby would laugh if it suddenly felt a tooth in his mouth where all had been pure vacancy before.

But when I ran into the room Joe, it was only another false alarm. The baby was only laughing at your picture! That's much better than getting mad at it and throwing it on the floor the way he did last week, isn't it Joe? At least it shows he has a sense of humor and realizes that when a thing can't be avoided it's wise to make the best of it and just laugh it off.

The little angel gained a whole half pound net weight this week. I took him around to weigh him at Stutz's store (my blue enamel scales are permanently out of order. I'll never buy such expensive scales again—if you drop them twice they're practically useless)—and I weighed him on Mr. Stutz's small scales. I wasn't used to those scales and it took me quite a little time, and Mr. Stutz was waiting to weigh some frankfurters, and there were several customers waiting, but just the same Mr. Stutz had no right to make the remarks he made, even when he found out I didn't actually want to buy anything. My baby is more important than a string of frankfurters and I don't care who hears me say so.

I've got a new nursegirl Joe. She's Finnish and hardly speaks a word of English any more than the day she was born, but I took her anyway because she's so thin and I'm tired of seeing hearty looking nursegirls eat themselves black in the face at my expense while I personally merely nibble like a broken hearted canary trying to reduce.

Lovingly,
TESSIE.

One Hundred Great Americans

By Mark Stuyvesant

Wendell Phillips was descended from a race of sturdy, independent men whose first progenitor in this country was a minister who arrived in Massachusetts Bay Colony in 1630. John Phillips, Wendell Phillips' father, was elected the first mayor of Boston in 1822. The man who later said that "One on God's side is a majority," was born at Boston, Nov. 28, 1811.

It is said that a year or so after Wendell Phillips had "hung out his shingle" as a lawyer he met an old classmate who asked him how he was getting on. Phillips replied that he wasn't getting many clients. "It's the same with me," the classmate declared. "But you ought to do well, for you were such a good orator in college." "Well," Phillips said, "I will wait six months more, and then if clients do not come I will not wait for them any longer, but will throw myself heart and soul into some good cause and devote my life to it if necessary."

If Phillips really had been a failure as a young lawyer his was a fortunate failure. What Phillips probably meant was that his mind was already busy with plans he was maturing to enter heart and soul into one good cause, the championship of which he knew would alienate even his oldest friends. Soon he was in the thick of the anti-slavery movement.

Wendell Phillips.

It was while in this work that Phillips met and married the woman who became his inspiration and consolation. At the time of their marriage she was an invalid, compelled to keep her room. But for years this room was the shrine of Phillips' devotion, from which he never went out to fight for the many causes he advocated without renewed courage and faith.

Great as was Phillips' services to the cause of the negro, it is said that he did not separate the question of the black man from universal emancipation. He became the champion of those who suffered injustice. His client, it is said, was "wronged and degraded humanity." It was this spirit which made Wendell Phillips stand undaunted before mobs in the city of which his father had been mayor, and which made him fearless in the face of threats made in other communities to take his life. It is declared that he evaded those who came to lynch him with a calmness that was amazing.

One of the most powerful orators this country has ever produced, a speaker so formidable in debate that he was universally feared by his opponents, some of Wendell Phillips' orations even today read like literary gems. His foresight, though he was by no means infallible, was remarkable.

Phillips' effective work for woman suffrage will never be forgotten, nor his fight against intemperance, his advocacy of the rights and dignity of labor, his efforts for the betterment of the conditions of the insane, his assistance to the cause of prisoners and his aid to the Indians. Those who were championing the cause of Ireland in 1881 begged him to lecture for them in London. But Phillips declined because his health was failing.

When Phillips died, Feb. 2, 1884, in the city of his birth, he was 72 years old. And every year of his manhood had been devoted to what has been described as "the emancipation of humanity." His body lay in state in Faneuil Hall, and through that very hall where he in life had been hissed and threatened with death, thousands filed to pay him homage. Later memorial services seemed to find it hard adequately to express the love and reverence those who once had reviled him now desired to accord his memory.

Cry on Geraldine's Shoulder

I'll admit it—I'm partial to men. Not partial to men merely because they are men, but PARTIAL TO THE SORT OF TRAINING MEN GET IN LIFE. I do not think that Nature has endowed men with either more or less brains and morals than women. But Civilization has certainly mapped out their lives along more sensible lines. There's a great deal of poetry in the work of rocking the baby and watering the geraniums, but it is mighty apt to be hard on a sense of humor and a perception of the wide, impersonal scope of life. You're apt to think that all existence centers on You, Baby and Geranium. Whereas, the man who stands at the bench with a score of others, or who is playing the Big Game down in the street, is FORCED to develop into an Adjustable Human although his natural instincts may be as unaccommodating as a cheese grater. So, I'm partial to the Man Attitude in Life. Which at times renders me unpopular. Here, for instance. Friend "Dad" violently disapproves of the way I replied to a recent letter from Helen Dodge Smith. Somebody tried to hold Helen's hand—probably because it was pretty and Helen a dear. Helen immediately decided that the whole world was going to the bow-wows and said so. I tried to show her the natural part hand-holding plays in the big program. Enters Dad—

Dear Geraldine—

I'm going to take you to task for your reply to Helen Dodge Smith. I'm quite a little past the half-century mark and since I was 13 I've made my own way. I have seen the world as it really is and rubbed elbows with many classes and conditions of mankind. Now, with this knowledge of men, I do not approve of your advice to Helen. I do not think she should have "smilingly" withdrawn her hand and said, "I need that hand to eat with now, Buddy, but I'm glad you're happy." NO, INDEED! She should have gotten up quickly and broken her chair over his d—— head, for she, her sister and her mother had lavished all but their virtue upon those men and that BRUTE wanted that also. He needed a shock such as that to wake him up.

Geraldine, most of us men are "animals walking on our hind legs." But don't you know that the God who made us also gave us Minds and Wills, and He expects us to use them. He expects us to cultivate our finer sensibilities and to develop our civilization. The idea of excusing and coddling these Brutes for their sensual deeds is tommy rot.

I long to take that sweet hand of Helen's in mine just long enough to drop a few real big tears upon it to help heal the hurt in her heart she must have felt from his sarcastic remarks to her. O for a world of women like her.

I like you just the same, Jerry, but please quit coddling those reprobate men.
DAD.

Sensuality

And I like you, too, Dad, but somehow I wonder what sort of a small boy you were. Didn't YOU ever want to hold a pretty girl's hand at the dinner table? For that was the whole of this Dreadful Incident which you think merits being busted over the head with a chair! No, Pal, I NEVER coddle real sensuality in either men or women AND I MEET IT JUST AS OFTEN IN WOMEN AS I DO IN MEN. We all have the same hot-blooded animal foundation—and we must all find the finer life by the same path. I believe in clean knowledge concerning that animal foundation, and then I believe in SEEING THINGS IN THEIR TRUE PROPORTION WITH HUMOR AND TOLERANCE. Helen was seeing things all in a false jumble of sensitiveness and exaggerated femininity and piffling conventionality. She needed to keep herself pure, but she was confusing all sorts of trifles with that essential purity. And that dreadful advice of mine set her right and brought her joy. How do I know? BECAUSE SHE WROTE AND TOLD ME AND THANKED ME FOR IT! Didn't you, Helen?

Wake up and grin, dad. I know just as much about Vice as you do, and I assure you I am not petting its chin whiskers. But TRUE RIGHTEOUSNESS is founded on knowledge, humor and tolerance for ourselves and others.

Here's another letter referring to Helen, in quite a different strain—Helen doesn't need it now, Pinkie. She is seeing things with rosier glasses. But Jerry thanks you for the letter heaps.

Sees Philosophy

Dear Jerry: Now that you've been jumped on by these youthful collegians, I wonder if an ancient, mossbacked "grad," aged 24, may shy his old sombrero into the ring, and rally to your defense? Not that you need it, though, Jerry, not at all.

I've read the letters of Miss Smith and "Twenty-three" with mingled emotions, some amusement, some impatience, some pity, and perhaps just a bit of cynicism, the latter on account of my old age, I guess.

I was just like "Twenty-three" once, Jerry—hadn't ever kissed a girl, hadn't even ever held hands—in fact, I was scared to death when I talked to a girl. However, two years in the service, coupled with a more thorough appreciation of my last year on the campus, helped me to realize how BIG LIFE REALLY IS, AND HOW NARROW ONE'S PREJUDICES MAY BECOME. I feel sorry for Miss Smith, Jerry, four years of opportunity on the most beautiful campus in the country, and missed the greatest lesson of all, which isn't learned in the lecture room, but in the daily contact with one's fellow students. As for "Twenty-three," he still has chances, let's hope he makes use of it. Perhaps when he attains the dignity of the senior bench he may absorb some of the wisdom that is gained from watching the daily "flight."

I've rambled somewhat from my original purpose, which was just to let you know how much your sermon (bet you don't like that word) on "Pals" was appreciated. I've had hours and hours of philosophy courses, Jerry, but I'm still human enough to find more real philosophy in your column than in most of the vacuous utterances of an academic highbrow. A girl pal of mine once said "What's the use of liking anyone if you don't tell them about it?" and I think she's right, don't you?
PINKIE.

However, folks, don't be carried away with the idea that Jerry's a riot with everyone. Listen to this Short-but-sniffy Snort:

Editor of The TRIBUNE: Geraldine's advice is disgusting to many. It should be suppressed.
SUBSCRIBER.

Drefful sorry, Friend, but you know you don't have to read me if you don't like me. I think you have all the right in the world to disapprove of me, only why don't you sign your name when you say so? Jerry's a good sport. She'll value your criticism whether it's for or against her, but she thinks you should value it enough yourself to be willing to sign your name. Here's someone who did—although I'm only giving you his initials. And do I like it? We'll loudly announce WE DO! Only all the credit for this column does not belong to Jerry. It belongs to all the Big Pals who are writing for it.

Jerry and Human Nature

Dear Jerry: You must possess an universal panacea. How did you acquire it in one lifetime? It is good for the young, the middle-aged and the old. Out of a seemingly inexhaustible supply of wisdom, you have a correct solution for every problem presented you. You must be a compendium of Love, Wisdom and Serenity. Therefore I don't want to meet you—it would be too embarrassing for little me. Go to it, old scout; you are saving an average of a soul a day; which makes of your department the most efficient soul-saving plant this side of the Salvation Army.

Your answers have added to my own amour-propre; for I feel that I elevate myself to your intellectual rank when I say to myself: "I quite agree with Jerry." Next thing I know, I'll be saying "Me and Jerry thinks—." When that happens, I shall either be flattering you by imitation, or stealing your thunder.

You must have sipped of every heady beverage that life has to offer to the brave and the curious, without getting nausea of suffering a scar—for you surely know. Nothing that could happen to you would ever cause you to say or believe that human nature is fundamentally bad. And if all the world was like you, its Jerrys would be out of a job.

Now, Jerry, you don't need this, but I have got it off my chest. Oh, and one thing more! You have given the lie to the old saying: "A prophet is not without honor, save in his own country and among his own kindred." "Can any good thing come out of Nazareth?" Yea, for a Jerry has come out of Oakland. Yours in the faith,
W. G. E.

Home Loving Girl

Here's a letter, folks, from "One Who Knows" and he tells you the kind of girls boys like—only don't crowd, for he has already found the one who answers his description:

Dear Jerry: This is from a boy. I have been reading your column for quite a while and you sure have good hints for everyone. Why is it so many girls write you and not many fellows?

Girls don't seem to realize that all fellows appreciate a home-loving girl. I know, too. I am engaged to a very good girl and she likes pleasure and dancing, but knows there is a limit. A fellow isn't going to treat a girl as he would his sister unless she proves that she is worth it. Above all things he doesn't respect a girl who smokes or overdoes this companionship stuff with other fellows, or puts on the paint thick. Why can't a girl invite her friend to a little dinner that she has cooked herself? That's what a fellow will fall for quicker than all the paint and powder. Please, Jerry, tell the girls if they want good husbands to make themselves attractive by practicing a few of the domestic arts. That beats vamping.
ONE WHO KNOWS.

I suspect this boy of being Really Good—but we need a few of 'em so Three Cheers.

A MOTHERLESS CHILD: If HE knows where you live and has made no move to see you for eight long months, don't you think it is because he doesn't want to? That isn't easy to say to you, but down in your heart don't you think it is so? Be good pals with the minister's son and try to forget the other, for apparently, dear, he has forgotten.

If the boy your sister wants to meet so badly has moved near you, she will probably get acquainted with him naturally, through friends. "Pick-ups" rarely pay.

Jerry wishes, dear, she could take the place of your mother—be a regular fairy godmother, and bring back the boy you want, but she can't. She will love you a lot, though.

Going With a Boy

Dear Jerry: I have many problems to ask you to answer. One is, is it proper for a girl to go with a boy who has gone with her sister? She went with him but wrote to another boy who had gone away. He has come back now, and, Jerry, I am 22, do you think I can trust my heart? I love the boy who went with my sister. I know he loves me, because he told me so. He is 28. He says it is not right to leave my sister, even if the other fellow did come back. What shall we do? My sister is 25. She treats me as if I were a child. How shall I make her realize I'm not one? Once she said I should not go with the boy I'm going with. How shall I explain to him that I love another, and remember, Jerry, I'm game for a good, straight answer, right from your heart. I am so lonesome. I do not care if you print this in your column as it might help some other poor girl who is lonesome. Jerry, should I let the boy I love kiss me? Remember, I'm GAME.

All right, little "lonesome," right from my heart comes my advice. I'm going after the 28-year-old first. He's a man, not a boy, and should realize what he wants, and if he cares more for you than your sister, he shouldn't hesitate about it. He knows that if he marries your sister while loving you that neither would be happy. He knows it's more honorable to break with her now than later; and apparently he knows that you love him. His hesitation makes me doubt his love, dear, and also doubt the STRENGTH OF HIS BACKBONE. Maybe I am all wrong, but this is the impression I get from your letter.

An older sister always treats a younger one as though she wasn't "quite all there." They always do, but it seldom really bothers the younger one—in fact, it usually makes her act very "sassy" and superior. It's not serious.

If "twenty-eight years" loves you he will want to marry you instead of sister, and while you don't like hurting the other boy's feelings, it won't be so very difficult to tell him about the love you bear another. You can do it, for you're game.

PET: I don't believe in one person submitting to another's whims and caprices. Neither one is happy for long with such an arrangement. Tell your friend quietly that you meant nothing by your "flirting," and that you don't want a senseless thing like that to stop your friendship. Be independent. You can tell him you are sorry it happened but I can't see that he has an apology coming to him. He will admire your spirit whether he likes to have his dignity hurt or not.

MISS EVA: If it was all your fault, write him a note and tell him so. It isn't every one who has the courage to admit faults so you be the exception.

PUZZLED: Yes, I would take mother's advice—for a time at least. You are young and can wait a while, can't you, and by waiting you can prove to her that you really care for HIM. It is natural that you should be fascinated by his money, so for your sake—and his, too, wait maybe a year, and if you still love each other, get married and "live happily ever after."

SONGS of FRANK L. STANTON

The "Tollable Well"

If you're "tollable well" — that's a-doin'
Right good fer a blizzardy spell.
The country ain't goin' to ruin
With folks feelin' "tollable well"!

There's cause fer the music
Of bugle an' bell
When folks in the country
Are "tollable well."

Don't ask 'bout the whyness o' dryness;
Rain's comin'. You never can tell!
The weather's affected with shyness,
But the rain-clouds feel "tollable well."

One song fer the country—
The chorus to swell:
We rise as we're runnin'—
We're "tollable well."

The world wuzn't made in a second—
Ol' Satan hit hard when he fell;
With Providence helpin', I reckon,
We're all o' us "tollable well."

So keep up the chorus!
You never can tell,
But we'll reach the bright hilltop—
All "tollable well!"

THE REJECTED APPOINTMENTS.

When the Senate on Saturday confirmed 5534 appointments of new army officers if did about all it intends to do regarding the nominations submitted by President Wilson. These army appointments are of younger officers who held, for the most part, provisional commissions in the war army and rendered service that deserves recognition. They are either permanent appointments to the regular army or deserved promotions of those already in the regular service. It was proper that their confirmation should not have been unduly delayed, a fact which the Senate recognized.

But with the exception of these and of a few appointments in the navy the Senate majority in caucus recently agreed to withhold confirmation of practically all appointments of President Wilson. About 10,000 Wilson appointments will be rejected and passed over to the Harding administration. There is to be no confirmation of 961 transfers of army officers or of more than 2000 promotions by seniority. Appointment of eleven major-generals and twenty-two brigadier-generals by selection of the President are also to be deferred. These delays will not impair the military service and will be thoroughly satisfactory to those who have openly charged that political favoritism has been shown in the selection of officers of higher rank for promotion.

In addition to the military appointments, the confirmation of the nominations of about 3500 postmasters will be withheld. If there are any exceptions to this plan it will be only in the case of a few candidates against which no senator offers objection. Appointments which it is necessary to confirm for the protection of the government interest will be forthcoming; these include the new Commissioner of Patents, Commissioner of Pensions, Treasurer of the United States and the Solicitor for the State Department.

There is no excuse for the Wilson administration being surprised at this course toward its last hour appointments. When President Wilson was inaugurated in 1912 he immediately started a plan of bestowing the spoils of politics upon deserving Democrats and carried it to an extent not known since the administration of Andrew Jackson. The civil service system was disregarded in many important instances. The Democratic majority in Congress at the close of the Taft administration withheld confirmation of Taft nominations to provide plums for the Wilson administration.

This practice has its objectionable features, whether carried out by Democrats or Republicans. But it also has much to recommend it. When the people have decreed a change of administration it cannot be entirely to their liking that the political appointees of an administration that has been repudiated be imposed upon the administration that has been selected by the people. It is preferable that such appointees be chosen from among those loyal to the policies and programs approved in the Presidential election.

COLLEGE ATHLETICS.

The criticism of college athletics voiced by Prof. G. M. Stratton of the University of California to the effect that they place too much stress on the winning, and not the playing of the game is worthy serious consideration. There is, as he says, insufficient provision in the university for the general physical development of the whole student body, that athletic contests as now conducted tend to bring into action mainly those who give special promise of winning and not those students who most need physical development. In this respect the State university is not distinctly different from any other large university in the country.

But it seems to be a mistake to utilize the criticism of Prof. Stratton as an argument against the movement to erect a large stadium at the University of California in which there may be staged before great audiences for football and other athletic contests and facilities for general student athletic training. The need for the new stadium has been accentuated by the popularity of the football games, but then it must be remembered that football is by far the biggest, if not the only, money-maker among intercollegiate athletics. And under the present system college athletics must in the main be self-supporting.

So if it can be shown that the stadium will return the investment to be made in it because of the popularity of football that should be cause for satisfaction and not considered as a handicap. The present policy governing college athletics is not necessarily related to football contests and an athletic field. If that policy is wrong it probably can be more easily corrected with a large, well equipped stadium than without it.

A proposition has been advanced in Congress to require the publication of the amount of the fees a lobbyist receives. This might be a timely restraint upon certain kinds of lobbying and lobbyists, but it would not touch the most vicious of offense—lobbying by coercion on the part of a political administration that happens to be in charge of the national or a State government.

NOTES and COMMENT

Premising that the tuxedo is coming into disfavor the Salt Lake Tribune opines that "there are millions of men in America who have never worn that peculiar garment called a Tuxedo. There are even hundreds of thousands who do not know what a Tuxedo is, and care less. By far the greater part of masculine America recognizes the possibility and even the desirability of making the journey from the cradle to the grave in dense ignorance of the habits and customs of the Tuxedo. Indeed, there are no doubt a great many who fancy a Tuxedo is some sort of animal, like a yak or an iguana."

SPIRIT of the STATE PRESS.

Just about the time we get well started on cutting down expenses of government up hobs demands for appropriations for new things. Saving a dollar only to spend it on something else isn't going to lessen taxes much. The tax lid is always bobbing up, and can be kept down only by the whole caboodle under the big dome sitting on it at the same time and staying set for at least fifteen minutes—Dixon Tribune.

Senator Kenyon of Iowa is getting ready a bill to compel members of the lobby in Washington to register and declare their connections. Never in the history of Washington has there been so great a lobby as there is now. According to an article in the Mendocino Beacon the milling companies of the coast are said to be [illegible] to discontinue operations until the lumber market revives sufficiently to absorb at least a healthy portion of their ordinary output, and the other is to reduce wages from 15 to 20 per cent, commencing with the first of next month.—Ukiah Press.

DISTRIBUTION OF IMMIGRANTS

Larger Portion Settled in South and Far West Last Year—Value of Information Service—Smaller Proportion of Farm Laborers in 1920.

By DR. FRANK M. SURFACE.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 26.—The greatest problem of immigration as it stands at present is not the total number of arrivals, but rather their distribution throughout our population. In the fiscal year ending June 30, 1920, the total number of immigrants was only 430 000 compared to more than a million per year before the war. Our net gain in population of both immigrant and non-immigrant aliens in the last fiscal year amounted to only 193,524, compared to over 815,000 in 1913. Certainly this country is large enough to absorb more than 200,000 persons a year without inconvenience if properly distributed.

Unfortunately there has been a tendency for our immigrant population to settle in the large cities, where they not infrequently become a serious problem. Under such conditions they tend to congregate in little settlements, where they associate almost entirely with their compatriots and frequently learn little either of American customs and institutions, or of the English language. If some means could be found to distribute these immigrants more widely they would become American citizens more quickly and would become greater assets to the country.

In order to further this object it is very desirable that the Division of Information of the Immigration Service should be enlarged and extended. It is the object of this division not only to give information to arriving immigrants concerning the resources and characteristics of the various States but also to maintain contact with them after their entry and thus aid in their assimilation and Americanization. Congress has shown a tendency to limit if not eliminate this work entirely. This would be very unfortunate as long as immigration is allowed at all.

By far the largest number of immigrants settle in New York. Before the war Pennsylvania ranked second and Illinois third as a destination of immigrants. In 1920 New York State maintained its lead in this respect, but the percentage shows a drop from 28.3 in 1913 to 26.2 in 1920. In the latter year Massachusetts ranked second with nearly 10 per cent of the total while Pennsylvania and Illinois showed a large decrease in relative immigrant population. As a matter of fact these two States, together with Ohio, are recorded as having lost more aliens through immigration than they received.

The following table summarizes the distribution of immigrants for 1913 and 1920 by geographical divisions:

DESTINATION OF IMMIGRANTS BY GEOGRAPHICAL DIVISIONS IN CONTINENTAL UNITED STATES IN 1920:
Geographical Division.	Total
Principal States—
New York	106,680
Illinois	16,964
Pennsylvania	27,637
Massachusetts	41,504
Geographical Divisions—
North Atlantic	325,512
South Atlantic	13 938
North Central East—
Mississippi River	66,981
North Central West—
Mississippi River	13,536
South Central	13,060
Far Western	61,205
Total	424,392

This table indicates a large gain in the immigration to the South Central and Far Western States with a loss in the North Atlantic and North Central States. More than 50 per cent of our immigrants settle in the North Atlantic Seaboard States.

With regard to the occupation of immigrant aliens the following table from the annual report of the Commissioner General of Immigration gives a comparison of the arrivals in 1920 with the five-year pre-war average.

OCCUPATIONS OF IMMIGRANT ALIENS IN 1920.
Professional	12,442
Skilled	69,967
Farm laborers	15,257
Farmers	12,192
Laborers	81,732
Servants	37,197
Other occupations	23,081
No occupation (including women and children)	173,133
Total	430,001

The outstanding feature of this table is the decrease in the relative number of farm laborers which before the war amounted to 24.3 per cent of the total and in 1920 to 3.5 per cent. There was an increase in the proportion of professional, skilled and unskilled labor and in immigrants with no occupation. The latter includes chiefly women and children. The decrease in the arrivals of farm laborers is said to be due to cutting off the Eastern European immigration.

Every writer on business and economic affairs predicts that the present depression will disappear in a few months. When it does we will need all the labor this country can muster. Is it wise to shut off this stream absolutely as the bill passed by the House of Representatives would do? Would it not be much better to devise means of insuring distribution of the better class of immigrant population throughout the country? If this had been done years ago we would have no Japanese problem in California today. The difficulties caused by such settlements as little Italies, little Hungaries, etc., would disappear.

IN A STATE OF FLUX.

The sight of an old school geography is a reminder that no one could sit down today and draw an accurate map of the world. The old atlases are close to a total loss, the new are still awaiting the fixing of boundaries with some sort of permanence.

Is geography studied any more? Much of it, of course, holds good. The Mississippi, with the Missouri, still is the longest river. The Himalayas are as high as ever. An island is still a body of land entirely surrounded by water. The capitals of the states are still Augusta on the Kennebec, Concord on the Merrimac, Hartford on the Connecticut, Albany on the Hudson, Harrisburg on the Susquehanna and so on. The pupil can still be exercised in locating Bingville, Painted Post, Penn Yan and Manunka Chunk on the map of the Eastern states just as if it was of any importance where these places were.

But who can bound the Ottoman empire? Who can give the territorial outlines of Russia? In a great part of the world affairs are in a state of flux. No one can draw a map of it because it will not sit still long enough. Perhaps geography of some kind is still taught in the schools, but it must be without atlases.—New Bedford Standard.

AUTOMOBILE SHOW OPENS TONIGHT

CARS OF MANY COLORS WILL BE EXHIBIT FEATURE

Weather Man Promises Clear Sky for Fans to View Display

By JIM HOULIHAN

Awaiting the opening tonight of the Oakland Automotive Show as eagerly as a daring racing driver watches for the drop of a starter's flag in a Grand Prix classic some sixty motor car truck tire and accessory dealers culminate two months of untiring effort in preparation for the most beautiful most complete and instructive exposition of automobiles and their counterpart necessities that it has been the good fortune of Eastbay county residents to view

For three days the Municipal Auditorium wherein the show will be held has been alive with decorators carpenters electricians and allied tradesmen who have been putting the finishing touches into a wonderful setting that will make this show quite the most artistic theatrical effort chronicled in Oakland's history. Supplementing these last efforts of a small army of workmen motor car dealers have had their crews moving in the models to be displayed and adding to the show cars an added polish in order that nothing will mar the appearance of their individual exhibits

WEATHER WILL BE GOOD

The dealers must have offered up their combined prayers for good weather. A January sun was never brighter than it was just before noon today. The weather man sent word to Bob Martland this afternoon that the climate this evening would be made so good that the hundreds of first nighters who are eager to see the show will make the trip to the auditorium undisturbed by a severe storm like those of the past month

The throngs which will make up tonight's audience will see a show complete to the smallest detail. This is the promise of Martland and the show committee consisting of I B Wells Bill Webber and Charlie Hebrank

From present indications there will be more chasses featured than has been customary in former automotive expositions. A hasty survey this morning revealed that at least a dozen would be shown. The public flocks around a chassis in greater numbers than they do about the finest coaches and evidence a keener desire to learn everything that can be gathered from a hasty examination of mechanical details. The increased knowledge motorists and laymen have of automobiles is accountable for the attraction to the chasses

WOMEN CUT FIGURE

Special color finishes will stand out in many booths for the bright finished automobiles seem to capture "milady's" admiration more quickly than do the staple exterior paints and the women cut quite a figure in the purchase of an automobile. They predominate the transaction in fact, many many times

While an impression prevailed a short time ago that standard body designs would be the attraction most distributors would put foremost there is a frequent sprinkling of the California all weather top in the different displays and this departure sees its finest expression in the custom-built creations of Don Lee and Walter Murphy Motors Company

CARE OF CYLINDERS

How cylinders are re-bored and re-ground will be shown in a demonstration which several local shops collectively are managing

Intricacies of battery and ignition devices should be clarified in the displays that various leading local battery men are to have.

Space limitations of the Auditorium have compelled nearly every one of the dealers who are participating to put on a separate show in their Broadway salesrooms, where can be seen many models.

On Broadway, too the firms who were not fortunate enough to get space in the show are staging exhibitions of their own. Open evenings is the order among these firms for this week.

Bad Checks Charged to Man Under Arrest

While police are making a further investigation of charges that he is guilty of negotiating worthless checks Clark D Jaynes who was arrested in company with Norman Townsend at Pearl and Eagle streets late yesterday is being held in the city jail today. Police accuse Jayne of passing checks on J M Hearn, Twenty third and Railroad avenues Joe Mello Nineteenth avenue and East Fourteenth street, and M Daniels, Fruitvale avenue and East Fourteenth street. The checks are alleged to have been of amounts ranging from $3 to $15. The arrests were made yesterday by Lieutenant Bert Curtis and Patrolmen Jennings and Shields. Townsend was released within an hour after he was taken into custody

Invalid Sculptor Who Uses Soap as Medium Wins Recognition from Art Critics of U. C.

KEITH W STUBBLEFIELD, Oakland's new sculptor, who uses soap as his medium in producing Greek and Roman art models, and (below) two of the unusual figures conceived by him in his Elmhurst studio.

Keith W Stubblefield, Who Has Never Taken Lesson, Produces Greek Models

Meet Keith W Stublefield Oakland sculptor

Fame hovered near when Stublefield found himself a patient condemned to two years convalescence. Dreary hours in bed watching the narrow walls and ceiling putting in the time as he slowly crept back to health inspired Stublefield to the art which has brought him to the attention of university professors and the art colony. Discovery of his unusual gifts was made by the Alameda County Public Health Center. In his home at 2022 Eighty ninth avenue the young man has set up his studio

From idle sketching with pencil then pen and ink pastels water colors and finally oil painting Stublefield took up sculpturing. Casting about for an easy medium he selected soap as his working material and with penknife and a cake of soap began to carve figures. He thought nothing of it until encouraged by a friend and connoisseur of art who praised his work. He is now able to reproduce exquisite Greek and Roman art models with astonishing lifelike results which are bringing orders from admirers

When the soap models are completed they are coated with a preparation of his own invention which preserves them permanently and gives the aspect of old ivory

Stublefield has long been a patient of the tuberculosis clinic of the Public Health Center and from 90 pounds has gradually gained until he now tips the scales at 160 and is the picture of health. He is living the out of door life and hopes to be able to continue his art as a profession. He has already received favorable recognition from local artists and praise from members of the University of California faculty who have seen his work

Police Arrest Three As Bandit Suspects

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 31—Following an exciting chase through the Richmond district early today Patrolmen Rudolph and Goesel of the shotgun squad arrested three alleged automobile thieves and believe they prevented the holdup of the soft drink parlor of Otto Wall Ninth avenue and Fulton street. The men under arrest are Fred McLean Max Sossin and Ray Gammaway all soldiers at Fort Scott. All were charged with grand larceny and Gammaway with carrying concealed weapons. The trio riding up and down various thoroughfares in their automobile attracted the attention of the officers who followed. At Ninth avenue and Fulton street they put out the lights left the doors open and the engine running Entering Wall's resort they went into a back room. The officers followed and with shotguns pointed compelled them to hold up their hands. Gammaway tried unsuccessfully to draw his revolver which was concealed in his overcoat pocket. The automobile had been stolen from Jack Corson 1100 Divisadero street.

Stylish Autoists Are Sought for Crash

A limousine of expensive make is the object of police search today following a report made to the authorities by J D Powers of 1401 Fruitvale avenue whose machine was rammed on East Twenty sixth avenue late last night by the larger car which sped on without stopping to render assistance. The occupants of Powers car were not injured. Powers said the limousine was traveling at a high rate of speed and was occupied by a party of stylishly dressed men and women. Police are basing their search for the limousine on a license number furnished by Powers who caught a hasty glance at the rear plate.

THREE BANDITS PUT TO FLIGHT BY TWO TRAINMEN

College Avenue Street Car Attacked by Youthful Footpads Early Today

A College avenue street car robbery by three young thugs who attacked both platform men with bludgeons was thwarted shortly after 1 o'clock this morning when the crew managed to beat their assailants off with controller box instruments. The attack was made on a southbound car in the vicinity of College and Manila avenues

The three robbers were riding on the rear platform of the car when at a given signal they all jumped upon the conductor Martin Wyke who shouted for assistance and summoned Motorman Ed Turner

The front platform man shut off the power clamped on the brakes and then rushed to the rear end of the car waving his controller handle. The motorman tore into the group and succeeded in driving them into a corner and putting them on the defensive. This gave the conductor an opportunity to seize another airbrake handle and assist Turner in routing the trio

The would-be holdup men fled from the car and were pursued for a short distance by the car crew until the latter were outdistanced. The platform men then reported the affair to Officer W H Garrett who summoned the shotgun squad from the Northern police station. A car load of officers combed the neighborhood for nearly an hour but failed to find any trace of the bandits

Police believe that the three men intended to render the conductor insensible and then rob the cash box before the motorman could be summoned

Burglar Escapes As Home Owner Enters

When James H Boyle observed electric lights burning in the front part of his house at 5416 Ruth avenue as he was returning home at 10 30 o'clock last night he quickened his pace and arrived at the front door just as an intruder escaped through a rear entrance. Investigation revealed that a quantity of clothing jewelry and other valuables were stolen by the prowler according to a report made by Boyle to the police this morning. The householder also stated that the lights were extinguished as he neared the place

S. F. Seminary Sues Oaklander on Note

SAN FRANCISCO Feb 1—F M Smith was made defendant today in a suit to collect a note for $11 131 35 brought by the San Francisco Theological Seminary. The note given March 1 1916 was secured by 235 shares of the preferred stock of the Oakland Traction Company. Sold at public auction because of non payment of the note the shares brought only $470 according to the complaint.

If This Was Home Brew It Was Bang-Up Article

A bottle of home brew in the path of the unwary is like unto a stick of dynamite on a railroad path

These are the thoughts of Charles Smith 1007 Eighty third avenue following his experiences of last night with an inoffensive looking bottle. Smith was on his way home when he kicked a bottle which tinkled and sparkled along the sidewalk. The shape of the flask suggested to Smith that the contents might be contraband liquor and that he had stumbled upon a prize package dropped by some millionaire

Smith who was smoking a cigarette picked up the bottle removed the cork sniffed the liquid and received a kick that knocked him over backwards. Dr Lee Smith who attended him later says that the bottle must have contained gasoline or some other explosive possibly home made liquor

Smith's face is burned and cut where pieces of glass struck him. The police are making an investigation

Home Seeker Finds Death In Gas Stove Experiment

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 31—His arms filled with family effects, which he was moving to a better apartment Carlos Arana, a candy maker smiled a temporary goodby to his wife and two happy children at 746 Broadway yesterday afternoon

The Arana family was moving. Carlos had located a new and more pretentious apartment and had one more trip to make before it would be ready for Mrs Arana and the two children

"You wait here" he said. "This is the last trip. I'll be back after you in a few minutes"

This was the last time he was seen alive by his family and shortly after midnight today he was found in a room at 310 Columbia avenue dead asphyxiated from fumes of a new gas stove which he failed to turn off

FORTUNE SMILES

After her husband left her at at 6 30 o'clock yesterday afternoon to take the last of their belongings to their new dwelling Mrs Arana waited confidently with her two children for his return. Fortune had seemed to smile on the family during the past week and an increasing income made her hopes to secure a nicer home possible

For several hours she waited in the cold room cheerless from its lack of furniture. At midnight when her husband did not return the woman frantic with fear appeared at the police station with her children. She told her story

She did not know where the new apartment was located and had no idea where to find her husband

SOMETHING HAPPENED

"Something has happened to him" she sobbed at the police station

Patrolman Joseph Walsh accompanied her through the Italian quarter of the city and they searched into the cold gray dawn of the early morning without result. Then the proprietor of the Hotel North 310 Columbia avenue summoned the officer

In a little room on the second floor—the Aranas' new home—Carlos was found dead the family belongings piled around him

ALCATRAZ BREAK PAIR NOT FOUND

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 31—Although the police launch and the military tug searched throughout the night and up to noon today no trace has so far been found of two prisoners who escaped from Alcatraz Island yesterday. Joseph F Gordon, 26 and Benjamin F Myers, 20 years old are the fugitives. They escaped in a large sink which they used as an improvised boat. The sink had been sent to the island to be placed in the mess kitchen for dish washing

It was stolen from the carpenter shop and while the guards were being changed at 8 o'clock the two men are supposed to have shoved off in it. The fact that they have not been caught today showed that the men either succeeded in making land or were drowned. Gordon came from Great Falls N Y and Myers from Allegan Mich. Both were serving long terms for infractions of the military laws

BURGLARS ENTER, ROB FOUR HOMES

House fixture thieves invaded a house under construction at 1000 Seventy second street on January 29 and stripped the place of valuable electric lighting chandeliers and other equipment, according to a delayed report of the affair made to the police today by the owner Joseph Coutruo 3327 Abbey street

A B Collins of 1307 Hampel street, reported today that his home was entered by means of a pass key and $4 in silver and a razor taken some time yesterday

Burglars smashed the glass in a window pane in order to enter the home of G W Dunham at 1565 Hopkins street last night. Dunham told the police today. The thieves stole jewelry clothes and a razor

A rear window was forced at a store conducted by Harry Buchman 526 Eighth street by thieves who ransacked the place but failed to take any loot.

Mixup in Tax Returns Is Laid Before the City Council

A mixup in tax returns on properties bought by the Board of Education was laid before the City Council today by Commissioner Baccus after the reading of a communication by a deputy tax collector

It was pointed out that though the lands were bought by the city school department, and thus became exempt, some were not exempted and owed taxes apparently while on others their taxes were not paid at the proper time just before the lands were taken over. There are altogether 138 tax items involving $2,81 53. Some of the items are declared delinquent taxes, with the 15 per cent forfeiture

NO MONEY PAID

"The school board should have collected whatever taxes were due" said Baccus. "There was no money paid the Board of Education. Some of the money is due the city all right but there is no reason why they should have been allowed to be delinquent"

Baccus says that as commissioner of revenue and finance he will take action.

The Council then called bids for street-cleaning brooms for the year gave the chief of police the task of disposing of the garbage of the city prisons, as there were no bids and referred to the city attorney a $1000 judgment won in the Superior Court several years ago by Jesse J Spiller against the city of Oakland because of a bunco case. It is still unpaid

An ordinance opening and extending East Sixteenth street between Bridge and Thirty seventh avenues was given first and second readings

On behalf of the Oakland Chamber of Commerce J F Rosborough and Eugene Bowles asked a $1000 appropriation to help defray the expenses of the convention of Commercial Secretaries of Chambers of Commerce to meet in Oakland February 3 4 and 5. After some discussion the Council adopted a resolution promising the $1000

Sentence of Gaming House Keeper Halted

SAN FRANCISCO Jan 31—Samuel Smith, convicted of keeping the gambling resorts in which James F Edmonds son of a New Orleans newspaper publisher was robbed was not sentenced today when he appeared before Judge Louderback. The case was put over until this afternoon when Attorney Frank Murphy announced he would make a motion for a new trial and seek bail pending an appeal, if it is denied

SOFT DRINK LAW KILLED THROUGH UNITED ATTACK

1000 Confectionery Men and Grocers Induce Council to Draw New Ordinance.

Faced by vehement protests from representatives of 1000 confectionery and grocery men the City Council this morning dropped its proposed ordinance regulating soft-drink places and referred the whole matter to the city attorney for the framing of a new ordinance removing the objectionable features.

Commissioner Morse observed that the purpose of the proposed ordinance was not to work a hardship but to prevent soft drink places from selling hard drinks

Commissioner Baccus in a letter, asserted that the ordinance looks like a plan to resurrect the defunct Harris bill

"There is one section extremely dangerous" said Baccus. "It puts all permits for soft drink places up to the chief of police. Why should this Council delegate its authority in this way?"

A petition signed by 1000 confectionery and grocery men was then introduced alleging that the proposed ordinance is unwarranted unfair discriminatory and confiscatory

"Get an ordinance separating the wheat from the chaff" said Baccus. "Do not put legitimate business up to police regulation"

Attorney C A A Magee, speaking for the protestants observed that there are black sheep in every business but that the Oakland candy and soft drink dealers are 98 per cent law abiding

"There is nothing immoral about soda pop or lemon pop" he declared. "Oakland has nearly a million dollars invested in soft drink manufacture employing 300 persons. Why single these men out? Why pick on this occupation?"

The whole matter will be given a report by the city attorney in the near future. All sides assert they are willing to fight the illicit sale of liquors and it is planned that a law against only such persons shall be drafted

C. of C. Secretaries Assemble Thursday

The annual state convention of the California Association of Commercial Secretaries to be held in Oakland next Thursday Friday and Saturday, promises to be one of the most important meetings of the organization in years according to information given out today by the Oakland Chamber of Commerce, host to the gathering

Fully 400 are expected to be in attendance from chambers of commerce and similar organizations all over California. The city council was asked this morning to appropriate $1000 to assist in the entertainment of the convention

The sessions of the state convention will be held in the Hotel Oakland with a luncheon each day and a dinner Friday evening, at which the Marshall water plan will be explained by its author

Bob Shand's Column.

Jack Dempsey pulled out for Los Angeles yesterday and will remain in the south until he hears from Foreman Jack Kearns The latter will know definitely within a day or two if the Willard fight is going to go through on schedule. If it is post poned Dempsey will make another thriller for the movies but if Rickard is still willing to guarantee the champion the original purse Dempsey will beat it back to Gotham and get in shape for the bout While in Oakland Dempsey took occasion to deny the reports flooding the East to the effect that he and Kearns are on the verge of splitting up The story goes that the contract between the champion and his manager expires April 1 and after that date Dempsey will look after his own affairs with a prominent eastern boxing man as official adviser The best evidence that everything is jake between the pair of Jacks is the fact that Dempsey lived at Kearns home on both his recent visits here and had nothing but praise for the way Kearns had conducted the business of the firm The pair had words over the referee question the day before the Dempsey Miske fight and this argument has been exaggerated into a regular quarrel

Jimmy Duffy and his wife are in Los Angeles and they say Jimmy is anxious to box at Jack Doyle's Vernon club before returning to Oakland Tommy Simpson has given no further explanation of the Duffys hurried departure from New York and all that is known here is that Jimmy left a note beneath the Simpson door one night conveying the information that he and his wife were leaving for Oakland the next morning There was probably considerable conversation after Tommy found the note but this will have to keep until one of the pair tells the real story of the break In a letter received here Saturday Simpson simply said that Duffy had gone home and thought it was the best thing for him to do as both he and his wife were homesick The homesick excuse might have stood had the pair hurried right home but they are dallying in the south Some of the boys incline to the belief that some slick eastern manager advised Jimmy to return home and go east later You can't ever tell about these little four rounders

From Ashland Ore comes a telegram stating that Georgie Eagles local lightweight won every round of a ten round bout with Red Campbell Saturday night Eagles has been boxing quite frequently in the northwest and has been winning regularly

Cash Demands Of Challengers Are Too High

By FRANKLIN B MORSI

Are the present day featherweight contenders in their greed for a few paltry dollars overlooking the fact that a world's championship and tens of thousands of dollars is within their grasp?

There are followers of the ring who contend that the present champion Johnnie Kilbane is only a husk of his former great self and the first good boy who gets at him has a wonderful chance of annexing the title But owing to the ridiculous demands made by aspirants for the title before they will enter the ring with the champion these same fellows are letting go by the chance of their lives Before they know it some boy will be willing to fight Kilbane for the sake of a try at the crown and then a lot of the chaps who stood off on account of a few dollars will be kicking themselves because they did not have the foresight to go after the big stuff instead of haggling about a few dollars

WELCH AN EXCEPTION

There was a time when all a boy asked was the chance to get into the ring with the champion The matter of being paid to do this did not enter into the consideration The opportunity itself was worth many times more than any money a promoter could offer a challenger Freddie Welsh for a long time dogged the steps of Willie Ritchie when the latter was the lightweight champion of the world and only asked that he might be allowed the chance to enter the ring against the title holder He got his chance and won the title

When the championship mantle was gratuitously removed by Jim Jeffries from his shoulders and placed on those of Tommy Burns Jack Johnson went after Burns Did Johnson ask money for the opportunity of getting a crack at the title? He did not He told promoters that, as far as he was concerned they need not bother themselves about any remuneration for him All they had to do was to get Burns to come to terms and he Johnson was ready to step into the ring for nothing but the chance to make good He got his chance and he won the title

WILLIAMS GAVE BONUS

Kid Williams not only did not want a penny for the privilege of being matched with Johnny Coulon but dug down into his own pocket and paid a substantial bonus for the chance

And now we have the spectacle of a champion who is considered by innumerable fans to be a lion with his claws cut and his teeth drawn and ripe for the picking still carrying the title for the reason that his challengers are bitten with the prevailing lust for big purses Some boy suddenly is going to wake up to a realization of the situation and he is going to hotfoot it to a promoter and offer his services for nothing and if that boy carries any of the ear marks of a featherweight boxer he is likely to win the coveted title

Tabloid Sports

A game of American intercollegiate football between teams of the United States and Canada is nearer realization than many may suspect The Canadians have twelve men on their teams but aside from this there is not much difference in the manner of playing the game although they do not include the forward pass Boston Montreal are negotiating over the possibilities of a contest next fall Once the ice is broken it should pave the way to many contests with our cousins across the border The Pacific Coast would be the gainer also by this international competition

Pop Geers has been a character on the Grand Circuit since before our fathers wore knickerbockers and the Grand Old Man of the trotting game is likely again to be seen piloting his horses to victory this season Pop has only a couple of seasons more to go before he has rounded out an even half century on the turf He is seventy years old and just before the close of last season he had to stand on the side lines with a broken wrist as the result of a spill He says that his wrist now is as strong as ever

Golf

Sequoyah never looks so picturesque as after a severe rain storm Yesterday the Elmhurst hills with miniature waterfalls and the sun shining brilliantly more than made up for the discomfort of slipping around in mud and water which covered considerable areas of the course Drain ditches were converted into fast running streams that whisked your ball off towards the bay before you or your caddy could reach it Our foursome finished minus probably a dozen balls during their morning round and thus the surplus stock of Owl balls that go out of use after May 1 have gone to feed the fishes

Frank Kales Claremont's foremost golfer was round the Sequoyah course yesterday in 81 getting his first birdie with a golf ball This happened to be a meadow lark which was brought to earth by a perfectly hit brassie shot going to the ninth Just where to place this lark shot is hard to decide Should it come before or after an eagle?

What is the penalty for losing a ball in a drain ditch where the rush of water carries the ball many yards per second beyond reach? The four players decided that no penalty would be claimed but the question arises Is this a correct decision? Rule 27 section 2 governs this situation and reads as follows If a ball lie or be lost in casual water through the green the player may drop a ball without penalty within two club lengths of the margin as near as possible to the spot where the ball lay but not nearer to the hole A drain ditch not being a recognized hazard would thus come under the definition of through the green thus justifying the decision made

CRICKET STAR DIES

BASEBALL GOSSIP

By MAURY PESSANO

Jupiter Pluvis put another dent in the schedule of The TRIBUNE Midwinter League by leaving practically every diamond of the league too wet for the teams to play on All class A and B games had to be postponed while only one was played in the C division But four Sundays are now left for the class A teams to finish their race and the Halton Didiers of Alameda have a little more than a two game lead over their nearest rivals Unless double-headers are played the Alamedans will be hard to pull from the top

A meeting of the class A managers will be held tomorrow night and a schedule for the playing of postponed games will be drawn up

Al McCord short stopper for the Alameda Beths in the Class A division of The TRIBUNE league is playing a fine game for the tail end club Since joining the club over two months ago Al has filled up the weakest spot in the infield in fine style He started out with the Coast Tire and Rubber Club but after Phil Kramer manager of the Tire boys signed Coldenson Al was let go It did not take Charley Pruiett manager of the Beths long to sign McCord McCord was just the player Charley wanted He has done a lot of damage with his stick He usually comes through in the pinch McCord and Bernie Alverious form a fine keystone combination for the Alameda shipbuilders Their fielding around second base is a feature of each game

Frank Espina catcher and all round man for the Yankee All Stars in the Class C league is doing some great work Frank caught the last few games and held up a pitcher in good style He thinks a whole lot of Fred Bianchi pitcher for the All Stars The lefthander puts a lot of stuff on the pill Espina's work not only behind the log but with the stick has made him a valuable man for Louie Gold's club

Allan Tocher is doing some good work for the Allendale Merchants in the Class B league Al is playing short but can take care of any other position in the infield He has been doing plenty of fast fielding and has been getting his blows quite regular

The grounds at Alameda would have been in fine style had Jupiter Pluvius been a good fellow Manuel Duarte manager of the Halton Didiers had a bunch of boys at Lincoln Park all day Saturday working on the field and after a few hours of hard work they were in fine shape for the scheduled big game with the Tractors Duarte was expecting to see one of the biggest crowds to attend a game at Lincoln Park this season

Coaches Walter Mails and Louie Guisto of the St Mary's Collegians Baseball Club are very much pleased with the showing of the boys trying for regular jobs on the team Saturday afternoon they lost their first practice game of the season Coach Mails sent his boys against a pretty fast team from across the bay and they put up a hard fight before tasting defeat Lefty Hawedge one of the best left handed pitchers in the bushes twirled for the McCormick All Stars and worked well against the college boys

The regular schedule season for the Class A division of The TRIBUNE league closed yesterday but all of the clubs have postponed games to play The Halton Didiers of Alameda have three games with the Coast Tire two with the C T Best Tractors and one with the California Cotton Millers The Coast Tire boys are scheduled to play at Lincoln Park next Sunday

Al Ross catcher for the Halton Didiers of Alameda has done his share to keep the Clothiers at the top of the ladder Al is holding up the shoots of Babe Hollis and Jane Shultis well He is a very heady man behind the plate

The Alameda Beths have a couple of good first sackers in Lefty Beeron and Rudy Merani Both boys are left handed and when one plays first the other plays the outfield In the game between the Alameda Beths and Coast Tire clubs Lefty Beeson played a fine game at first base He has been doing most of the hitting for the shipyard boys Merani's playing in right field has been a big help to the club Rudy can play that position as well as the initial bag

Bud Connolly was given a chance to work in the outfield two weeks ago against the Crystal Laundry club Bud is a sure fly chaser and has proven a dangerous boy with the willow

Michigan 'U' Track Team Will Meet U. C. At Berkeley

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Jan 31—Definite announcement was issued today by Assistant Graduate Manager R W Cortelyou that the Michigan University track team had accepted the invitation extended several days ago for a dual track meet to be held in Berkeley on Saturday, April 9 The Michigan team will leave Ann Arbor the last of March and will bring fifteen men west, training in Berkeley at the California oval for at least a week prior to the meet No further details were available as to personnel of the Michigan team nor the strength of the Middle West team, but Michigan rates high in the Western Conference and last season made an excellent showing against the California baseball team while it was East on tour, winning more games than it lost in the Bruin series

OAKLAND TRIBUNE EASTBAY BASKETBALL LEAGUE

UNLIMITED STANDING

	Won	Lost	Pct
Livermore	4	0	1 000
Berkeley Y M C A	2	1	667
Fremont Owls	1	2	333
Ambrose Tailors	0	4	000

Jan 29—Livermore, 39; Ambrose Tailors, 28

Jan 29—Fremont Owls vs Berkeley "Y" postponed

Livermore now stands head and shoulders above their closest rival in the TRIBUNE Eastbay Basketball League Saturday night at the valley court the fighting basketeers of Joe Aurrecochea annexed victory number four from the Ambrose Tailors quintet by a 39 to 28 tally Captain Bacchio's huskies tried their best to give the first beating to Livermore but they were forced to accept the short end of the score after displaying some good basketball before a crowd

Johnny Decoto was the big surprise of the evening with his baskets garnered from all parts of the floor He is a dark horse having been unheard of around Eastbay circles before this time Skee Horton feature running guard in all of the other Ambrose Tailors contests was once again the sensation of the play He demonstrated how to be in every nook and cranny of the allotted section at one time Skee learned his basketball on the Technical high team of which he was captain in 1918

Livermore has but two more contests on their schedule one with the Fremont Owls and one with the Berkeley Y M C A boys The valley team has beaten both of these teams in past starts so they just about have the cup cinched The game with Berkeley "Y" should be hard and fast as the passers from Berkeley are still smarting from their initial defeat Berkeley has one of the smoothest machines in the league The field goal juggernaut of Nevin to Hocher to Williams or Brigden is one that bowls over most any sort of guarding

One of the feature games of the week will be the coming Lincoln Arrows 120 vs St Joseph's Athletic Club These two teams are fighting for first honors of their division St Joseph's lead the race but the Lincoln Arrows have played only one game the other being postponed The dope favors the St Joe lads on account of their wealth of good basket shooters However the Arrowmen are not in need of so many good hoop droppers themselves The teams meet Wednesday at Berkeley Y M C A

Virgil Decoto in charge of the schedule in the TRIBUNE Eastbay Basketball League has been as busy as a squirrel lately fixing up the arrangements about the referees and courts The original schedule had to be altered because of the withdrawal of the Citax Club court Then the Berkeley Y on[illegible] ed five took a trip to Sacramento on one of the nights when they should have played a game in the competition This put him in another quandary Decoto has given much of his daily time but he is happy as long as the league is running on clock time, as it has been ever since the gun barked back in the middle of January

Nine Games Billed For Bruin Football Team For Next Fall

Luis Nichols graduate manager at the University of California has announced a tentative schedule of nine games for the Bruin football team to play next fall Nichols hoped to be able to announce dates with one or two of the big teams in the East but the latter couldn't find any open dates to accommodate Nichols and his men It will be noticed that the first date on the schedule calls for the Bruin outfit to meet St Mary's, giving further proof that the Saints are in the field for first class games this year and not second class as reported some weeks ago The big game with Stanford will be on November 19

The Universities of Southern California Washington and Santa Clara will tangle with the Bruins on California Field

The schedule follows

September 24—St Mary's College at Berkeley

October 1—Olympic Club at Berkeley

October 8—Santa Clara University at Berkeley

October 15—Occidental College at Berkeley

October 22—Washington State College at Portland or Pullman Wash or Berkeley

October 29—University of Oregon at Eugene or Berkeley

November 5—University of Southern California at Berkeley

November 12—University of Washington at Berkeley

November 19—Stanford University at Palo Alto Cal

Bear Quintet Gives Aggies Second Beating

Boys From the North Fail to Make Impression; Bears Play St. Mary's.

By DOUG MONTELL

The Bruin basketball five completed the job Saturday night that they started Friday evening and swiped the second game of the court series from the Oregon Aggies by the score of 31 10 The Bears did everything that was expected of them while the Aggies fell off in their showing and they did not make as good an appearance as they had done the previous evening There was some disappointment that the visitors had not played the brand of ball they were expected to according to their showing against Stanford Rather a hard thing to take back to the folks at home four straight defeats but from their showing the Aggies didn't deserve any better

California not only had weight on the Oregon five but combined speed with the weight and ran away from the Corvallis lads at all stages of the game Practically every California man in the game registered points. The Aggies relied entirely on Stinson and during the greater part of the game Art Eggleston had Stinson out of the play by his airtight guarding. Stinson couldn't see the humor of the situation and broke several rules of basketball and was soon on the sidelines after the second half had been under way From then on the O A C five was lost and played without signs of life making but one field goal from then on

COOP AGAIN STARS

Although the California total score was divided up among seven players, Coop at forward again shone as the bright light Coop led in goals from the field with three to his credit and tossed in seven straight from the free throw line the best performance of the California season to date Captain Symes and Eggleston were again in evidence with their wonderful passing Eggleston taking the ball away from his opponents in mid court several times while LeHane under the California goal proved a stone wall and forced the Aggies to resort to long shots for their few points

Unless the Bears develop a spirit of overconfidence from their easy win from the Aggies they should be able to stop Washington University when the Purple and Gold invades the California campus next Friday and Saturday evenings In the meantime to keep in trim the Bruins clash with St. Mary's tonight on the California court The Blue and Gold came through their first conference series without injury and should be able to trounce the Oakland college boys tonight although St Mary's by their win over Nevada proved that they have a high class aggregation of hoop tossers and the game should be well worth watching

The lineup Saturday night

Oregon Aggies (10)—Arthurs (2), Stinson (4) forwards Sanders, center A Ross (2) Hubbard (2) guards

California (31)—Symes (2), Coop (13) forwards Larkey (4), center, Le Hane (4) Eggleston (4) guards.

Substitutes Oregon Aggies F Ross for Stinson McCart for Sanders, Clough for Hubbard Kasberger for A Ross

California Spence (2) for Symes Thompson (2) for Eggleston; Douthit for Coop O'Neil for Larkey

By holding the Olympic Club team to a 1 to 1 tie at Washington Park in Alameda yesterday afternoon, the Alameda Union Iron Works soccer team made it possible for the Thistles to be all by themselves today on the top rung While the tie was being played at Alameda the Thistles were handing the Potrero Union Iron a 3 to 1 beating at Recreation Park in San Francisco The tie at Alameda was the big surprise of the present soccer season as everybody had it figured yesterday morning that the Olympics would be the team to be on top today if the tie between that club and the Thistles was to be cut.

The Olympics led the Alameda boys at the end of the first half, but the lads from the Isle City evened up in the second half For a while it looked like the Thistles might be defeated by the Potreros but the league leaders got started in the second half and won out

J Tarrant of the Alameda team broke his right leg and will be out of the game for the rest of the season

BOWLING

The next two last matches in the Alameda County Native Sons' Bowling League will be played tonight at the Herold Alleys Bowling Auditorium and Zingg's in Alameda. Only a sudden reversal of form in the last two matches can keep the Alameda parlor team from the championship, and almost the same must happen to Piedmont Parlor team No. 2 in order for them to lose second place to their parlor brothers Piedmont No 1 The latter team will meet Oakland Parlor No 50 tonight at the Bowling Auditorium on Thirteenth street while Piedmont No 2 will meet Fruitvale at Herold's on Eleventh Court and Brooklyn and Alameda will tangle at Zingg's in Alameda

A meeting of the officials of the Natives league will be held tomorrow night and plans for a smoker will be made

New Swim Record Is Made by Kealoha

ADELAIDE Australia Jan 31—The world's record for the 100-yard swimming event was broken here today by Warren Kealoha the Hawaiian swimmer He made the distance in 2:14 seconds.

The record for the 100 yard swim in open water, is 58 seconds, held by Duke P Kahanamoku of Honolulu.

SPECIAL FEATURES MAKE TRIBUNE GREAT PAPER

TRIBUNE SIGNS FAMOUS FINANCE, SPORTS WRITERS

Matchless Telegraph Service of Oakland's Leading Paper Further Supplemented.

With the news despatches of the Consolidated Press Association and of the Los Angeles Times news bureau supplementing the more formal despatches of the great news service which every day supply TRIBUNE readers with the most vital news from all parts of the world, The TRIBUNE is entitled to set itself in rank with the newspapers of the Great West in the matter of completeness of its telegraphic news service.

The combination of four telegraphic news services—the Associated Press, exclusive in this county; the United Press, the International News Service, and the Universal Service was in itself as great a combination of telegraphic news gathering agencies possessed by any American newspaper. On top of this has been added these two new great services as an added feature of the Sunday TRIBUNE.

With all of these services pouring their reports into the editorial rooms of The TRIBUNE, this newspaper is connected with a great network of information - gathering agencies which circles round about the globe with affiliations, correspondents and special services linked together to the end that no news happening can transpire without it coming to the attention of some newspaperman who is connected with some or another of The TRIBUNE'S great aggregation of telegraphic services.

LATEST ADDITION

The Consolidated Press Association, the latest addition to The TRIBUNE'S service, is an organization of experts who are peculiarly fitted to speak on the subjects of which they write. Robert T. Small and Elizabeth Miner King watch the affairs of the nation at Washington, conferring daily with the nation's officialdom in order that they may place a true and correct value on each of the happenings of the week which are discussed in their Sunday articles.

Lawrence Perry and Walter Camp, both sporting writers of national fame and repute, furnish special sporting articles for the new service. William Ivy, a newspaperman of wide experience and penetrating vision, reports the events in the tangled skein of European politics which has come out of the great war.

FINANCIAL WRITER

Stuart P. West, a leading financial writer of the nation, reviews the week-end on Wall street and offers a forecast for the coming week in his article which appears each Sunday on The TRIBUNE financial page, while Clara Savage, also in New York, records happenings of a different sort—those vitally affecting the activities of women in the social, political and business worlds.

Harden Colfax also presents each week an illuminating summary of the relations of the wage earner, the farmer, the merchant and manufacturer.

Representing the viewpoint of the three great nations of Europe—England, Italy and France—are the articles of international interest contributed by former Premier Viviani, Maximilian Harden and George Barnes.

Special service on those happenings in Southern California which are of interest to this part of the State is contained in the despatches of the Los Angeles Times News Bureau which appear in the Sunday TRIBUNE as another special added feature.

Carnegie's History Of Literary Value

He has been set up as a model for many virtues just as his libraries have been set up before the eyes of the youth in hundreds of cities. A man who amassed a huge fortune and then gave much of it away, the possessor of a keen sense of humor, a remarkable business ability, and a man who held the close friendship of men and women of world affairs Carnegie was one of the outstanding figures of his century.

"The Autobiography of Andrew Carnegie" as it appears in The TRIBUNE is not only a story of Carnegie, but of scores of others who were prominent and his friends. It is a picture of days recently passed and is to be valued as a literary document.

Old Tales Are Told As New

If there are those who cannot take their classics straight, let them take them diluted or inverted. The Sunday TRIBUNE offers the classics in modern garm with all the slings and slangs of outrageous fortunes. Anne Jordan has taken the old tales and twisted them to modern shape, given them a snappy style and a dash of paprika. The result is what George Ade would call A Scream (being an original way of saying "a scream" with no effort save capitalization). The Clarified Classics are packed with laughs and are funny enough to mollify the lovers of the good old books.

Tribune to Print 'White Shadows'

Frederick O'Brien's Tale Heart Gripping

Story Draws Hundreds to Isles

The lure of the South Seas, the romance of moonlit waters, atolls mirrored in the ocean, and the mystery of the warm nights of Tahiti have been responsible for an awakening of interest, almost a craze, for the literature of the distant islands.

Frederick O'Brien, a Californian, startled the country with his story of the Marquesas, his descriptive chapters of the South Sea people and customs, a book that became the most popular the country over. As a result of his "White Shadows of the South Seas," O'Brien has become famous, the South Sea islands have been made the objective of many hundreds of tourists, and thousands of readers have been introduced to a field of romance and truth that is as fascinating as a midnight in the tropics.

"White Shadows of the South Seas" has been secured for The TRIBUNE which is the only paper in this district which is permitted to publish it. O'Brien's story has already proved a sensation and the few chapters that have run have more than justified the predictions that it would be warmly welcomed.

It isn't a work of fiction and it isn't a recital of tiresome facts and figures. It is a word picture of experience in the lazy, mysterious, sensuous land of the South Seas, an explanation of the call that comes to many as it came to Stevenson, to explore the far places to the west and south. More interesting than fiction and one of the most fascinating pieces of literature in a decade, "White Shadows of the South Seas" is more frequently discussed than any book before the public.

It is appearing now in the Sunday TRIBUNE.

Three Minute Journeys By Temple Manning

The tabloid trek to far places, a little journey in which is packed odd bits of information not otherwise available to the busy man or woman, is supplied to readers of The TRIBUNE by Temple Manning.

With Manning the reader one evening will step from a ship into the busy ports of Japan, will learn of the significance of the insignia on the backs of the coolies and tradesmen and on another he will stop off in Bombay, Calcutta, or Vladivostok. Little uestions concerning which the average man may have wondered and been too occupied to explore for the answer are settled, new lights are thrown on old peoples, and far places are brought nearer. The 'Three Minute Journeys" of Temple Manning are not a bit of the guide book and statistical sort, but are of human interest, entertaining and authoritative. That is why they are so popular.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

"Everything about the house helps to make the home."

With the above in mind and with experience and knowledge as aides Wanda Barton has been segregating those things which make the home and offering words of suggestion and advice. Her department. "Home-Making Helps," as it appears in The TRIBUNE, is not a mere compendium of how to remove ink spots and how to make a pin cushion out of an old shoe. Instead, it is a friendly corner for household discussion, a corner filled with valuable pointers, and with that kind of advice that supplies the stimulus to make of housekeeping the profession or art that it should be. Wanda Barton's province is to remove drudgery and to add to that supply of incentive which makes of the real home-keeper a happy woman.

SONGS of FRANK L. STANTON

Long ago original and individual verses which appeared in the Atlanta Constitution began to attract the attention of the whole country. There was a whimsical quirk in the lines, a dash of horse-sense philosophy, and a way of handling the negro dialect. For years the writer was content to let other papers copy his efforts and also content to let the Constitution take all the credit. No one, outside of Atlanta, knew that Frank L. Stanton was the man who wrote the verses.

But fame was not to be denied and today Stanton, who still sings in Atlanta, has an audience all over the country. He is a singer of optimism, a master of unusual meter and a wizard at fitting the quaint and the homely into most readable measures. It is not surprising that since Stanton's poems have appeared in The TRIBUNE that he has numbered hundreds more of admirers.

RECIPES by DELMONICO'S CHEF

The best of cooks is none too good for TRIBUNE readers. Those housewives who would surprise and delight the lord of the household with the same concoctions that made Delmonico's in New York's famous, have the opportunity to follow the instructions of Delmonico's famous chef. The range is everything from soup to nuts and the hints are those that come from a master.

Famous "WITS" of History

Men and events are often remembered for the funny stories told of them. Mark Stuyvesant has collected the utterances of famous wits of history and has presented them in concise form for the readers of The TRIBUNE. These are little stories of men and women whose sayings are still remembered, stories of humor and historical significance. They entertain and they aid in fixing in memory dates and figures that might otherwise escape.

'Isn't That True' Is Right of Westerman

The pencil of Westerman sketches men and women in all walks of life doing those illuminative little things that distinguish each from the other. Westerman seems to idle about waiting for the human being to step out of the general and do the thing that marks him for the particular sort of man or woman that he is. He has put all the types from the end girl in the chorus, the lounge lizard, the magazine fan, the society gossip and the callow freshman to the dumpy dowager and the movie-vampire.

Little Ones Find Pleasure in Poet

The test of a child's poem is on the child. Fred Emerson Brooks has written some "Father Goose Rhymes," that jig and trip along with a repetition that demands the singsong chant and a perkiness that entrances the young listener. The "Father Goose Rhymes" with pictures, are a feature of The Sunday TRIBUNE.

ONE HUNDRED GREAT AMERICANS by Mark Stuyvesant

Great Americans and their stories are placed before TRIBUNE readers in a series of pen portraits by Mark Stuyvesant. Two fifty-six enshrined in the "Hall of Fame" and some not so honored but more famous for all of that, are described in the series which is to appear. The stories do not pretend to be life histories and are but illuminative high lights on the men and their significant actions.

Winifred Black's Column

Winifred Black is said to be the highest paid newspaper woman in the world. She it was who first discovered the recipe for homely every day talks and who had the ability to write forcefully and entertainingly on the widest possible range of subjects. One day she tells about "The Gay Old Boy," a sixty-year old husband who went "out with the boys" and of the wife who looked for him in vain. This is but a sample of the themes selected of a range of all of the domestic problems and to each Winifred Black gives scrupulous attention with all of the philosophy and womanliness that has made her famous. Common-sense optimism, wholesome heart-to-heart talks, these are supplied by this writer.

Just Folks by Edgar A. Guest

There is no one in Alameda county who does not know Edgar A. Guest as an old friend. His rhymes, as they appear daily in The TRIBUNE, have been spoken from school, church and lodge platforms, have been read at the fireside and by the campfire and have been committed to memory by hundreds of his admirers.

Guest is a poet who loves men and women, simple deeds and honest hearts. He strives for no Olympian flights and is not concerned with the tricks and conceits of the "newer" brand of poets.

"And with love on guard at my humble door,
I have all that the world has struggled for."

These lines from one of his recent verses reflect the spirit of the man who is acclaimed as Riley was acclaimed and who holds a place close to the hearts of thousands.

AT HOME.

I've trudged life's highway up and down,
I've watched the lines of men march by,
I've seen them in the busy town,
And seen them under country sky;
I've talked with toilers in the ranks,
And walked with men whose hands were white,
And learned, when closed were stores and banks,
We're nearly all alike at night.

Just find the wise professor when
He isn't lost in ancient lore,
And he, like many other men,
Romps with his children on the floor;
He puts his gravity aside
To share in innocent delight,
Stripped of position's pomp and pride,
We're nearly all the same at night.

Serving a common cause, we go
Unto our separate tasks by day,
And rich or poor or great or low,
Regardless of their place or pay,
Cherish the common dreams of men—
A home where love and peace unite.
We serve the self-same end and plan,
We're all alike when it is night.

Each for his loved ones wants to do
His utmost. Brothers are we all,
When we have run the work-day through,
In romping with our children small.
Rich men and poor delight in play
When care and caste have taken flight.
At home, in all we think and say
We're very much the same at night.

Late FASHION Hints

When planning the spring dress, coat, waist or skirt there are so many things to consider that the average woman is forced to allow the season to approach before she has mastered the details. In these days when one cannot forecast the length of a skirt or whether a petticoat is to be or not to be, it is important to have the counsel of an expert. Annette Bradshaw is such an expert doubly equipped because she has the ability to picture gowns and such not only in words but in drawing. Her fashion hints are always the latest and always authentic, facts which hundreds of women in the East-bay will attest. That is why the woman who plans her own clothes looks on Annette Bradshaw, in The TRIBUNE, as a friend in need.

Letters of Tessie & Joe.

"Don't drink any wooden alcohol," is the parting advice of Joe, the traveling salesman, when he closes one of his letters to Tessie, his unterrified wife. What Joe and Tessie can do to the English language, their domestic felicity expressed in terms of canned soup and the sayings of a young hopeful, and some hard sense observations couched in mixed slang and surprising metaphor, is the sum and content of the "Letters of Tessie and Joe," appearing each day in The TRIBUNE. Many of Tessie's retors to the inimitable Mrs. Fink are quoted in many a household. Joe and Tessie step right out of fact with only that exaggeration which may be permitted for the sake of a laugh. They are just as much residents of Oakland as if their names appeared in the directory.

The WOMAN HATER by RUBY AYERS

Ruby Ayers is the Adele Garrison of England. Her fiction of throbs, sobs and joyous moments, human interest stories of domestic life, has taken most unusual hold on the British populace. Books by Ruby Ayers have sold like hot cakes and her fame has spread like fire. That is the reason that The TRIBUNE secured her "The Woman Hater," that American readers might be introduced to this woman who is becoming more and more a favorite on this side of the Atlantic.

CRY on Geraldine's SHOULDER

Have you ever cried—

On Geraldine's shoulder? Most certainly, you will reply, you have not, yet one can not misrepresent the truth to one's self. If you have, it's no one else's business, and no one will ever know it outside of Geraldine herself, for Geraldine, whose shoulder has held up many a pretty head bowed in sorrow, has never yet breathed a name of any of those who have come to her seeking advice. If you but knew Geraldine personally, and perhaps you do, you would never feel backward about crying on her shoulder—not in a million years.

To testify that something extremely out of the ordinary has happened in the editorial rooms of The TRIBUNE is the postman who brings the letters. Twice, three—four times a day he comes, bringing an armful of letters for Geraldine, whom he calls Jerry. Never has such a deluge of letters flooded The TRIBUNE offices. It's getting to be a habit, this telling of one's troubles, one's happiness and one's ambitions to Jerry, and of asking her advice.

And it's a good habit. One is not only made comfortable by Jerry's advice but finds comfort in the fact that others, too, have like troubles, which lightens the burden and shifts the load from one shoulder to another.

The first thought when perplexing thoughts arise in Jerry and her shoulder, where troubles usually come to an abrupt end. Jerry is a real pal and her advice is strength. Don't forget that that's her mission—to comfort and strengthen the weak. Call on her often.

Genius of Actress Recognized

Mary Pickford Is Pet of Every People

Tribune Is Telling Life Story

It is very seldom that genius is so great or personality so charming that either is recognized throughout the world. But it is even more phenomenal when the people of all civilized nations, from the aristocratic and cooly critical Londoner to the grass-clothed natives of South Africa, join in recognition of the genius and in adulation of "America's Sweetheart."

When Mary and Doug stopped off in London for a visit the streets were jammed tighter than when the king passed. There was no stint in the praise that was heaped on the head of this golden-curled westerner whose subtle charm is so appealing.

One of London's most conservative newspapers called Mary Pickford the world's greatest woman. Another sent a special writer across the Atlantic and to Mary's little home in her native Hollywood. It was the case of recognition of the merit of the new world by the old.

When the London paper chose Hayden Talbot to write the life of Mary Pickford, it did so because he was believed to be a big enough man for the task. The product of his interview with the little actress has justified the choice.

The interpretation of Mary's story is written with a feeling that shows the writer has received the inspiration of that of which he writes. It is replete with the charm of the little actress—the charm that has made her so well loved. Talbot says that he has found Mary Pickford a real woman with real ideas and ideals, and that conception he has passed along in the story which is appearing in The TRIBUNE each Sunday just as it is appearing before the London readers of "Answers," the first story of Mary's life.

Lord Northcliff conceived the idea of getting the story from Mary. "Mary Pickford's Life, as Told by Herself," is one of the newspaper sensations of the year. It is a triumph which The TRIBUNE shares equally with Lord Northcliffe's publication.

Beauty Talks by LUCREZIA BORI

The old-fashioned "beauty column" with its lotions and its notions is as far removed from the modern department of name hints toward pulchritude as is the baseball score from the Browning class. For The TRIBUNE readers, Lucrezia Bori, famous Spanish prima donna, has revealed the secrets of her beauty and the things she has learned that will interest any woman who is concerned as to her looks.

LUCREZIA BORI

"How your instaps and ankle may be made more beautiful," is the title of one recent article which recommends some easy and practical means of securing a pleasing contour. The word of Lucrezia Bori on these subjects is the last word and there are few women who will not be interested in what she has to say.

Uncle Wiggily Stories by HOWARD R. GARIS

Every time The TRIBUNE leaves the Garis bedtime story out, for one reason or another, a score of childish voices sound reproach over the telephone. Garis, with his Uncle Wiggily and Nurse Jane has become a part of the child life of the community. There are hundreds of children in the county who go to bed each night thinking over the Uncle Wiggily story that was brought them in The TRIBUNE.

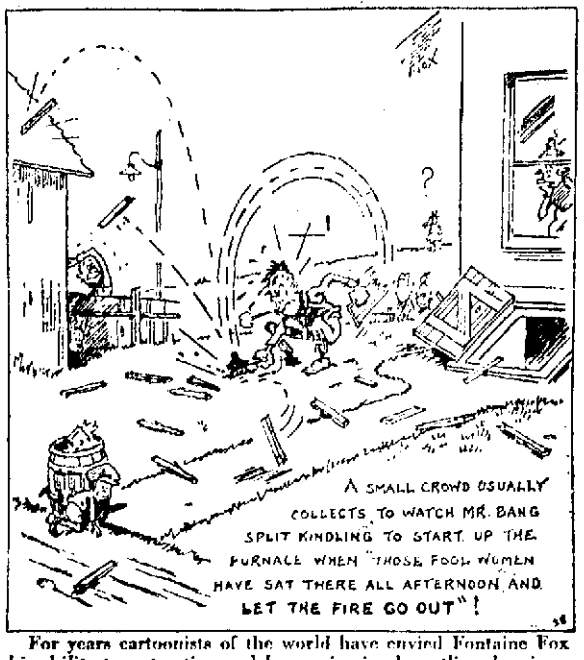

The Home Kitchen by JEANNETTE YOUNG NORTON

To be up-to-the-minute in cookery without wasting time by experimenting in the frivolous or dabbling in doubt, is the ambition of most every housewife. Jeannette Young Norton, whose "Mrs. Norton's Cook Book" adorns many a pantry shelf, is supplying recipes and suggestions to hundreds of Alameda county women in the columns of The TRIBUNE. The result has been more contentment in the homes.

About YOUR HEALTH

Dr. Royal S. Copeland is commissioner of health of New York City and widely known not only as a physician and surgeon, but for his views on preventive medicine. The TRIBUNE, on its editorial page, runs, each day an article from the pen of Dr. Copeland, constructive and helpful suggestions for the benefit of bodily well-being. These sane health sermons have given Dr. Copeland a definite place in hundreds of Eastbay households and there are many letters to show that his influence toward proper living has been reflected in community health.

The Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang

For years cartoonists of the world have envied Fontaine Fox his ability to put action and humor in simple outline drawings. His homely themes, the every-day hilarity he extracts from the doings of ordinary persons, and the simple truths that make his drawings applicable in any locality have won him the greatest following of any American artist.

Aunt Eppie Hogg, the Toonerville Trolley, the Terrible Tempered Mr. Bang, the bearded villagers and the scampering kids are known from one end of the country to another. Fox's cartoons are an exclusive feature of The TRIBUNE in the San Francisco bay district.

Clara Morris HAS THIS TO SAY—

It takes art to write of the common in simple manner. Clara Morris is an artist in that she approaches difficult themes in popular way and succeeds in intriguing an attention. Her reward is in the appreciation of thousands of readers who feel that they owe to her the introduction to many lines of thought that are being discussed in centers of the world. Clara Morris calls the public's attention to the movements of the day, to the problems that are pertinent, and to the things that it should know. All the while she writes so well and so readably that her circle is constantly expanding. In many of the cities of the world Clara Morris is quoted for her popular interpretations of the things worth while.

Abe Martin

Abe Martin with his funny hat, his striped trousers, big hands and generous boots, is a creation of pen and ink—and yet he is more real to thousands of folks, than Bryan, or Fuzzyfoot Johnson, of the Prince of Wales. Abe's business in life is chewing a straw and uttering generalities with a punch. Abe's jokes are peculiarly his own and he is so consistent in striking the funny bone that he has emerged from his Indiana village a famous man. But fame hasn't robbed him of his homely humor or his ability to pack away in simple statement a bundle of hilarious content. Somebody must be wearin' petticoats, he says, or they wouldn't be spending money advertising them. That is his kind of a joke, his indirect method of approach. Abe is the philosopher of the fence rail who dispenses his wares exclusively in The TRIBUNE in the Eastbay community.

Russia's Story of Gripping History

No country has taken so many unexpected flings at the game of changing history as has Russia. There is no story so dramatic, so unexpected, so tense and so tragic as this one that comes out of the land of the Slav and which is the modern approach to the French revolution.

Count Sergius Witte has been in the midst of things in the old and newer regime. He knows the figures in the grim show and he knows how to write of what he has seen and heard. His "Memoirs" as they have appeared and are appearing in the Sunday TRIBUNE have been contributions to that permanent record which is being written concerning Russia.

Naturalist Leach Tells of Out-doors

Frank Leach has been revealed by The TRIBUNE as a naturalist of a wide range of observation, a student of his State and its life, and an entertaining writer. His stories of the life of California, from bugs to bears, have been acclaimed the best of the kind that have appeared in years and there is a demand that they be published in book form. They are appearing first in The TRIBUNE, fresh from the pen of a man who is a lover of the out-of-doors and of all the things that make the forest, streams, ground and air animate.

O. Henry Stories Tribune Feature

Every once in a while The TRIBUNE slips in an O. Henry story on Sunday. Since O. Henry died the short story writers of the country have sought to find a logical successor. There have been many imitators, many aspirants, and O. Henry still stands alone. Readers of The TRIBUNE will find the O. Henry stories a welcome part of the literary diet offered for the year.

THIRTY YEARS OF MISERY FROM BLOOD DISORDERS

Angelo Johnson

During this long period I suffered untold agonies from painful eruptions due to impurities of the blood. I went from one hospital to another and spent my entire earnings year after year, but obtained no relief.
Finally I went to the Fong Wan Herb Co. and drank their herb tea. I began to improve immediately and now, after three months of this mild and harmless treatment, my system is thoroughly cleansed and my sores all gone. Out of gratitude for this marvelous relief after thirty years of despair, I am giving this company my photo and testimonial. My address can be obtained at their office.

SING HERBS RELIEVE STOMACH GROWTH

Ulcers or cancer of the stomach, which threatened James Garat, 527 East Tenth street, Oakland, with serious trouble, disappeared under treatment by the famous Sing Herb Specialists, Garat tells his story in the following letter:
TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
Six months ago I faced an operation for ulcers or cancer of the stomach, according to diagnosis of local physicians who showed me X-ray plates picturing my stomach spotted with a growth of some kind I determined to try the Sing Herb Specialists' treatments before I submitted to an operation. After treating with them for the past five months, I have recovered my strength, increased my weight by twenty-five pounds, no longer suffer agonies of pain in my stomach and abdomen, and have no difficulty in eating or digesting my meals Now X-ray plates show the growth gone. I am overjoyed at the opportunity of telling people about my remarkable experience with the Sing Herb Specialists They saved me from a terrible operation and are probably responsible for my being alive today.

MERCHANTS SEEK REDUCTION OF FREIGHT RATES

Organization Formed by Retailers of Bay Region to Deal With Carriers.

Representatives of mercantile establishments in the bay region have formed the Central California Traffic Association to bring about closer co-operation between shippers, consignees and common carriers, it was announced today by the officials of the new organization.

According to the announcement the association plans to deal with railroad, steamship and express company rates and also to arrange for the consolidation of tonnage in order that the members can obtain carload rates on shipments. The officers of the organization are: A. T. White, traffic manager of the Emporium, president, and J. C. Burt, traffic manager of H. C. Capwell company, secretary.

Meetings are held the first and third Thursdays of every month in the Liebes building, room 609, 177 Post street, San Francisco.

Among the firms now members of this association are The Emporium, the City of Paris Dry Goods Co., O'Connor, Moffatt & Co., Marks Brothers, H. C. Capwell Company, The White House, Hale Bros., Sherman, Clay & Co., Retail Furniture Dealers' Association, Kahn Brothers, Weinstock, Lubin & Co., Sacramento.

State Commission's Acts Are Defended

The Northern California Retail Grocers association, through R. H. Bennett, secretary, has promulgated a resolution in defense of the state railroad commission.

"We deprecate the criticism of the California railroad commission and express confidence that any impartial examinations must exonerate it therefrom and demonstrate its able and honorable discharge of duty," says the body.

The resolution declares its belief in the ability of good intent of the commission and defends its grant of increases in rates to public utilities by implication.

EXCHANGE RATE MENACES TRADE WITH ARGENTINA

U. S. Exporters Must Bear a Part of Loss, Claim of Importers.

BUENOS AYRES, Jan. 31.—Advancing exchange rates and decreasing prices during the past few months have resulted in a dispute over the payment of between $40,000,000 and $45,000,000 of American merchandise, which is either tied up in the Argentine customs house, or is on its way to this port. This statement was made by Horacio B. Varla, a prominent lawyer, who last night addressed the annual banquet of the U. S. chamber of commerce here.

Senor Varla discussed the possibilities of solving the conflict between American exporters and Argentine buyers over the acceptance of this merchandise and payment without loss. He declared the solution was to be found only in private agreements between themselves, each accepting natural losses. The danger of the United States losing its advantageous position in the foreign trade during the lack of an international policy was dwelt upon by Jorge Mitre, director of La Nacion.

He praised the work done by the chamber in bringing pressure to bear for the purpose of preventing the passage of the Fordney emergency traffic bill by the United States congress.

Two Vallejo Banks Plan Consolidation

VALLEJO, Jan. 31.—What promises to be a $7,000,000 banking deal is in the making in this city as a result of a meeting held here on Saturday evening when steps were taken to consolidate the Commercial National and First National Banks of Vallejo. W. K. Cole, Oakland banker and owner of the Commercial National Bank is the promoter of the deal and it is said that the consolidation will occur in four or five months. The first steps taken on Saturday was to elect D. A. Brosnahan of the Commercial Bank as president of the First National Bank. Brosnahan was also madet a director of the Firs National Bank along with William Widenman taking the places of G. R. Cadan and A. B. Coronado.

McAdoo's Mexico Mission Is Personal

MEXICO CITY, Jan. 31.—William G. McAdoo former secretary of the United States Treasury, was not coming to Mexico on a mission of a political character, a high official of the foreign relations department said last night. He stated further that McAdoo was a representative of American stockholders of the national railway company and would take part in the negotiations with the Mexican government regarding the return of the national lines to their owners.

CRUDE OIL PRICES.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 31.—The principal oil purchasing agencies today announced a further reduction in price of crude oil. Pennsylvania Crude was cut 50c, bringing the new price to $5 a barrel. Cabel was reduced to $3.71, Somerset Light to $3.75; Somerset to $3.50 and Ragland to $1.75, a reduction of 25 cents a barrel.

COFFEE MARKET

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—Coffee: Spot No. 7 Rio, 6¾@7c; Santos, 9¾@10¼c.

Local Market Notes

The first Arkansas "yams" ever to be offered in the Oakland market were had by two houses today and sold fairly readily at 7½c a pound. A total of 200 baskets of them was brought to Oakland out of a full car that arrived in the San Francisco market Friday.

The "yams" are of the Nancy Hall variety and the shipment to the bay region markets has been attempted as an experiment. These sweet potatoes have already been successfully introduced to other coast markets—Seattle, Portland and Los Angeles—during the last few weeks and, according to local dealers have been well received.

A carload of "yams" was brought into Turlock last year from Arkansas and used as seed and their cultivation proved highly successful. Four or five carloads of seed are to be planted this year and indications are that the Nancy Hall yam will soon have a firm foothold in the center of California's sweet potato growing industry.

The project of a syndicate of San Joaquin valley capitalists to organize a corporation to venture into the manufacture of commercial alcohol from the roots and second-grade tubers of the sweet potato plant is being discussed locally.

Every year hundreds of tons of this offal of the sweet potato industry are thrown away or allowed to rot. It has been heretofore a deadhead loss and any project which can make use of it is at least assured of an extensive supply of cheap raw material. Some of the roots are sold for hog food and in this bring $5 or $6 a ton, but for the last few years the cost of handling them has become too great to make it profitable.

According to local reports, the syndicate plans a $500,000 factory for the manufacture of alcohol from the sweet potato refuse which is to be located at Turlock.

Lettuce from the Alamo district of Imperial Valley is selling readily at $3.25 top in the local market. This is a premium of 25c over the usual run of Imperial valley lettuce. A carload was received of this goods today.

The potato market is stiffening this week and an advance of 10c on the hundred on both river and Nevada Potatoes is noted at the start of the week.

Los Angeles peas and Los Angeles rhubarb are both cheaper today. Peas slumped from 12½c to 10@11c and the rhubarb was moving slowly at a reduction of 25c on the box down to $2.25@2.50.

Los Angeles bell peppers are firmer, a stronger demand being noted with the receipt of improved quality of peppers. Brussels sprouts were scarce today and brought as high as 18c. Dealers report the season is about closed for sprouts.

Receipt of several carloads of large colored hens from eastern shippers in the San Francisco market caused a slight weakening in the price of this line today. Small broilers are in good demand and scarcely any are being received so the price advanced today 5c a pound to 55@60c.

Eggs continued their downward movement of the last ten days ... when they dropped 5½c on the ... Francisco Dairy Produce ...

Oil—Mining

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 31.—Divides, Eureka and Goldfield mining shares opened buoyant on the San Francisco Exchange today and the list in general took on a healthier tone. Eureka Croesus was the sensation, touching a new high of $1.37½ when the squeeze on the New York short interest was tightened. Divide Tonopah rallied to $1.35 on a reported improvement in the property, and other issues of the same group strengthened in sympathy. Crackerjack was unusually active at 9 and 10 cents, Florence found a market at 30 cents and Jumbo Extension advanced on bids and offers. Broken Hills was steady and active, while Comstocks remained relatively quiet.

GAINS, LOSSES ARE SHOWN ON N. Y. EXCHANGE

Oil Stocks Are Feature of the Market; Foreign Exchange Reported Dull.

NEW YORK, Jan. 31.—In the stock market the week opened with a mixture of gains and losses. Associated Oil, last week's strongest feature, soon rose 1¾ points, but other specialties of that class, notably Mexican Petroleum, were lower. The same irregularity was shown by steels and equipments. Motors and their subsidiaries scored variable advances, as well as several of the secondary rails. Foreign exchange was dull, the British rate recording a nominal reaction.

The list cancelled most of its early advance on selling of Crucible, Mexican Petroleum, hide and leather preferred and Sumatra Tobacco. Associated Oil also reacted. Rallies ensued on buying of general Asphalt and several of the independent steels and rubber shares. Another reversal occurred before noon, Studebaker falling 2½ points on rumors regarding the dividend which the directors are expected to declare later in the day. The cheaper rails, especially New Orleans, Texas and Mexico, made further gains. Call money opened at 7 per cent and exchange on London continued to decline.

Declaration of the regular dividend effected a 3 point rally in Studebaker common at midday and leading oils rose over their best prices of the morning. Food and copper shares strengthened, but rails reflected. Smelting stabilized other metals in the later dealings, but this advantage was lost on the rise of call money to 8 per cent. The closing was heavy. Sales approximated 500,000 shares.

WATERFRONT NEWS

The steamer Empress of Asia is due to arrive at Vancouver, B. C., today from the Orient, and, according to her wireless, she has 747 passengers, 2100 tons of silk and 200 tons of Chinese eggs, among her cargo.

The motor schooner Nuuanu, which arrived here from Manila on January 12, with 1284 tons of coconut oil, is again loaded and ready to sail. She has a cargo of gasoline, consigned to the U. S. Government for Balboa. The Nuuanu is owned by the Philippine Vegetable Oil company of Manila.

Owing to the shortage of coastwise lumber steamers, the lumber market at this port is falling short, and the docks are beginning to look empty. Four vessels are due today from the north, which will help along until the fleet, now on its way north, returns here. Lumber is in great demand here, but freights are so low, the steamers cannot run for the price offered.

The steamer Santa Inez arrived in port on January 27, from Tacoma, and brought 2230 tons of wheat to W. R. Grace & Company, and went to South Vallejo, where she is unloading her cargo. She will then come to Oakland harbor to drydock for her annual inspection and will then load a general cargo for South America.

The barkentine Edward May, which arrived here on November 4, from Callao for repairs, is at Alameda overhauling. She is owned by the Rolph Navigation and Coal company, and may load lumber for an off shore port, if a charter can be secured.

The whaling schooner Carolyn Francis, which left Oakland harbor, on October 28, for a whaling voyage to the south pole, so far has not sent in any reports of her welfare. She was purchased by Louis Lane from the Nortern Commercial company, and was fitted with gas engines before she sailed. It is expected that word will be heard of her soon from some South American port.

The new steamer Creole State, Captain John Miller, of the Pacific Mail line is almost loaded with freight and is now placed on the board to sail for Calcutta on Thursday next. It was the intention of the company to have the vessel sail on February 1, but so much freight was offered that it was impossible for her to get away on time. Her passenger accommodations are mostly all taken.

Change of masters registered at the U. S. Customs House:

Captain Chas. Reiner, steamer Santa Monica.

Captain A. Hansen, Steamer Santa Barbara.

Captain G. Stocker, Steamer Coolcha.

Captain J. Olsen, Gas launch E. Antoni.

The column of heights gives the elevation each tide above or below the plane of Coast Survey Chart Soundings. The numbers are always additive to the chart depths, unless preceded by the minus sign or dash (—), when the numbers are subtractive from depths given on the chart.

Note—In the above tabulation of tides, the daily tides are given in the order of their occurrence commencing with the early morning tide in the left-hand column and the successive tides as they occur. On some days but three tides occur, the fourth occurring the following morning.

WEATHER FORECAST

Oakland and Vicinity—Probably occasional rain; moderate southerly winds.

Northern California—Tonight and Tuesday fair south, probably rain north portion; light frost in early morning south portion; moderate southerly winds.

Southern California—Tonight and Tuesday fair; heavy frost in the early morning; gentle northerly winds.

Santa Clara Valley—Tonight and Tuesday unsettled and occasionally threatening; moderate southerly winds.

San Joaquin Valley—Tonight and Tuesday fair; light frost in the early morning; gentle variable winds.

Idaho—Tonight fair; Tuesday probably snow.

Washington and Oregon—Tonight and Tuesday rain west, rain or snow east portion; strong southeasterly winds.

CONDITIONS.

A low pressure area of considerable energy is approaching British Columbia from the ocean, and the barometer is relatively high over California and Nevada. Light rain has fallen in southern California, western Oregon and Washington and in extreme northwestern California. Rain and snow has fallen in northern Nevada, eastern Oregon, eastern Washington and Idaho. The storm Saturday afternoon and night along the North Pacific coast was the most severe on record. Maximum wind velocities occurred conservatively estimated at 150 miles southeast at Northhead and 110 miles southwest at Tatoosh Island.

Conditions are favorable for rain tonight and Tuesday in the northern half of California, western Oregon and western Washington, and for snow in the Plateau sections of this district. Increasing southerly winds will occur along the south coast.

Manila Bond Issue Approved by Palmer

WASHINGTON, Jan. 31.—Actions by Congress in 1916 limiting the indebtedness the Philippine government may incur to $15,000,000 is without application to the amount of indebtedness that may be contracted by any municipal subdivision of the islands, according to a ruling by Attorney-General Palmer.

In an opinion to Secretary Baker he declared an issue of bonds of $2,750,000 by Manila would be a valid obligation, irrespective of whether that amount added to the indebtedness of the Philippines government would cause the indebtedness to exceed $15,000,000.

Morris & Co. Profits Decrease $2,574,874

CHICAGO, Jan. 31.—The annual statement of Morris & Company, packers, shows a decrease of $2,000,000 in surplus in 1920 below that of 1919, and a decrease of $2,574,874 in net profits.

The statement showed that the capital stock had been increased from $3,000,000 to $40,000,000, the $27,000,000 being taken from surplus.

Net profits were $4,270,597 against $6,345,471 in 1919.

Though poor he seems,

just as you,

GOVERNOR OPENS TAX BILL FIGHT IN ADDRESS HERE

Executive and Clyde L. Seavey Will Speak in Maple Hall This Evening.

Oakland this evening will see the opening of Governor William D Stephens' campaign to place the King tax bill before the voters The governor and Clyde L Seavey members of the state board of control will talk on the proposed method of equalizing utility corporation and general taxes at Maple hall this evening.

Since the defeat of the King tax bill in the assembly a week ago both sides have planned to take the issue to the people Governor Stephens and administration leaders have adopted as their slogan "Shall the corporations or the people govern California" and have charged that the supporters of the bill are "tools" of the corporations Opponents declare that if corporation taxes are raised rates will be increased and that the public will have to pay in the end

Some of them are favoring a delay in the tax matter until it can be ascertained whether or not the budget can be trimmed and if some economy can be effected in the administration of the state government. The bill required a two-thirds vote to pass and failed by five votes in the assembly after carrying in the senate.

YOUNG TO PRESIDE

Lieutenant Governor C C Young will preside at tonight's meeting which is scheduled to open at 8 o'clock. Tomorrow evening the governor will speak at Stockton, where Senator Frank Boggs will preside On Wednesday he will speak at Sacramento and on Thursday at Fresno

In an open letter Governor Stephens states the position he will take in the campaign which is to occupy the thirty days between sessions of the legislature The letter says

The people of California are again confronted with the definite issue of whether the people themselves or the allied corporations are to control California's state government.

Will the people permit the great corporations to evade their just share of taxation? Will the plain people of the state consent to bear their due proportion of city and county taxes, and in addition, shoulder the state taxes the corporations should justly pay? Will every merchant, farmer and homeowner consent to paying 22 cents additional to what he now pays on every hundred dollars in order that the corporations may pay less than they should? Shall the people or the corporations govern California."

QUESTION AT ISSUE

The State Equalization Board and the State Board of Control have found the particular corporations from which our revenues are obtained should submit to certain increases if they are to bear an equal tax burden with the general taxpayer The present tax question is wholly one of equalization of taxes

The corporations at the present time are refusing to accept their just burden If they are successful in the legislature it will follow the people must submit to an ad valorem levy amounting to approximately 22 per cent on each hundred dollars of assessed valuation.

The state needs additional funds for the next two-year period because of the $13,500 000 voted by the people for the public schools, particularly to increase the salaries of teachers and also because of
